NATIONALISTS DECLARE WAR ON BRUENING

Fascists Join in Militant Congress; Hugenberg and Hitler Lead.

GROUP WILL DEMAND ELECTION FOR NOV. 8

U.S. Warned to Make Choice Between Hitlerites and Bolshevik Rule.

Harzburg, Germany, Oct. 11 (U. P.).—Germany's militant Nationalists, led by the dapper, ambitious Adolph Hitler and the powerful Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, stormed into Harzburg today, thundering their demand for immediate control of the national government.

Declaring uncompromising warfare on the new cabinet of Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, the leaders of the Nationalist - Fascist Congress announced amid cheers that Germany must choose at once between "the bolshevism of Russia and the nationalism of Germany."

Many of the party leaders predicted the overthrow of the Bruening government in the Reichstag, which reopens Tuesday, and the assumption of power by a Nationalist-Fascist combination within two weeks.

Stalwart brown-shirted Fascists and gray-clad members of the Steel Helmets, war veteran organization, mingled with 600 delegates to the congress to cheer Hitler, Hugenberg and Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, noted economist and former head of the Reichsbank, who caused a sensation by a bitter speech in which he accused Bruening's government of concealing the "catastrophic financial position" of Germany.

Warns U. S. of Bolshevism.

Hugenberg, addressing the congress, warned the United States that it may be confronted with a "Bolshevist menace" unless it resorts to nationalist capitalism rather than international capitalism, and he appealed to America for an alliance with Britain, Germany and other nations against France.

Concluding, he asserted that unless Bruening yields power to the Nationalists, "We will be obliged to storm the heights of power." The Fascists have attempted or plotted various violent attempts to seize the reins of government in recent years, but the warning from Hugenberg was unexpected. The Nationalist party leader, however, said the nation had "reached the cross-roads" and must fight off the threat of Bolshevism with nationalism.

Hitler, the slight, fiery Fascist leader, was given a deafening ovation by the congress. He and other Fascist leaders reiterated their long-standing demands for scrapping of the democratic system in Germany, nullification of the Versailles treaty and granting of equal armaments for Germany. He announced that when the Reichstag reconvenes the Fascists will demand dissolution and a general election on November 8, an ironical gesture by the Fascists because the birthday of the German republic is on that day.

Hitler Sees Fight to Finish.

Hitler told the delegates at the congress that either communism or nationalism must rule Germany and said the time had come for "a fight to the finish."

Brown-shirted Fascists and members of the Steel Helmets lined the streets of Harzburg, a quiet little watering place lying in the shadow of a monument to the "Iron Chancellor," Bismarck, and pounded drums until the uprear echoed through the mountainside in honor of Hitler. Military marches were played by bands and Hitler was greeted repeatedly with the Fascist salute.

The appearance of Dr. Schacht, one of Europe's outstanding economists

Search for Wreck Of Blimp Fruitless

Quest Is Given Up in West Virginia After All-Day Trek.

Point Pleasant, W. Va., Oct. 11 (A. P.).—Search for a blimp reported to have crashed and burned in the hills south of this city was abandoned tonight after a fruitless all-day search.

Sheriff H. E. Burdette, of Mason County, and State Trooper H. E. Pomroy said they would lead no more searching parties and Lieut. Eckford Hodgson, pilot at the Gallipolis, Ohio, airport, after three flights seeking the blimp, said he would not go aloft again.

A party headed by Sheriff Burdette went into the woods shortly after midnight Saturday, after receiving reports of a fallen blimp, and returned to Point Pleasant at dawn. Other parties continued the search during the day, but no definite word of an air accident could be obtained.

Some persons who said they witnessed the accident described the blimp as plunging to the ground in flames, men leaping from it in parachutes as it fell. No reports of a missing blimp were received from any source.

1,000 Irish Lottery Letters Seized Here

Hospital Sweepstakes Committee Reported Flooding United States With Prohibited Slips in Camouflaged Envelopes; Contents Confiscated.

Lottery tickets on the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes are being seized in the city postoffice by a force of customs inspectors as part of a Nation-wide drive by Government officials against importation of the tickets, which are based on the Manchester Handicap, to be held in England next month.

For the past ten days, it was learned by The Post, a corps of six customs inspectors, under Deputy Commissioner L. J. Woytych, have been stopping all mail which they suspected of containing prohibited matter. This procedure is being followed in all ports of entry. Hundreds of thousands of the lottery tickets have been confiscated.

More than 1,000 letters containing tickets have been confiscated here. Many envelopes containing tickets have passed the customs inspection, however, because the envelopes have no distinctive markings. All those seized have been written in long hand, and had their origin in Limerick, Ireland.

Lotteries are forbidden under the law of the Irish Free State. An exception was made last year, however, when the Irish Parliament legalized lotteries, the proceeds of which were to be used to aid hospitals.

The first lottery was held in March, and was based on the Grand National race. Winners included Emilia Scala, a London coffee shop owner, who won $1,772,720, and Clayton C. Woods, of Buffalo, N. Y., who won $886,360.

Early this month the letters began straggling into the postoffice. Customs officials and Postoffice Department officials were on the alert for their arrival and the confiscations began, since importation of the tickets is contrary to the customs law.

Letters are sent by authorities to the addressees, advising them that there is mail at the postoffice which might contain prohibited matter. When the addressee appears at the postoffice, the letter is opened with the addressee's consent and in his presence, and the contents are then seized.

In each letter is advertising material and two books of tickets, each book containing twelve tickets. The

HIT-RUN AUTO KILLS GIRL; 2 OTHERS HURT

Speeding Sedan Sideswipes Car in Maryland; Victim Is Unidentified.

A hit-and-run driver sideswiped an automobile last night on the Lay Hill-Glenmont road and left in his wake an unidentified young woman dead, and seriously injured two of her four companions.

The unidentified woman is believed to have made her home on Bates street, near North Capitol street northwest. Those seriously injured are Ruth Dunn, who lives near North Capitol street and New York avenue, and Jack Clinedinst, of 1514 North Capitol street. They are in the Montgomery County General Hospital at Sandy Spring, Md.

Miss Dunn is unconscious. She is believed to have received a fractured skull when the automobile overturned twice after being struck by the hit-and-run car. Clinedinst's chest was reported crushed and he is being treated for possible internal injuries.

With them were William A. Scroggins, of 223 P street northwest, and Theodore Breeden, of 69 Seaton place northwest, who were less seriously injured. After treatment at the hospital they were taken into custody by police and held at Silver Spring substation on a charge of investigation.

Montgomery County police said the automobile, carrying three men and two young women, left the vicinity of Bates and North Capitol streets earlier in the evening, for a drive into Maryland. While returning from Baltimore on the Lay Hill-Glenmont road, a rapidly driven automobile sideswiped them and over-

Plot to Murder Uriburu Bared

Deciphered Letters Lead to Arrest of Man in Buenos Aires.

Buenos Aires, Oct. 11 (U.P.).—A plot to assassinate President Jose Uriburu for which the assassin would have received 600 pesos was revealed tonight by police. The sum would be about $150 at current exchange.

Police said they discovered the plot by deciphering coded messages mailed from Rosario, Argentina, to a man named Pedro Manrique.

The investigation led to the arrest of Jose Arias, who, according to police confessed that he wrote the messages in which he declared his willingness to kill the president for 600 pesos. He said he had intended to commit suicide afterward. Police said the messages sent to Manrique by Arias were mailed to Uruguayana, Brazil and to Rivera, Uruguay.

PRISONERS DIG HOLE THROUGH JAIL WALL

Piece of Scrap Iron From Cot in Cell Is Used in Delivery of Five.

Fairfax County authorities were diligently seeking five prisoners last night, after discovering that their jail had been victimized for its sixth escape in three years. The five made their way to freedom after digging through the 14-inch walls with a piece of scrap iron torn from one of their cots. They left behind a hole about a foot square through which eleven additional prisoners might have departed to the open spaces.

Two of the escaped prisoners had spent only one day in the jail. They were both sent to the Fairfax Jail Friday from Lorton Reformatory, where they were serving sentences passed upon them by the District of Columbia. They had been transferred to the jail to await action of the Fairfax County grand jury in housebreaking charges against them. These men are William Longstreet, 22 years old, colored, and James Washington, 24 years old, colored.

The other three men who are at liberty are James Carper, of Washington, 25 years old, who was arrested on charges of transporting and possession of liquor and reckless driving, after a 20-mile chase by State Motor Vehicle Inspector Stafford; Grear Dennis, 21 years old, sentenced for an assault on his father-in-law with rocks, and Joseph Wells, colored, 35 years old, serving six years for housebreaking.

Sheriff E. P. Kirby, of Fairfax County, said the men apparently made their way out between 5:30 a. m. and 6 o'clock when roll call is usually held. He said they had been digging away at the walls all night

"Most-Married" Woman Pays Off 11th Husband

Osceola, Ark., Oct. 11.—The eleventh husband of Mrs. Caroline McDonald Paschal, of Urania, La., described by her neighbors as "America's "most-married woman," has returned to his former home here and announced annulment of the marriage.

They had no trouble, L. C. Paschal, 55, said. "She just asked me what it would take for me to leave, and I told her," friends quoted him as saying. "She paid it and I left."

Paschal said the marriage was annulled at Alexandria, La., on October 1. He married the wealthy Louisiana woman last May 5, after a correspondence courtship.

RECORD PARADE IN LONDON HITS CIVIL PAY CUTS

100,000 Marchers Stage Demonstration Marred by Only Few Reds.

MACDONALD TO OPEN SEAHAM FIGHT TODAY

Premier Must Carry Third of Labor Votes in Area to Retain Seat.

London, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—An estimated 100,000 civil servants, with their wives, children and sympathizers, staged one of the greatest and most moving demonstrations of London's long history today along the banks of the Thames, protesting cuts in their wages under the new economy regime.

They marched to the music of twenty bands and to the waving of hundreds of banners. The long parade formed near the Temple and, taking an hour to pass a nearby corner, proceeded to Hyde Park, where a dozen orators made speeches.

Hundreds of mounted police and "Bobbies" on foot kept the lines moving, but there was no disorder. A smaller group of several thousand Communists which marched with the civil servants, however, taxed the best efforts of some 300 policemen who sought to prevent disturbances.

Shout Threats at Windows.

Members of this group several times broke out of the parade lines, dashed up to the windows of homes and hotels from which people were watching and shouted threats until they were pulled back into line by the police.

The Communists carried red flags with the sickle and hammer emblem and large banners on which were pictures of Lenin. Most of them were youths and as they strode along they sang "The Red Flag" and shouted to pedestrians: "You'll be with us soon, too, brother!"

The civil servants marched solemnly and impressively, and with few words, to such music as "When the Flag Goes Marching By." They carried banners on which were "Postmen See Red," "Stop cutting our wages and keep the eighth commandment in force," "Ninety per cent of us receive less than 43 shillings a week," "Serve, yes; serf, no!"

Parade London's Largest.

Police said it was the largest organized demonstration they ever handled here. They said only 20,000 had been expected to participate and 100,000 turned out.

The week-end increased the pitch of the political campaign throughout the country. The belief that the national government is facing a critical situation increased as conservative candidates in some constituencies appeared unwilling to give way to Liberals or National Labor candidates who are seeking seats in opposition to Labor party representatives.

Sir Herbert Samuel, Liberal minister in the national cabinet, is faced with a strong Conservative opponent at Darwen in Capt. Allan Graham and there is a possibility that by splitting the national government vote both might lose and the Labor party candidate may win. Similar situations exist elsewhere, although there have been withdrawals in some constituencies by Liberals and Conservatives.

Prime Minister MacDonald is in the north preparing to wage a fight to retain his seat for the Seaham

Lindberghs' Home Near Completion

Sourland Mountain Dwelling Guarded Carefully From Curious Eyes.

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 11 (A.P.).—When the Lindberghs, Charles and Anne, return to New Jersey from their abandoned world flight, they will find their new home on Sourland Mountain ready for occupancy. Workmen are now making their final touches to the interior and expect to have the house in order within three weeks.

Whatever the contents of the large, white building, only the workmen and a few intimates can tell—and they won't. Outside the door stands a sign informing those who have driven over the steep, narrow and rocky road that leads to the Lindberghs' new estate, that no visitors are allowed inside.

All day and night the new home is guarded by watchmen who are polite to visitors but rarely give direct answers to questions.

Engine Trouble Delays Doolittle's Mexico Hop

Ottawa, Ontario, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Engine trouble will delay Maj. James H. Doolittle's 2,500 mile flight from Ottawa to Mexico City, it was announced today.

Doolittle telephoned airport officials here that he was forced down at Detroit on a flight from Chicago yesterday, and that he expected to be held there for several days.

ARMS CUT SEEN AS OUTCOME OF VISIT OF GRANDI

Italy's Foreign Minister and Wife Due Here November 17.

CONFERENCE SHOULD MITIGATE DISTRUST

Capital Presence of Laval and Italian Is Held as Hoover Tribute.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Prospects for a reduction of the crushing burden of European armaments brightened perceptibly yesterday when the State Department definitely announced the forthcoming visit of Dino Grandi, Italian minister of foreign affairs.

The Italian statesman will arrive in Washington after the visit of Premier Laval and will remain here from November 17 to November 27.

President Hoover was desirous of meeting the Italian premier, Signor Mussolini, personally, but as Il Duce never has left the country since his visit to Geneva six years ago, the Italian foreign minister will come to the United States in his stead.

Tribute to Hoover.

The presence of both the French and Italian statesmen at the White House is regarded as an outstanding tribute to the foresight and inspiration of President Hoover. Washington has become the focal point for international reconstruction.

In his personal talks with M. Laval and Signor Grandi, the President will be able to achieve a considerable degree of success in his plans for international armament reduction. His pronouncement on arms reduction at the time the details of the Hoover moratorium were made public, received considerable comment in the Paris and Rome foreign offices.

At that time the President said: "While this plan for postponing debts has no bearing on the conference for limitation of land armaments to be held next February, inasmuch as the burden of competitive arsaments has contributed to bring about this depression, we trust that by this evidence of our desire to assist we shall have contributed to the good will which is so necessary in the solution of this major question."

The mutual distrust which has caused France to pour millions into the fortifications of her Italian front and Italy—to maintain an aviation service that outranks every military appropriation in her budget, will be mitigated, it is hoped, as a result of the White House conversations with the representatives of these two countries.

May Revive One-Year Plan.

Signor Grandi was the author of a plan for a one-year naval holiday which received considerable prominence at the September meeting of the League of Nations council meeting. It is expected that Grandi will have many opportunities to discuss his plan with Senator Borah, who ardently approved the Italian's plan and who still approves extending the holiday for longer than one year.

Neither France nor Italy signed the London Naval Treaty. The President will not confine himself to a discussion of the reduction of the mighty French and Italian armies, but he will also endeavor to bring about an understanding on the naval requirements of the two countries. The increasing importance of the military budgets of Italy and France remain as a menace to the economic recon-

Doctor Near Death After Saving Youth

Dr. Warmuth Scratched His Finger in Operation on Theft Suspect.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—An operation which probably saved the life of a boy arrested as a petty thief may cost the life of a leading American surgeon and cancer research authority.

Dr. M. P. Warmuth, chief surgeon of Eastern Penitentiary and the National Stomach Hospital and staff surgeon at the Philadelphia General Hospital, pricked his finger while performing the operation, three weeks ago, and infection set in. Although antitoxin was administered he failed to improve, and a severe sinking spell today caused attending physicians grave anxiety.

The operation consisted of amputating the left foot of James McAnally, 19. The youth was shot in the ankle as he tried to run from a policeman seeking to arrest him for the theft of $64 worth of cigars.

Al Williams, Flier, Hurt In Charlotte Crack-Up

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Al Williams, former United States Navy flier, cracked up his plane against a high bank at the Charlotte Airport today, but was not seriously injured.

He had been entertaining the crowd at the Southern air pageant here with an exhibition of stunt flying and was preparing to land when his controls locked. The landing gear was ripped from the plane. Williams was bruised and slightly cut, but suffered no other injuries.

SECOND WARNING SENT TO JAPAN BY CHINESE; 10 DIE, 90 HURT IN RIOT

League Action Urged For Peace in Far East

Dr. Alfred Sze, left, who is urging stern League of Nations action against Japan in Manchuria, and Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi, of Japan, who is to confer today with Secretary Stimson on the situation.

U. S. Plans Independent Steps to End Strife in Manchuria.

The United States has thrown the full force of its prestige and influence with the League of Nations in an effort to check the approach of war between China and Japan over sovereignty in Manchuria.

Secretary Stimson gave his assurance to Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league, in a note dispatched to Geneva last Friday and only made public yesterday.

The United States, however, still mainjains its independence of action and will continue to take such

BOYCOTT ADVOCATES MOB CANTON POLICE

Tokyo Spokesman Declares Soldiers Necessary to Protect Japanese.

Tokyo, (Monday) Oct. 12 (U.P.).—The Japanese cabinet was in extraordinary session today considering the Manchurian situation.

It was learned officially that Japan had rejected vigorously the efforts of the United States and the League of Nations to intervene in Manchuria. Japan will continue to insist on a settlement exclusively with China, it was said.

Tokyo, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—China served another ultimatum on the Japanese government today demanding withdrawal of Japanese troops from outside the railway zone in Manchuria within a week.

The Chinese Minister and Foreign Minister Baron Shidehara, of Japan, have been negotiating for several days, it was understood, attempting to agree upon a plan for the Manchurian commander to take over the maintenance of peace and order after the withdrawal of the Japanese troops.

The Chinese ultimatum, it was believed, was issued in the hope of speeding up the negotiations.

Commenting upon China's recent note demanding withdrawal a spokesman for the foreign office said today that such action "was impossible until the Chinese make arrangements to govern and police various districts where Japanese subjects make their homes."

The spokesman, in this connection, referred to reports received from Mukden today by the military saying that 800 Koreans had been killed by Chinese soldiers and bandits in the districts near Mukden, Changtu and Changchun, between September 23 and October 5.

Bombs Seized at Mukden.

Special dispatches from Mukden printed in Tokyo papers reported bombs dropped Thursday from Japanese airplanes on the Chinese barracks at Chinchow were of Chinese manufacture. The bombs came into Japanese hands when troops seized the Mukden arsenal on September 19, at the start of the present trouble, it was alleged.

There were, however, no official advices to substantiate the report that the Japanese troops while occupying the arsenal, declared to be the largest in the world, had taken arms from it.

A different note on Sino-Japanese relations was reported in dispatches concerning the launching of the Chinese destroyer Ninghai, built at the Harima dockyards, Aioi Hyogo prefecture. Speakers, including the Chinese Minister Chiang Tso-Pin and Vice Admiral Matsumi Sugiura, the latter representing the Japanese navy at the ceremony referred to a continuance of Japanese-Chinese friendship.

10 Killed in Rioting.

Canton, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Ten persons were killed and 90 wounded in a clash here last night between police and a large mob of Chinese following a student meeting at which speakers demanded a complete boycott of Japanese made goods.

After the meeting the students tried to enter a foreign goods store on the Winchon road. Police arrested their leader and started for the police station. The mob followed and stoned the station.

Police, unable to halt the rioters, fired several rounds of ammunition. Among those killed by police fire was a merchant sitting in a restaurant opposite the station. Of the wounded 30 were in a serious condition.

A military officer, siding with the rioters, was reported to have fired his revolver at the police station.

GLASS QUESTIONS BROKER'S PAROLE

Senator Wonders if Pact Was Made to Spare Bishop Cannon.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Glass wants to know if the parole granted to Harry L. Goldhurst, former New York broker, who handled some stock transactions for Bishop James Cannon, jr., was "in pursuance of a blameworthy agreement made by Department of Justice officials in New York and elsewhere."

The question was advanced by the Virginia Democrat in correspondence with Attorney General Mitchell.

"It was stated," wrote the senator, "that Goldhurst, in order to avert the necessity of summoning Bishop Cannon as a witness in his case and thus revealing the prelate's gambling transactions, had consented to alter his plea and confess his crime upon the promise of a nominal sentence, to be afterward reduced to parole or outright release.

"Whether there was a compact in New York, as alleged, which promised clemency to this swindler in compensation for averting the appearance in court of his ecclesiastical client, I am not in a position to declare; but, regardless of whether the alleged agreement was actually made, the undeniable fact is that the reported terms of the alleged compact have been officially carried out.

"In short, Goldhurst was among those favored convicts who were transferred from the Federal Prison

Dock Freight Handlers In Boston May Strike

Boston, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Members of the Longshoremen's Union today voted to call a strike of union dock freight handlers if these men were asked to handle cargo unloaded by nonunion longshoremen. Meetings were held by three local unions, at which the action of the Boston District Council in ordering a strike several days ago was unanimously indorsed.

Members of the dock freight handlers union are working under a contract that requires a 30-day notice if a change is to be made. John J. Doolin, international vice president of the longshoremen, said this clause did not cover the handling of freight by nonunion workers.

EDISON GIVEN LESS THAN WEEK TO LIVE

After Breaking Sleep With Difficulty, Doctor Sees 7 Days as Limit.

West Orange, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Thomas A. Edison, roused with difficulty today from a seventeen-hour sleep, was given less than a week more of life by his physician, Dr. Hubert S. Howe.

Although the 84-year-old inventor again recognized his wife, who has been almost constantly at his bedside during his long illness, his condition was such that Dr. Howe said "we can not reasonably expect him to live another seven days."

The physician added, however, that Mr. Edison's "unusual stamina makes it impossible for us to say how much longer Mr. Edison will continue his stubborn battle to live."

For the first time since August, when the inventor was stricken by a complication of uremic poisoning, diabetes, ulcers of the stomach and Bright's disease, Dr. Howe spent the

Former Dry Agent Murdered in Jail

Killer Fires Through Bars of Cell at Harlan, Ky.; Evarts Man Held.

Harlan, Ky., Oct. 11 (U.P.).—Oscar Simpson, 41, former prohibition agent, was shot to death as he lay on a bunk in a cell in Evarts County Jail, Coroner Robert Farmer announced today.

Simpson was arrested about 8 p. m. yesterday on a charge of drunkenness. He was found dead in a cell by the night policeman about 1 a. m. today. J. G. Cox, of Evarts, was arrested and brought here today. Evidence indicated he and Simpson had quarreled yesterday afternoon. A woman living near the jail said she heard three shots fired and saw a man "in shirt sleeves" leaving the jail. Simpson was shot about 10:30, she said.

The front door of the jail is always open, evidence showed, only cell doors being locked. Simpson was shot through the bars of his cell.

Lord Cornwallis Shakes Hands With Washington

Philadelphia, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Lord Cornwallis, to use his own words, today "patched up the ancient differences between Great Britain and the United States" by shaking the hand of "Washington" W. Sheldon Washington, great grand-nephew of the general who prevailed over the nobleman's ancestor in a battle which decided the Revolutionary War.

The ceremony took place on the steps of George Washington's headquarters at Valley Forge. It climaxed the day's celebration commemorating the 200th anniversary of the founding of Masonry in Pennsylvania.

Lord Cornwallis, right worshipful deputy grand master of the British Masons, is here as the personal representative of the Duke of Connaught, grand master of the United Lodge of England. Lord Cornwallis expects to leave Saturday to attend the Yorktown Pageant before sailing for England October 28.

On his arrival yesterday Lord Cornwallis, ruddy-faced and jovial, had said in answer to a question that he "can't see any reason why British feelings should be hurt" by reenactment of Gen. Cornwallis' surrender at Yorktown. The point had been debated by members of the committee.

Today Lady Boughey, a member of the party, remarked after a particu-

LEAGUE IS TO ACT IN CHINESE ROW

United States Consul Discusses Events With Sir Eric Drummond.

Geneva, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—The secretariat of the League of Nations hummed with activity today as preparations were made for consideration of the Sino-Japanese situation in Manchuria by the league council Tuesday.

Foreign ministers of the European powers were on their way here for the meeting. Prentiss Gilbert, United States Consul General here, spent some time with Secretary Sir Eric Drummond this afternoon, and it is understood they discussed a note from Secretary of State Stimson setting out in full the attitude of the American Government in the present crisis.

Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese delegate to the League of Nations, communicated to Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league, a request from the Nanking government today that the league take "urgent measures toward peace" in Manchuria.

The message described the situation following the bombing of Chinchow as exceedingly grave and urged the league to send a commission to investigate it.

"The Chinese government requests the council of the league," the message said, "to take urgent measures toward peace and invite immediate arrival at Chinchow of the league commission.

Lord Reading Is Due.

Lord Reading, British foreign minister, is expected to arrive tomorrow morning, and Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, will arrive tomorrow night, as will Foreign Minister Briand of France.

A further series of communications from governments concerned was issued tonight, three by the Japanese, one by the British and one by the German government.

It added that to combat fugitive soldiers and bandits almost daily expeditions are made into Chinese territory, that there is airplane reconnoitering toward the west and that bombs are dropped, the Japanese say, when they are attacked.

The Japanese reply to the Chinese note concerning withdrawal of Japanese troops in the railway zone says the withdrawal is conditional security for the railways and security for the lives and property of Japanese nationals.

Will Appoint Generals.

Regarding the Chinese offer to appoint generals to arrange with Japanese military authorities for suitable means of maintaining order in the railway zones after the withdrawal of Japanese troops, the reply says that concentration in this locality of Chinese soldiers would revive the feeling of a serious impending menace.

The Japanese government reiterated its willingness to enter into direct negotiations with the Chinese government.

It is understood the Chinese representative handed to the league secretariat the text of handbills dropped in Chinchow.

London, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Lord Reading, British foreign secretary, left for Geneva today to participate in the League of Nations' efforts to establish peace in Manchuria.

The first battalion of the Lincolnshire Regiment, stationed at Gibraltar, was ordered to proceed to Shanghai next Wednesday.

Informal Friends Join Hoovers at Their Camp

Guests of the President and Mrs. Hoover at Camp Rapidan were friends who would drop in for Sunday evening snacks when Mr. Hoover was Secretary of Commerce and lived on S street.

Associate Justice and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone, who were neighbors of the Hoovers on S street; Dr. and Mrs. Vernon Kellogg, who lived in an adjoining house; former Assistant Secretary of Commerce William McCracken and Mrs. McCracken; Mrs. Charles D. Walcott, who rented the Hoover home when they moved to the White House; Mark Sullivan and William Hard, newspaper writers, and Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. Hard. long, merely sliding their bed over the spot whenever any one approached. The hole was made on the second tier and the men, after sliding through the narrow opening, dropped about seven feet to the ground.

The jail, built about Civil War times, has a cell capacity of 16, but it was necessary to hold 32 prisoners there Saturday night.

When all the cells are filled, according to Sheriff Kirby, it is necessary for him to place cots out in the corridors.

The last break from the Fairfax Jail was on June 14, 1930.

"Well, if this keeps up," he said yesterday, "I'll soon have that new jail I asked for. I'll get it piece by piece by filling up these holes after every escape."

While escapes from the Fairfax Jail have been common, in every instance the escaping prisoners were recaptured.

JAPANESE TROOPS IN CHINA

Increasing seriousness of the Manchurian conflict between Japan and China has caused President Hoover to discuss the situation with his cabinet. Here are some scenes on the war-front. Above are Japanese troops at Changchun, northern terminal of the South Manchurian Railway, preparing to entrain for Kirin where they disarmed the Chinese garrison. Below is a Japanese armored car on guard outside the walled city of Mukden, Manchuria.

its entire stock in the streets. Another group of rioters cut the mooring cables of lighters, discharging Japanese coal, because the coolies refused to cease work of unloading.

The Japanese consul protested strongly to officials and the loading was resumed. Police finally were successful in restoring order.

It was reported that Chief of Police Chen Hing-Wan had resigned his position.

Nanking, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—An emergency meeting of government leaders was held today to consider Japan's latest note, a protest against anti-Japanese activities in China.

The note, carrying a formal warning that anti-Japanese agitation must be suppressed or "the Chinese government will be held responsible for the consequences," was delivered at the foreign office by the Japanese Minister, Mamoru Shigemitsu.

Later a high government official indicated to a representative of the Associated Press that China's reply, which was expected to be delivered tomorrow, would include the following terms:

Movement Followed Invasion.

"That the anti-Japanese movement in China, supported by patriotic motives, was caused by the invasion of Manchuria by Japan. Unless there are unlawful acts committed the Chinese government can not undertake to stop the movement.

"That the Nationalist government is making every effort to protect Japanese and their property and the fact that there had not been any attack on Japanese lives or property in the territory controlled by Nanking, is silent proof of the Chinese government's desire and ability to protect the Japanese.

"That if Japan desires to end the anti-Japanese movement it is for her to abide by the resolution of the League of Nations council, withdraw her troops and restore conditions as existed prior to her invasion last month of Chinese territory.

"That Japan should realize that dispatching of further warships to Chinese waters would aggravate the situation and intensify the anti-Japanese movement and the Japanese government must be held responsible for the consequences of its own ill advised policy."

Meanwhile the Nanking government has sent a protest to Tokyo asking explanation and protesting against the bombing last Thursday of the City of Chinchow by Japanese airplanes.

Hongkong, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Reports from Canton today indicated strongly that a peace truce between the southern insurgents and the Nanking government was imminent.

May Hold Elections.

Hu-Han-Min, former head of the legislative department of the Chinese government, who has been a virtual prisoner in Nanking for opposing policies of President Chiang Kai-Shek, was reported to have informed Canton leaders he was ready to attend a "reunification" conference at Shanghai. Chiang was represented as having agreed to hold general elections for all important government posts.

Canton reports today said leaders were merely awaiting Nanking's formal declarations. Meanwhile disbandment of Canton's newly recruited troops has already begun.

Hyde Is Kept by Illness From Farm Dedication

Harrogate, Tenn., Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Secretary of Agriculture Hyde did not speak at the dedication of the Francis Randolph Curtis demonstration farm at Lincoln Memorial University this afternoon because of illness. His place was taken by Renick W. Dunlap, Assistant Secretary.

The farm was given by F. Kingsbury Curtis and Elizabeth Curtis, of New York, in honor of their brother, who came to this section to live. Both were present.

Edith Gould Wainwright Believed After Divorce

Reno, Nev., Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Edith Gould Wainwright, member of the famous New York Gould family, is believed to have secretly filed suit here yesterday for a divorce from her artist husband, Carroll Livingston Wainwright, with whom she eloped in 1920.

Mrs. Wainwright's attorney refused today to say that he had filed suit on behalf of the daughter of the late George J. Gould, although he did admit that his office had registered a secret complaint. Every effort has since been made to shield Mrs. Wainwright's identity, since she came to Nevada more than six weeks ago.

struction of the world. Any adjustment of war debts would be nullified unless the nations benefitting by such a reduction agreed to divert the sums thus saved to constructive economic effort instead of their military machines.

While the Italian war debts to the United States were originally funded by an Italian mission headed by the then Finance Minister Count Volpi in 1924, it is believed possible that Italy may be seeking a readjustment of these arrangements. Under the President's principle of applying the "debtor's capacity to pay" as a basis for reconsidering intergovernmental debts, Italy will undertake to secure her share of any special consideration that will be shown France, England or the other debtor nations.

Under the present arrangements Signor Grandi, accompanied by his wife, will sail from Naples on the Conte Grande November 7. The Italian visit will be informal, as Grandi intends to bring only his personal secretary, and some other attaches, but no political or economic experts will be in the party. Premier Laval will have in his entourage six experts from the various ministries to assist him in his conversations and discussions.

Signor Grandi is regarded as the man in Italian political life closest to Mussolini. He is one of the youngest men ever to occupy such a high office. Both he and his wife speak English, so the conversations which he will hold with the President and Secretary Stimson can be carried on without an interpreter.

Last summer Secretary Stimson met Grandi for the first time and was very much impressed with his genuine feelings of friendliness for the United States. The invitation to Mussolini is believed to have been then lightly discussed between the two men. The announcement of the coming of Premier Laval is believed to have convinced the Italian government of the expediency of an American trip.

Anna Gould's First Husband Is Dying

Pink Palace Stands Empty as Count Has Relapse in Small Quarters.

Paris, Oct. 11 (U.P.).—The condition of Count Boni de Castellane, former husband of Anna Gould, caused anxiety again today after another relapse. The count has now been forced to limit his daily carriage rides to five minutes on bright days as compared to several hours daily a few weeks ago.

Deeply religious, the count, once the leader of the smartest set of international society, has spent recent months preparing for his death.

He was carried to Lourdes, a little town in the Pyrenees, where the grotto is said to effect miraculous cures. But his health failed to improve after the visit. He lives in comparatively small quarters off the Champs Elysees, while the great pink palace he built for his young American bride stands empty.

Asa Keyes Paroled From Prison Today

San Quentin Prison, Calif., Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Asa Keyes, former Los Angeles County District Attorney, after 19 months incarceration, leaves State's prison here early tomorrow morning on parole.

Keyes was sentenced to from one to 14 years on charges of conspiracy to commit bribery.

LOTTERY TICKETS ARE CONFISCATED

sales price of each ticket is 20 cents; the seller is permitted to keep two tickets for himself, and is asked to remit $2 to the sweepstakes committee.

Evidently the senders of the tickets took precautions to avoid seizure. No return address is given on the envelopes; all are addressed in longhand and the sizes have been varied to obviate suspicion.

The volume of the letters at the postoffice became heavier late last week when close to 1,000 were stopped on Friday and Saturday. Other cities in which customs officials and postoffice authorities are reported to be halting the mail from Ireland are New York, Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis, New Orleans, San Francisco and Seattle.

BASEL CONFERENCE DISCUSSES DOLLAR

Confidence Is Expressed in Assurance of Hoover's Financial Plan.

Basel, Switzerland, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—A declaration of confidence in the American dollar and an assurance that President Hoover's latest financial plan is "decidedly not a measure of inflation" were given to an informal conference of chiefs of nine European and Japanese banks tonight by Rudolph Burgess, representative of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Mr. Burgess explained in detail President Hoover's plan for a national credit institution and declared it would not create more credit.

His explanation was the principal feature of a four-hour informal meeting of the governors of ten large central banks with Gates W. McGarrah, president of the World Bank for International Settlements.

Rumors Held Absurd.

Any rumors and suggestions, he said, that the United States monetary system is threatened with a gold shortage are "absurd."

Dr. Hans Luther, president of the German Reichsbank, said a few words about the German situation, but this and the British case were reserved for a full discussion of the world bank tomorrow.

Rumors of proposals for an international currency were said in authoritative circles to be "fantasies" and it was said this possibility would not be discussed by the world bank directorate at all.

The directors and Mr. Burgess have a long agenda for tomorrow's session, chiefly with credits. A decision must be made on the question of renewing the $100,000,000 rediscount rate to the German Reichsbank, of which one-fourth has been subscribed by the world bank. The United States, Great Britain and France are the other subscribers. This credit, extended for three months, expires November 4.

A renewal of the Austrian credit of 200,000,000 schillings also will be considered.

Conference Unlikely.

It was generally believed the directors were not likely to call an international money conference. The opinion seemed to be that any decisive move would be untimely now, while the results of the conferences of President Hoover and Premier Laval are awaited, as well as the result of the British elections.

Paris, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—The French people who may lean toward withdrawing gold from the United States were assured by the financial experts of Le Temps tonight that the dollar is seven times as strong as the pound sterling and twice as strong as the franc.

Banking Difficulties.

The causes of banking difficulties in the United States, Le Temps' expert pointed out, differ widely from those which pulled England off the gold standard.

The creation of the new American credit institution after President Hoover's plan alarmed many French business men and small bankers who feared it meant inflation in the United States.

The noted journalist Pertinax, in the Echo de Paris, said today a "regulated inflation" would be beneficial.

"America owes less abroad than foreigners owe her," Le Temps said. "She is a creditor even for circulating capital. Without doubt her short-term credits placed abroad are frozen for the most part. Foreigners possessing assets in the United States have been withdrawing them, but America's large stock of gold makes it possible to meet the situation without the risk of compromising the stability of the dollar."

Flier Sets New Record With 130 Outside Loops

Charlotte, N. C., Oct. 11 (U.P.).—Tex Rankin, Portland, Oreg., stunt flier, established a new world's record here late today by completing 130 outside loops in succession. He landed after dark. The former mark was 124, held by Roy Hunt.

Rankin was accompanied by Dorothy Hester, the first and only woman on the stunt program of the National air races at Cleveland.

greater part of the day in the sick room.

It was only with difficulty that Dr. Howe was able to rouse his patient from his sleep. When awakened, however; Mr. Edison was able to take a few spoonsfuls of stewed fruit, his first nourishment since Friday morning.

At first he was unable to recognize Mrs. Edison, but later she put her lips close to her husband's ear and in a loud voice asked, "How do you feel today?"

His barely discernable smile was the only reply.

Charles Edison, the inventor's son, issued a bulletin at 4 p. m., saying:

"Mr. Edison was sitting in a chair for about two hours. He is again in bed and asleep. He was able to take a little nourishment, but is, of course, very weak."

George Atkinson, the gardener at the Edison estate, believes the 84-year-old inventor will recover from his illness.

"Mr. Edison will not die," he said today as he puffed meditatively on a blackened corncob pipe.

"He has work to finish—a great work. He will be spared us long enough."

Then he told of the four-year struggle to create a synthetic rubber.

"There isn't a species of plant life on this estate," he said, as he waved a pudgy hand toward the trees and flowers, "that wasn't submitted to the test tube and crucible in Mr. Edison's search.

"Everything was tried. The leaves of trees, some of their branches, grass, flowers, evergreens.

"Once we"—Atkinson was associated with Mr. Edison in the partly successful search for a rubber formula—"experimented with tomatoes. It was the most difficult of all for the master.

"Each day he came closer to—well, the truth, I suppose, you might call it. Research is a seeking after truths."

With that Atkinson, the gardener, who is also a finished botanist with a thorough knowledge of the chemical structure of plants, blew two curling wreaths of blue smoke.

"Mr. Edison nearly got his formula. I think Mr. Edison will find it some day."

Film Spectator Dies in Theater

W. E. Dickinson, of Millboro, Va., Victim of Heart Disease.

As he was about to pass down the aisle to a seat in a downtown motion picture theater last night, W. E. Dickinson, about 55 years old, of Millboro, Va., whose local address was 303 D street northwest, was stricken with an attack of apoplexy and died within a few minutes.

Ushers at the theater carried him to the manager's office where Dr. C. Praetorus, the house physician, pronounced him dead. The fire department ambulance was summoned.

Mr. Dickinson attended the show alone and was identified as a railway mail clerk working on the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad from Washington to points in Virginia, by an identification card in his pocket. Dr. Joseph Rogers, assistant coroner, was summoned to view the body and issue a certificate of death.

LEAGUE STEPS URGED FOR FAR EAST PEACE

steps as are necessary to hold off the conflict that seems almost inevitable.

The Secretary's message was sent to Prentiss Gilbert, American observer at the league, and handed by him to the league secretary. This is the note believed to have been responsible for the urgent summons of all the council members for a special meeting Tuesday to consider the Manchurian situation. The message is one of the most important ever handed to the league, in view of the attitude of aloofness which the United States has traditionally followed. The message reads:

"I believe that our cooperation in the future handling of this difficult matter should proceed along the course which has been followed ever since the first outbreak of the trouble fortunately found the assembly and council of the League of Nations in session. The council has deliberated long and earnestly on this matter and the covenant of the League of Nations provides permanent and already tested machinery for handling such issues as between states members of the league. Both the Chinese and Japanese have presented and argued their cases before the council, and the world has been informed through published accounts with regard to the proceedings there. The council has formulated conclusions and outlined a course of action to be followed by the disputants; and as the said disputants have made commitments to the council, it is most desirable that the league in no way relax its vigilance and in no way fail to assert all the pressure and authority within its competence toward regulating the action of China and Japan in the premises.

"On its part, the American Government, acting independently through its diplomatic representatives, will endeavor to reinforce what the league does and will make clear that it has a keen interest in the matter and is not oblivious to the obligations which the disputants have assumed to their fellow signatories in the pact of Paris, as well as in the nine power pact should a time arise when it would seem advisable to bring forward those obligations. By this course we avoid any danger of embarrassing the league in the course to which it is now committed."

Reports Read to Stimson.

Reports from the two American observers, George Hanson and L. E. Salisbury in the disturbed region, were read yesterday to the secretary at his home, Woodley. The Secretary has under consideration the request made by Yung Kwai, Chinese Charge d'Affaires last Saturday for the presence of an American commission at the evacuation of the occupied regions by the Japanese troops.

Protests have been pouring in at the Japanese Embassy here at the effects of the boycott on Japanese goods launched by Chinese in the United States. This has been advanced by the Japanese as one of the contributing causes for their dilatory tactics in retreating to the zone allotted them along the South Manchuria Railway by international treaty.

(Associated Press.)

Almost hourly reports from American observers in the trouble area of Manchuria were relayed yesterday to President Hoover, at his Rapidan camp, and to Secretary Stimson.

Although fragmentary and looking more at the origins of friction than immediate developments, the reports in general indicated increasingly hostile feeling growing out of the boycotting of Japanese goods by Chinese and the bombing of a Chinese town by Japanese military planes on Friday.

Pressure Brought for Peace.

Pressure in behalf of peace meanwhile was being exerted constantly through the Japenese and Chinese diplomatic representatives here.

Ambassador Debuchi, of Japan, and Yung Kwai, the Chinese Charge d'Affaires, were told to impress upon their governments the desire of the United States for peace.

Each nation has been reminded of the assurances previously given the League of Nations and the American Government that they would do nothing to aggravate the situation.

The Japanese several days ago pledged themselves to withdraw their troops to the South Manchurian Railroad zone as soon as asurances of the safety of their nationals in other parts of Manchuria were given.

China at the same time promised to safeguard Japanese lives and property.

In reply to informal representations of Secretary Stimpon, the Japanese are understood to have asserted they are unable to withdraw their troops more rapidly because their nationals would be left at the mercy of a growing anti-Jananese feeling.

Another factor alarming to this Government is the boycotting of Japanese goods which recently brought from Tokyo a stern threat to hold the Nanking government responsible.

The Chinese contend, in reply, that the boycott is a spontaneous expression of the feeling of its citizens and can not be controlled.

Senator Wonders if Pact Was Made to Spare Bishop Cannon.

at Atlanta to open camps for 'accessibility to their friends and relatives.' He is now at Fort Meade, near Washington, and has been, by the parole board, ordered released next April."

Goldhurst, to whom Senator Glass referred as a "bucket-shop adventurer," was indicted in May, 1928, for using the mails to defraud. Trial was held up for fifteen months. He finally changed his plea of "not guilty" to "guilty" and was sentenced to five years. His parole, recently granted, is to become effective next April.

Later the activities of Bishop Cannon in the stock market became known and he was tried by a church board. Rcords of these transactions were put before the grand jury here last week in its inquiry into the 1928 political activities of Bishop Cannon. Results of that inquiry probably will not be known for several days.

Senator Glass first wrote to Attorney General Mitchell last August 29, complaining about the "alleged compact" and asking that the files in the case be made public. On October 5 Mitchell replied that the files would be open to inspection. Glass last Friday again wrote to the Attorney General complaining about the "alleged compact."

"All of the circumstances," wrote the senator then, "tend to confirm the suspicion that these illicit transactions were devised and acquiesced in for the purpose of shielding the reputation of a culprit of more importance than Goldhurst himself.

"You will pardon me for expressing that you do not seem to realize that the very integrity of the Department of Justice is involved in the allegations about the prosecution and the parole of this new New York bucket-shop swindler."

Senator Glass also said that conduct of the case against Goldhurst was "confided" to a "former female student of Bishop James Cannon, jr., the prelate who was alleged to be sufficiently influential to have the indictments against Goldhurst dismissed and who was afterward revealed as an extensive operator in Goldhurst's bucket shop.

"Not until these astonishing facts were brought to the attention of District Attorney Tuttle in a savage protest by a citizen of New York was the case taken from the hands of this former student at Bishop Cannon's school in Virginia and a definite time fixed for the trial of Goldhurst," Glass wrote. "The letter of this New York citizen bluntly charged that an assistant district attorney in Mr. Tuttle's office had been the recipient of enumerated costly gifts as an inducement to pigeon-hole the indictments. Significantly enough, this shocking charge was not denied by the district attorney in his letter of response."

Senator Glass said facts since had been learned by Senate investigators "which indicate that bribery was used to defeat the ends of justice in the Goldhurst case."

He said that after a purported conference in New York between Goldhurst, Bishop Cannon and a politician Goldhurst changed his plea to guilty and Bishop Cannon, "to the amazement of nearly everybody in Virginia, where a hot political campaign, largely precipitated by him, was in progress, sailed for Brazil."

Around four ancient buildings, the national park service is centering an historical exhibit at the Yorktown sesquicentennial celebration.

The Moore house, where the articles of surrender were drafted; the old customs house, one of the oldest public buildings in America; the Yorktown Hotel and the old courthouse comprise the group.

Answering a call for historical material to be exhibited during the celebration, Mrs. Felix Brundy Ewing, of Nashville, Tenn., returned to Moore house a colonial chair, known to have been part of the furniture in the building at the time of the Revolutionary War battle. This and other ancient pieces make up a collection which the park service hopes will attract wide interest at the celebration.

Among the other buildings will be distributed exhibits loaned by the Treasury Department, the Smithsonian Institution and the Valentine Museum, Richmond. Revolutionary War money and medals honoring prominent men of the times have been made available by the Treasury. The Smithsonian Institution has contributed a group of striking colonial uniforms and the Valentine Museum other articles relating to the colonial and Revolutionary War periods.

In addition, Washington's marquee, the tent from which he directed the battle, has been restored in the southwestern section of the battlefield and will house a portion of the exhibits. Another tent will contain photographic copies of early land patents, pages from Washington's order books and copies of paintings by John W[illegible], which show colonial scenes.

Woman Who Hid Million Is Center of 'In-Law' Row

New York, Oct. 11 (U.P.).—While claims for a share in her million-dollar fortune were coming in from all over the country, and while her granddaughter was announcing that she intends to investigate reports of "undue pressure" having been employed, further details in the life of Mrs. Ida E. Wood, the 93-year-old recluse, whose dreary rooms yielded $900,000 in faded currency last week, were being unearthed at the Herald Square Hotel today.

Mrs. Blanche Wood Shields, a granddaughter of Mrs. Wood's husband by his first marriage, called on the little old lady and said later that she intends to start an investigation. She feels that Mrs. Wood has been subjected to unfair treatment by her legally appointed guardians.

Meantime, in the hotel rooms, Mrs. Wood is under the constant care of nurses who have tried everything they can think of to pacify her. She alternately weeps and rages.

They have suggested to her that she bob her hair, but she scoffs at the idea. She retains her mid-Victorian view of life.

A radio has been installed in her suite. Back in the 60s and 70s, she had a private box at the opera.

The nurses do their best to create the illusion that Mrs. Wood is still doing her own housework. They let her dry the dishes for them and permit her to cook her own eggs.

She continues to mutter about a missing $1,000,000, but her guardian, Otis F. Wood, a nephew, believes she is thinking of the money already taken from her. He considers it possible, however, that she still is hiding a hoard of valuable jewels. An old will, giving her entire wealth to her daughter, Emma, who died in 1927, has been unearthed.

CAPONE AID'S GUN IS TRIAL FEATURE

D'Andrea Faces Jail for Contempt When Caught With Weapon.

Chicago, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—The troubles of Philip D'Andrea, "one of the boys," overshadowed those of Al Capone tonight on the eve of the second week in the gang chief's trial on income tax charges.

D'Andrea, constant companion of Capone at the trial so far, must explain to Judge James H. Wilkerson tomorrow morning how he happened to be carrying a pistol in Federal court. It was indicated the judge may find him in contempt of court.

Judge Wilkerson took pains to declare plainly that he considers the carrying of pistols in Federal court a serious matter. At a special session of court called yesterday to consider D'Andea's case, he ordered court officers to take particular care that no others enter the court with weapons.

Legal authorities said the judge may use his own discretion in punishing D'Andrea, who probably will be defended by Capone's attorneys, Michael Ahern and Albert Fink. The judge referred to D'Andrea's offense as "a flagrant violation of a Federal court rule of long standing."

D'Andrea first claimed he was a deputy municipal court bailiff and had a permit to carry weapons. Government officials investigated, however, and said the bailiff appointment had expired long ago and the gun permit had been withdrawn.

The Government case against Capone so far has consisted of evidence that he received $80,000 in telegraphic money orders from Chicago while wintering in Florida, that he spent large amounts of money and lived like a feudal king, and that he seemed to be well acquainted around Cicero gambling houses, and may even have owned them.

Proof of the large expenditures, the Government contends, must necessarily constitute proof of a large income, and a score of witnesses have testified that Capone spent freely, lived lavishly, and was ever generous.

So far, no attempts have been made to connect the scar-faced gangster with Chicago's liquor and vice industries.

MAYOR KEY'S PARIS ACTIVITIES PROBED

Foes Write to Proprietor of Restaurant, Who Lauds Atlanta Official.

Paris, Oct. 11 (U.P.).—A survey of the activities of Mayor James L. Key, of Atlanta, Ga., during his visit to Paris last May, was understood today to have been started by the mayor's political foes in the United States.

Key, who visited Paris with the American mayor's party, caused considerable agitation by his criticism of the United States prohibition system.

Willis Morgan, proprietor of a restaurant serving Southern foods and patronized by Mayor Key, said he had received 16 letters from Atlanta asking what the mayor drank and how much he drank while in Paris. Morgan defended the mayor by replying that, while professional ethics prevented publication of such information, he was willing to swear that Mayor Key limited his drinking to ordinary table wines, weakened with mineral water.

"Mayor Key is as fine a man as I know," said the restaurant proprietor, who has won fame as a restaurant king of Paris." He said he would go to the United States to repeat his statement about what the mayor drank in Paris if Key asked him to make the trip.

"Mayor Key asked me what was the best wine I had when he first came to my restaurant," Morgan said. "I told him the best wine was the plain wine of the land, just ordinary healthful wine.

Mr. Key is the kind of a man nobody can beat, and if anybody else wants to write me about what he did when he came over here, I'll tell them all that he behaved like a Southern gentleman—and you can't say anything finer about anybody."

Atlanta, Oct. 11 (U.P.).—An appeal for tolerance was made here today by Mayor Key at the second meeting of his newly organized nonsectarian, interdenominational Sunday school class, held in a downtown theater.

Where 1,019 persons attended the first meeting a week ago, approximately 1,500 responded today and heard the antiprohibition mayor denounce "fakirs, mountebanks and grafters who prey on the public by appealing to prejudice and ignorance."

LATIN-AMERICANS TO TOUR NATION

First-Hand Study Will Begin in Capital and End in New York.

(Associated Press.)

A first-hand study of United States business and commerce will be made by 80 delegates from 20 Latin-American countries after the close tomorrow of the fourth Pan-American commercial conference.

The tour will begin at Washington Wednesday and end in New York on November 1, and will take the Latin-American business leaders as far as Niagara Falls, Canada. First they will visit Baltimore, as a port closely connected with Latin-American trade.

At Wilmington, Del., they will visit industrial plants and will be given a reception by P. S. duPont and Mrs. duPont at Longwood Gardens, Philadelphia, with its industrial plants, shipping facilities and traffic development will be visited next, followed by Harrisburg and Pittsburgh, Pa.

Will Inspect Akron.

In Akron, Ohio, plans call for the visitors to see the new airship, the U. S. S. Akron. At Detroit the business men will be taken through plants of the automobile manufacturing center.

The visit to Niagara Falls will be followed by stops at Rochester, New York, Utica and Schenectady. There the Latin-American visitors will speak over the General Electric short wave broadcasting station on the evening of October 27, on a program which will be rebroadcast to the Latin-American capitals.

They will be guests at luncheon in New York City of the American Arbitration Association, and of the Pan-American Society at dinner October 28. Hartford and New Haven, Conn., also will be visited. The visitors will attend the Yale-Dartmouth football game at the latter place on October 30.

Working Overtime.

After working overtime Saturday night to adopt 28 resolutions looking to general and technical improvements in inter-American economic and commercial conditions, the delegates were guests yesterday on a trip down the Potomac River aboard the Commerce Department survey boat Oceanographers.

Recommendations for calling of an international silver conference and granting by the American republics of such tariff privileges as their internal economy may permit were among the conclusions reached last week, following considerable discussion in committee and on the floor of the important bearing the representatives considered high tariffs and depressed silver to have on the current depression.

Today the Latin American representatives will confer in round table discussions with United States delegates interested in inter-American trade and will be guests of the Pan-American Union at a reception tonight.

Today, also, the delegates will witness the christening by Mrs. Hoover of a 45-passenger airplane to be used in Pan-American service.

WOMAN ENDS LIFE, SPARING HER RIVAL

Note Says She Decided Not to Kill Washingtonian for Stealing Mate.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 11 (U.P.).—Mrs. Eva Dick Davis, 43, shot and killed herself here today after leaving a note indicating she had changed her mind about plans to kill a woman in Washington, D. C., whom she believed had alienated the affections of her husband.

Her husband, William Dudley Davis, traveling salesman, was notified of his wife's death when located in Baltimore late today. Both Davis and his wife, a former woman's city golf champion here, originally were from Toledo.

In the suicide note addressed "To whom it may concern," Mrs. Davis intimated she had planned to kill a "Washington, D. C., woman," who she believed had alienated her husband's affections, but had changed her mind. She wrote she had decided to take her own life and "let it go at that."

Davis was a principal witness in a tragedy here last spring, when Mrs. Ruia Lowry Whiteside, formerly of Cutler, Ind., was killed by a bullet from a revolver in the hands of her husband, William Whiteside, a district sales manager of a Mansfield, Ohio, brass company.

Whiteside declared the weapon was discharged accidentally while he was illustrating a World War experience and was freed of a murder charge principally through Davis' corroboration of his story.

Northwestern University Institutes Love Clinic

By JOHN J. DALY

IN order to enrich the sciences of psychology, sociology and economics, Northwestern University has instituted a love clinic. There is a lot to learn in this major study. Couples contemplating matrimony and those already in its throes are asked to matriculate.

Once past the period of childhood, with its all too brief moments of irresponsibility, rational living thrusts itself upon the consciousness of every person. All reach that state, "Where but to think is to be full of sorrow and leaden-eyed despairs."

Then comes love.

Up to this point, humanity has struggled along blissfully unconscious of what love really is, but now that the professors have taken it in hand and intend to make a thorough study of the most baffling ailment that effects human kind, there is hope.

Certainly, some of the greatest loves in history have been strange, muddled affairs. Had they been psychoanalyzed at the time, the race would have been that much better off. The youngsters who go hand in hand, or hope to go in such fashion, down the long roadway of life, have no love charts to guide them. All that will soon be remedied, when the extension course at Northwestern University has turned out a thousand or so graduates.

POETS have done rather badly by the subject, making it glamorous with romance. That the science of economics is part of love no one, until now, has seemed to recognize. In a vague way, some one once remarked, "When poverty comes over the threshold, love flies out the window." That was the nearest approach to a fundamental principle, but it did not quite surround the subject.

Truth is, of course, that modern inventions have played havoc with love. The age is not quite conducive to those ecstatic spasms that swept over the souls of men when knighthood, say, was in flower—when they had no such slogan as, "Say it with flowers;" when all the world was, practically, garden, and Romeos swinging on every garden gate. Nowadays, if a man tries to make love by a garden gate—granted he could find such a place—he and his lady-love would probably be asphyxiated by the fumes of gasoline from passing motor cars, all the drivers honking horns in derision.

Love is, as it always has been, the greatest motive actuating the human heart. If it gets little chance to develop in the machine age it is because men, busy earning their livelihood, have centered too much attention on the perfection of a machine to take the place of love, an old worn-out emotion; so some believe.

* * * *

IN this respect they are not much better off than those other laborers of another country, described by that eminent observer, Robinson Crusoe: "They spent their strength in daily struggling for bread to maintain the vital strength they labored with; so living in a daily circulation of sorrow, living but to work, and working but to live, as if daily bread were the only end of wearisome life, and a wearisome life the only occasion of daily bread."

Man does not live by bread alone. Love is the greatest sustenance if given a chance to nourish the human heart. The love clinic at Northwestern may bring back normalcy in the love mart and disprove Matthew Arnold's dismal and melancholy chant to his sweetheart looking out upon the moonlit sea at Dover:

"Ah, love, let us be true
To one another! For the world, which seems
To lie before us like a land of dreams,
So various, so beautiful, so new,
Hath really neither joy, nor love, nor light,"

Yet, the love light is now beginning to shine on the campus at Northwestern, with diplomas to be handed to the graduation classes in matrimony next June.

Peru May Seek Tariff Hearing

Complaint Over High Rates for Cotton and Sugar to Be Considered.

(Associated Press.)

Peru's complaint against United States tariffs on cotton and sugar may be carried to the Tariff Commission by delegates to the Pan-American Commercial Conference.

Two of the Peruvian representatives plan to visit one or more of the major cotton-producing sections of the United States before returning to Lima. A petition probably will be submitted afterwards for a study of production costs of both cotton and sugar in Peru under the flexible provisions of the Hawley-Smoot tariff law. That provision was recommended to the Latin American business leaders by Chairman Fletcher of the Tariff Commission and other officials during the conference.

Although Peru exports a comparatively small amount of these products she considers a 2½-cent duty on sugar and 7 cents a pound on cotton as almost prohibitive. The Peruvian delegates contend it would not mean much to the United States to permit freer entry of her cotton and sugar, but would be of great benefit to Peru.

RECORD PARADE HITS PAY CUTS IN LONDON

constituency, where the Labor party organization has disavowed him.

Thousands of Communists and unemployed sang songs of world revolution tonight in the shadow of the walls of Wormwood Scrubbs Prison. Through the ghostly veil of the first thick fog of the British autumn could be heard the answering refrain from a convict chorus inside the walls singing "The Red Flag" and "The Internationale."

Mounted police patrolled the vicinity of the prison, but there were no disturbances.

MacDonald Flies to Battle.

Seaham, Durham, England, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—The grimy villages of the Durham coal fields will be the center of attention of the British general election tomorrow when Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, with a touch of the drama that has characterized his political life, flies from London to open his campaign for reelection to the House of Commons from the constituency of Seaham Harbor.

Challenging in one of their own strongholds the Labor Party forces which have repudiated his leadership of the national government, MacDonald is conceded to be taking a grave risk.

Should the national government be successful at the polls and he fall of election at Seaham Harbor, the prime minister would be placed in a difficult position. Unable to address the Commons when it assembles November 3, he would have to go through a formal by-election in another "safe" constituency.

Defeat would be a blow to his prestige, but victory would send him back to Westminster with a definite Labor mandate.

Daughter Is Warmly Welcomed.

Tomorrow night the prime minister makes his first speech at Sasington Collier. His daughter, Ishabel, has been here for two days and has received a warm welcome from the women of the constituency. Local political prophets decline to forecast the result.

With no Liberal or Conservative opponents it is assumed he enters the campaign with 12,000 supporters from these parties. In addition, he must obtain about 12,000 labor votes, or about one in three of the voting miners and their wives. The selection of William Coxon, local schoolmaster and secretary of the Labor party, to oppose MacDonald indicates the uncertainty with which the Labor party views the situation.

Ernest Bevin was being held in reserve to oppose MacDonald. He planned his opposition on high policies of the campaign. But when Seaham folk began to show loyalty to the prime minister the party quickly named Coxon, who knows most of the voters by their first names.

and a determined foe of the reparations settlement, among the leaders of the Fascist-Nationalist group was not entirely unexpected, but his violent speech against the Bruening regime was outstanding among the bitter attacks launched at the congress.

He charged Bruening, Dr. Hans Luther, head of the Reichsbank, and Minister of Finance Hermann Dietrich with concealing the German financial position and also declared that the recent report of the Wiggin bankers committee, urging readjustment of reparations, was "distortive."

Group Votes 150 Out of 577.

He adopted Hitler's proclamation and also supported a resolution urging President Paul von Hindenburg to yield to "the requests of millions of patriotic Germans" for a Nationalist government.

The congress met amid typical demonstrations of the Fascist and Nationalist parties, which command a combined strength of about 150 seats out of 577 in the Reichstag. The Fascist strength, however, has been increasing steadily in the last year.

Headquarters of the Fascist Club here was swathed with swastika flags and children in the streets waved Nationalist flags.

Battalions of brown-shirts and squads of gray-clad members of the steel helmets patrolled the streets and stood guard at the hotel where Hitler, fresh from a conference with President Paul von Hindenburg, and Hugenberg were established. The colors of imperial Germany, replaced after the flight of the former Kaiser to Holland, mingled with many Natoinalist flags.

Hitler and Hugenberg arrived in separate automobiles, whirling through the streets amid little bursts of cheering. They immediately began conferences on the congress program and on action in the Reichstag, which opens Tuesday with Bruening's new government facing a test of power.

In contrast to the welcome at the field, Moyle is faced with a 30-day jail sentence in a drunk-driving charge which was suspended until after his trans-Pacific hop attempt. JANE ADDAMS ASKS FULL DISARMAMENT

71-Year-Old Noted Leader of Peace Delegates Urges U. S. Take Lead.

Despite interruptions, which in blunt language might be termed heckling, Miss Jane Addams, 71-year-old leader, as chairman of the peace mass meeting found fairly ready support for a resolution that the United States delegates to the 1932 Geneva Disarmament Conference "lead necessary steps to achieve real disarmament," yesterday at the Belasco Theater.

The mass meeting was held under the sponsorship of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom and signalized the disbanding of the coast-to-coast women's caravan, which had collected 150,000 signatures for world disarmament.

Women Disagree.

Rather unfortunately, it seemed to observers, it was the women who could not seem to agree on this arms proposition. Most of the interruption came from a gallery group of women who were ready to declare themselves on the spot for a stronger Army and Navy. Sighted among the dissenters were Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Miss Addams prefaced her remarks before putting the resolution, that it had been adopted unanimously in every city in which the peace caravan stopped. She put the question and it was met with a chorus of "ayes."

Then Mrs. Nobel Newport Potts, president of the National Patriotic Council, led with a hearty "No!" which found echoes in several parts of the house.

"Madame Chairman," Mrs. Potts said rising from her seat, "I wish you to note the vote was not unanimous!"

"I did not pronounce it unanimous," Miss Addams retorted, "I said only that the resolution passed."

The rest of the meeting was tame enough for a peace gathering at which opposing poles of thought were mixed.

Rogers Represents Officials.

James Grafton Rogers, assistant Secretary of State represented officialdom as principal speaker.

"In the end the problem of international order is a question of security and confidence," he declared. "Today the path of progress is not unclouded and we must recognize that the great economic depression which has swept the world has shaken men's faith and security. But there is much to brighten and smooth the path. One of the great necessities for peace is international understanding. The nations of today are trying to fathom one another as they have never tried before.

"And, on the brighter side, there are visible at last the traces of an international public opinion which will some day remold the world. The United States can contribute to this end its friendly counsel, its measured cooperation and the great weight of its example and opinion. The tendency to resort to violence is lesser in strength than the longing for security, which is the great note of life. This note grows louder as we listen, and it will prevail," he asserted.

Supports Disarmament.

Miss Addams told the meeting that the signatures secured to the petition "gives us the authority to assure our Government that public opinion in this country supports its every effort to speed world disarmament." She said that in England 1,300,000 signatures had been obtained for similar petitions and in Japan almost 1,000,000.

"In 30 countries at least these petitions are piling up to make a mountain in Geneva," she said. She left the stage with the avowed intention of carrying her disarmament petition personally to Geneva next year.

"As you who were with us yesterday on the delegation to the President know, he pointed out that no statesman can go beyond the support he can gain from public opinion in these days of world-wide democracy," Miss Mabel Vernon, of Wilmington, Del., leader of the peace caravan, said.

"Going on this basis," she declared, "the statesmen of our country can go far on their way to disarmament, for beyond a doubt the people of this country demand peace, and since the statesmen are assured of that, they can demand disarmament."

Other speakers were Huston Thompson, former Federal Trade Commission chairman, Miss Katherine Devereux Blake and Miss Dorothy Cook.

Several foreign countries were represented at the peace meeting by members of their diplomatic staffs in Washington.

Parking Rule Began On King's Highway

Chicago, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—These no-parking rules that sometimes irk the motoring public started on one of the king's highways back in 1812.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards has dug up the precedent.

"No one," ruled Lord Ellenborough, "can make a stableyard of the king's highway," and decided it was an indictable offense for a stage coach to loiter on the street while waiting for passengers.

NEW SHIP MERGER STILL INCOMPLETE

Bigger Proposition Than Has Been Guessed Indicated by Capt. Dollar.

San Francisco, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Complete agreement was still lacking today on far-reaching proposals under discussion here by leaders in America's shipping industry, Capt. Robert Dollar announced from his home in San Rafael.

Capt. Dollar declined to expand that statement or say what plans are being discussed in conferences which have been going on here nearly a week.

"The proposition is much bigger than it would appear from the guesswork that has come out," he said, and refused to discuss in any manner rumors of a huge merger of the East and West lines.

The shipping magnate of the West Coast made his announcements after a lengthy conference with his son, R. Stanley Dollar, who has represented the Dollar interests at the conference.

Other representatives are Herbert Fleishhacker, Pacific Coast financier, John M. Franklin, of the International Mercantile Marine Lines; Kermit Roosevelt, of the Roosevelt Steamship group and K. D. Dawson, of Portland, Oreg., who operates trans-Pacific ships.

Fleishhacker entertained the Easterners at his home in Atherton over the week-end. He asserted they had not discussed business.

Conferences will be resumed tomorrow morning. One of the aims is joint operation and control of the United States Lines by the Eastern and Western companies.

FARMERS PRESSED TO PAY SEED LOANS

Drought-Stricken District Needs More Money to Retain Stock.

(Associated Press.)

Northwestern farmers, stricken for the second successive year by drought, are finding it difficult to repay Government money borrowed to plant new crops last spring.

Approximately $4,000,000 in loans was due September 30, but on October 2 only $147,000 had been returned to the Agriculture Department from farmers in North and South Dakota, Minnesota and Montana.

George L. Hoffman, director of the seed loan office, now is in that region studying conditions. Many farmers, whose previous loans are now due, have been forced to seek additional funds to retain their stock.

Senator Robinson (Democrat), Arkansas, discussed loan collections with Secretary Hyde and President Hoover Saturday, and was assured that leniency would be exercised. Arkansas, one of the States hardest hit by last year's drought, received the largest amount of the $67,000,000 appropriated by the last Congress for drought and storm relief. It now leads in repayments, having paid off $260,158 up to October 2.

The total amount repaid by all States is $1,648,950. About $48,000,000 was loaned.

Brooklyn Girl Missing; Police Seeking Man, 70

New York, Oct. 11 (U.P.).—For almost a week police have been searching secretly for 12-year-old Margaret McCluskey, junior high school student, whose mother is a night club pianist. Margaret disappeared from a candy store in Brooklyn last Monday, but not until tonight was it revealed that she was missing.

Police are searching for John Arjenino, 70-year-old cousin of the candy store proprietor, who dropped out of sight on the same day Margaret did. In a bare, cabin-like room at the rear of the store—a room Arjenino used for sleeping quarters, according to his cousin—detectives found the missing girl's gymnasium bloomers and four school books, each bearing her name.

SUPREME COURT TO TRIM DOCKET

Group of Justices Will Select Cases for Review This Term.

(Associated Press.)

Whittling day rolls around today for the Supreme Court. It will decide what cases will be reviewed from among the many petitions put before it during the summer recess.

Should the august group of judges hold to the normal average over the last few years, four out of five will be rejected, leaving the litigants to abide by the verdict of lower courts.

The Indiana chain store tax case, upon which the court ruled against the chains at the last term by a 5-to-4 decision, is expected to come up again.

An announcement of whether the court will adhere to the former decision is considered likely.

A similar ruling is expected upon the decisions denying citizenship to Dr. Douglas Clyde MacIntosh, Yale professor, and Marie A. Bland, New York nurse, Canadians, because of their refusal to agree without reservations to take up arms in case of war.

Rehearings have been asked in these three cases and several others, among them the ruling sustaining the authority of the California Railroad Commission to require the Santa Fe and other railroads to construct a Union Station at Los Angeles.

Oral argument by counsel in a number of important cases to be heard throughout the month will be started today, with several railroad rate questions to be laid before the highest tribunal for answers.

The first to be heard was brought by the Texas & Pacific Railroad and others, challenging the validity of an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission regulating interior rail rates from and to New Orleans, on certain commodities moving in foreign and coastwise commerce, aimed by the commission to place Texas gulf ports on a competing basis.

Gibraltar, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—The Spanish steamer Mariacelina and another Spanish boat, Ciudad de Palma, were in collision today off Cabo de Gata, near Almeria. Both vessels were damaged and the Mariacelina was beached.

THIRD VICTIM FALLS IN 3-WAY BEER WAR

Gangster's Bullet-Torn Body Found in Chicago Canal; Arch Foe Missing.

Chicago, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—A bullet-torn body, identified as that of James L. Quigley, arch foe of Frank McErlane in internecine gang strife for South Side beer privileges, was found in a drainage canal near here today.

Linking the assassination with the killing of McErlane's chauffeur, Eddie Fitzgerald, and his sweetheart, Marian Miller, police expressed conviction that the turbulent district is again in the throes of a bloody liquor war.

McErlane himself is missing and authorities think he also may have been slain.

Quigley was suspected of killing Fitzgerald. The chauffeur was dragged from a saloon and shot down on the sidewalk by a trio of men, one of whom was identified by witnesses as Quigley. When these witnesses were called into court, however, they refused to repeat the identification and the case collapsed.

A few days later a machine gun crew drove past Quigley's home and poured a stream of bullets into the front of the house. The next night the gunning crew returned and again sprayed the house with slugs. Police called to the scene by alarmed neighbors arrived just in time to witness a third machine gunning, but the assailants escaped.

McErlane and his henchman, Edward "Spike" O'Donnell, were thought by police to have perpetrated the attack. This theory gained weight Thursday when McErlane's bullet-scarred car containing the body of Miss Miller was found near his stronghold. The woman had been shot to death as had her two dogs.

Neighbors told that McErlane had left an apartment with Miss Miller after hurriedly packing their belongings and the supposition was that the pair was fleeing enemies.

No trace had been found of McErlane.

Quigley, according to police, withdrew from the McErlane-O'Donnell combination several weeks ago and after recruiting a gang of hoodlums began muscling into the territory controlled by his former associates. The McErlane-O'Donnell alliance also was being harassed by a group headed by Danny McGeorgehan, George Downs and Joe Cainski. As a result, police said, a reign of terror exists among liquor dealers of the district while the three factions strive for the upper hand.

Policeman Hero as Bombs Are Hurled in Movie War

Chicago, Oct. 11 (U.P.).—Terrorists today threw two powerful dynamite bombs, with fuses sputtering, at a policeman guarding the Argmore Theater.

One bomb exploded, wrecking the front of the theater and stunning Patrolman Joseph M. Welter. Still dazed from the blast, he ran to the second bomb and pulled out the fuse an instant before it would have ignited six sticks of dynamite.

ARGENTINE RADICALS OUTLINE POSITION

Party Convention Is Told Organization Should Not Participate in Race.

Buenos Aires, Oct. 11 (U.P.).—The national committee of the Radical party directed a lengthy manifesto to the party convention today, outlining its viewpoints on the party's position, and insinuating, rather than recommending openly, that the organization should not participate in the presidential and provincial elections November 8. This was viewed as virtually removing the once-powerful party from the elections. The convention will make a final decision Tuesday.

The action resulted from the de facto government decree of last week declaring ineligible Dr. Marcelo T. de Alvear, former president, as the Radical party presidential candidate. De Alvear is now an exile, and besides is ineligible to run, according to a clause of the constitution, which provides that six years must elapse before a former president can again be a candidate.

The Democrat-Socialist alliance joined with the Radical party in condemning the government's annulment of the Province of Buenos Aires election of last spring, in which Radical candidates were successful. The present government, which gained power by last year's revolution has declared its determination to prevent Argentina from again falling into the hands of the Radical party as long as the party does not repudiate the official acts of Hipolito Irigoyen, its former leader and the president ousted in the revolution.

The federal interventor for the Province of La Rioja today vetoed the entire list of congressional candidates proclaimed by the Democrat-Socialist alliance as well as its "electors" for the presidency of the republic and the governorship of the province. This action indirectly annuls the presidential candidacy of Lisandro de la Torre in this province.

Election Day Orderly In Peruvian Capital

Lima, Peru, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Peru's general election passed today in orderly fashion in the capital, but because the votes will not be counted for some time it was impossible to surmise who the winners might be. Because of poor communications nothing was known of the progress of the vote in the provinces.

Police followed their ordinary regulations for maintaining order even though the streets were deserted as on any ordinary Sunday. It was estimated, however, that 70 per cent of the votes in Lima were polled by noon.

Yucatan Press Workers Armed.

Merida, Yucatan, Oct. 11 (U.P.).—Employes of Diario de Yucatan, principal daily paper of southeastern Mexico, were heavily armed as they went about their work today. The publisher declared it was necessary owing to the attitude of authorities. Doors of the plant were guarded, and even each linotypist had a revolver hanging from his machine within easy reach.

Panama Canal Traffic Gains.

Balboa, Canal Zone, Oct. 11 (U.P.).—A slight increase in canal transit for September over August was shown in statistics published today. In September 396 vessels passed through the canal compared to 390 the previous month, and September tolls were more than $50,000 above those of August.

Bank Expects to Pay in Full.

Mexico City, Oct. 11 (U.P.).—The liquidating committee for the closed Spanish Credit Bank informed the supreme court today that it believed all creditors would be paid in full.

DEBATE OVER WIFE ENDS IN 2 SHOOTINGS

Charlottesville Restaurant Man Kills Merchant and Wounds Own Mate.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 11.—Charlie Zahab, proprietor of the Jefferson restaurant, where six weeks ago Battle Shiflett, mountaineer, fatally shot his cousin, Lula Shiflett, this morning instantly killed J. E. Sandridge, well-known local merchant and deacon in the University Baptist Church, and then shot his wife, Victoria Zahab.

The shooting occurred at 9:30 o'clock on the Garth road, 2 miles northwest of Charlottesville. Zahab, according to the story, had suspected his wife for some time and this morning followed the couple in a hired car. "My wife refused to tell me what she was doing out there," he said, "and then told Sandridge to shoot me. As the man started to get out of her car I shot him. 'Vick' then got out and grapled with me, then got out and grappled with me.

Mrs. Zahab hailed a passing car and was driven to the Martha Jefferson Hospital where it was found that the bullet had passed through the muscles of the chest wall, missing the lung, and coming out the back.

Officers dispatched to the scene found Sandridge lying lifeless in the roadway, with his feet crossed under a rear wheel of the car. A bullet had entered the mouth and penetrated the brain.

Following the shooting, Zahab drove to town, called up police headquarters, told what had happened, and asked them to come for him. He was later lodged in the city jail.

Sandridge, who is 60 years old, was a native of Mechums River, this county, and was held in high esteem here in business and religious circles. He was an active worker in the University Baptist Church. He leaves a wife and three children. His only son, Ollie E. Sandridge, is a patrolman on the city police force. One of his two daughters is married.

Mrs. Zahab was Miss Victoria Nesser, a native of Beirut, Syria, and is 27 years of age. She was married in Columbus, Ohio, in 1922. There are three children, the eldest being 8 years of age.

BANK RELIEF CLEARS BUSINESS OUTLOOK

Commodity Prices Expected to Improve as Hoover Plan Advances.

New York, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Hardening of the arteries of credit has become one of the graver ills of the Nation's business, and the preparation of a $500,000,000 dose for the banks promises a potent remedy.

The first whiffs has already been a strong tonic to nerves, which alone is expected to facilitate recovery, for while the morbid-state-of-mind diagnosis was first made prematurely, there is little question that it describes the current condition. If the outlook for improvement has vastly brightened in the past week, it was obviously too early to expect a quickening of the pulse of trade. The new and vigorous course of treatment has only been started.

Such basic weekly indicators as steel production, freight car loadings and electric power consumption, were off slightly as measured on a seasonably adjusted basis. Nevertheless, F. W. Dodge's report of building contracts let during September provided considerable encouragement; the daily average was 12½ per cent over August, while the average gain for the past several years has been but 1½ per cent.

Commodity prices appeared to have been bolstered by the brightened sentiment, although a rally in response to the $500,000,000 bank pool plan was short-lived. Some economists, who interpret the administration's plan of credit mobilization as promising some degree of inflation, are predicting an upturn in prices.

Nevertheless, such leading lines as wheat, cotton and copper are so sensitive to world-wide conditions, and so weighted down by huge stocks, that the outlook for the nearer future is uncertain. Higher live stock prices of recent weeks are said to have brought improvement to general business in the Middle West, and for some time, the increased cotton consumption has been helpful to the South.

The preliminary estimate of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railroad shows September net operating income of $1,200,000, compared with $2,852,851 for September last year.

Dow, Jones & Co. estimates that operations of steel plants in the Youngstown district during the coming week will average 29 per cent of capacity, the same rate as prevailed in the last half of this week, but an increase of 1 per cent over rate in effect at the start of the week.

The board of transportation of New Yord has awarded to General Railway Signal Co. a contract for work on the city subway system on the company's bid of $2,317,800. The award is subject to approval of the board of estimate.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—The financial district will enjoy a holiday tomorrow, in observance of Columbus Day. All of the financial and commodity markets will be closed, as will the banks.

New State and municipal bonds scheduled for award this week represent the needs of 47 communities and total $12,111,881, the Daily Bond Buyer reports. The weekly average of offerings for the year to date is $36,211,130. The largest item booked for this week is an offering of $6,000,000 State of California 4 per cent veterans' welfare bonds, scheduled for award at public auction Thursday.

A meeting of preferred and common stockholders of Tricontinental Corporation has been called for October 29, to act on proposed charter amendments, which are designed to safeguard the continuance of regular dividends on the preferred stock and to assure the corporation of continuity in its management.

An average yield of 12.09 per cent, a record high for 50 years, was established October 5 by the 301 active cash dividend-paying common stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, the monthly compilation of Moody's shows. This compares with the previous peak of 9.92 per cent, recorded in 1921.

Continental Construction Corporation is acquiring right of way and making other necessary arrangements for construction of a branch pipe line about 170 miles long, to supply northern Illinois cities and Milwaukee with natural gas from Texas.

BOND PRICES MOUNT ON TRADE AID NEWS

Record Low Market Rises to 84.2 During Week; Demand Firmer.

New York, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Bonds responded promptly to news of President Hoover's various plans for revivinng confidence.

Organization of a company to assist banks being pressed for funds logically would help the bond market, since the operation of such an organization would tend to relieve the pressure to sell bonds in order to obtain cash to meet withdrawals. Instead, banks will be able to rediscount holdings, which would not be possible otherwise.

Word that the administration was considering some method of stabilizing railroad bonds as a means of assisting savings banks and insurance companies was an important bullish influence. These securities were aided also by Wall street reports that the Interstate Commerce Commission probably would grant part of the freight rate increase.

Sixty corporate bonds reached the lowest average price in several years at 80.0 on Monday, but the rally was so vigorous that the composite climbed to 83.9 on Friday and to 84.2 on Saturday.

Higher discount rates of the Federal Reserve Banks of New York, Boston and Cleveland, probably forecasting moderately firmer money levels, depressed Liberty and United States Treasury bonds. These rates did not react similarly on high grade corporate obligations because of the wide spread in yields between the two groups.

The Lee House Spokesman Says—

TO Our Guests, We Say "You're the Boss"

WE do not mean by that to say that you go around the hotel giving orders, and yet we know you're the boss because you are the person we are all working for, and that surely does make you a very important person.

WE do know most of the things you want and what you expect us to do FOR you—keep your room and the rest of the house clean, wait on you promptly, keep the house quiet, always make it possible for you to have a very delightful meal—altogether, for you a fine daily service.

BUT we go further than that and try to do other things the way you like them. Perhaps there is an individual way you want your bed made or the furniture arranged, or it may be that you are fond of a certain dining room dish. When we find out these things we do them your way.

A WISE employee aims to please. We do, too, aiming to please our guests who "employ" us.

WE'RE not high-priced "employees," though. A fine room and bath and excellent service at a low monthly or weekly rate.

GROWING HORRORS OF WAR.

The proving ground at Aberdeen, Md., was the scene of a mighty demonstration of ordnance last Thursday. Armored and combat cars cut their way at 50 miles an hour across plowed fields, spraying bullets at an imaginary enemy as they advanced. Eight-inch howitzers, which formerly could not move at a speed greater than 3 miles an hour, tore through bushes and trees at 30 miles an hour. Speed and power were the arresting features of the demonstration. Air, land and coast warfare were represented.

This spectacle was witnessed by 8,000 persons in addition to the official Government, military and foreign representatives. The feature which impressed the visitors most keenly was the tremendous speed which has been developed recently in the great tanks and other machines of destruction that plow their way through formidable obstacles. So devastating did these huge mechanisms appear, that it seemed no more deadly implements could be devised. Yet the worst instruments of death in modern warfare are not seen in these demonstrations. They are the chemical and biological weapon which Gen. Smuts was discussing in Sheffield, England, while the great display of ordnance was taking place in Aberdeen.

Gen. Smuts, who is president of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, believes that if another war is allowed to occur, it will go far toward the annihilation of mankind. It will be unlike what has been known as war in the past, he says, for it will not confine itself to armies and navies, or even to the paraphernalia of war. It will go straight for the population and large urban centers will be its target. The aim will be to cover a country with poison and disease germs and to make the very atmosphere deadly. The laboratories of three continents are busy with this research for means of wholesale death.

COLUMBUS DAY.

Christopher Columbus and his achievements are a source of never-ending interest to Americans. As the country celebrates his discovery of the Western Hemisphere today Columbus is a figure of far greater renown than when he returned to Spain in triumph after having landed at San Salvador and other islands in the West Indies.

It is interesting to note that more than four centuries after his epoch-making voyage new light on Columbus is still being brought forth. Students of history and research workers are delving into the records of the past for more accurate information about the great discoverer. The result of their efforts is to raise Columbus in the estimation of mankind.

For many years school children have been taught, for example, that Columbus set out with three tiny vessels to find a new commercial route to India. Modern historians deny that his primary purpose was commercial. Columbus was a discoverer, rather than a trader. He told Queen Isabella that he was seeking a new world. His plea for assistance in making that memorable voyage was based not on the advantages of charting a new route to the East, but on the glories of the new world he hoped to find. Historic research has made Columbus a dreamer, a discoverer of the first order, rather than merely a fortunate adventurer and sea trader.

There has been a tendency in recent years to emphasize the wanderings across the Atlantic of northern fishermen and adventurers. It is quite probable that they had some knowledge of America before the Pinta, the Nina and the Santa Maria crossed the open sea, but that does not detract from Columbus' achievement. Columbus Day will probably grow in significance with the coming years.

STUDYING PRIMITIVE MAN.

Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn, head of the American Museum of Natural History, has returned from London, where he expounded his new theory on the age of man before the British Association for the Advancement of Science. Dr. Osborn does not accept the prevalent theory that the Java man, known to science as Pithecanthropus Erectus, is the oldest known specimen of prehistoric humanity. That distinction he assigns to a human-like fossil that was found in 1912 in Piltdown, Southern England. He has a unique theory to support his contention.

During a period estimated at 1,250,000 years man was the traveling companion of the elephant. Primitive man liked the type of partly forested and partly open upland country that the elephant species inhabited. Elephant herds furnished him with food and ivory. As a result all of the remains of prehistoric man have been found in deposits also containing elephant fossils. This fact gave Dr. Osborn his clew. He has worked out a theory for determining the age of man by the evolution of elephants' teeth.

According to Dr. Osborn, the grinding teeth of primitive elephants underwent a steady evolution. Measuring the enamel on the teeth found in the vicinity of the Piltdown man's resting place, he came to the conclusion that this ancient creature must have roamed the plains of Sussex about 1,500,000 years ago. By the same test the Peking man, whose fossil was found recently in China, is adjudged to be 920,000 years old, and the Java man is represented as a mere youngster of 500,000 summers.

Prof. G. Elliot Smith, who appeared before the learned body in the role of sponsor of the Peking man, did not dispute Dr. Osborn's theory, but he insisted that this ancient inhabitant of China is nearer to the common ancestor of man than any other specimen. One reason for this conclusion is the thickness of the Peking man's skull. Some scientists postulate that a man began to think he needed a substantial crust to protect his delicate brain from inconsiderate enemies. Perhaps the thick-skulled species rose to supremacy because of the survival of the fittest.

In spite of the general interest in these findings and conclusions, the layman's unaltered opinion is that the study of primitive man is still in embryonic stages.

ENTERTAINING PREMIER LAVAL.

The Washington home of Walter E. Edge was placed at the disposal of Premier Laval in the course of the American Ambassador's call at the ministry of interior on Friday evening. As Ambassador Edge will be unable to accompany the premier to America and officiate as host, Robert Pell, the ambassador's secretary, will act as substitute.

Members of Premier Laval's party have now been definitely announced and plans for his entertainment in this country are under way. It is understood that Mlle. Josette Laval has, at last, secured the consent of her father to accompany him on this trip, and has reserved passage on the Ile de France as his secretary. This young lady endeavored to overcome her father's opposition some time ago by giving the announcement to the newspapers that she would accompany the premier. Though M. Laval denied it at that time, he has since granted his daughter's wish.

On their arrival in New York, Premier Laval and his party will be met by Mayor Walker's committee and taken to a reception at City Hall, after which they will leave by train for Washington. The premier will establish headquarters at the Edge residence, although he will spend but two of his four nights in Washington there. It is expected that he will be an overnight guest at the White House, and will spend one night at Woodley, the home of Secretary Stimson. These visits with the President and the Secretary of State will permit informal conversation with desirable lack of restraint.

On his arrival in Washington, it is expected that the premier will call on President Hoover within the first two hours. This visit will not be returned, as he is not the head of a state. He will go again in the evening to the White House dinner for Marshal Petain and the guests of the Yorktown sesquicentennial celebration. On the day before his departure the premier will be entertained by Secretary and Mrs. Stimson at a reception at Woodley.

For the most part entertainment of the French party will be informal in order that the greatest possible freedom of discussion may be attained. These intimate sessions should pave the way to a broad understanding between Premier Laval and the heads of the American Government.

TASTE FOR BETTER BOOKS.

So much has been said on the value of good books that a number of trite phrases immediately come to mind when the subject is mentioned. Many individuals, however, go through life without the advantages of reading because they have failed to grasp the essential elements that make for worth in this line. A desire to help young people form a taste for good books has led A. Edward Newton to establish an unusual prize at Swarthmore College. Mr. Newton, known especially for his writings, has collected first editions for years, and now owns one of the finest private collections in the world.

Not having great means with which to endow his project, Mr. Newton decided he would have to make a little money do much. He therefore arranged to establish a prize of $50 each year to the Swarthmore junior or senior who collects the best personal library. Student funds will hardly permit buying first editions, so they will be given little weight in making the awards. Furthermore, the prize will not be allotted for a collection because of the number or cost of books it contains. It will, rather, go to the student who has bought with the greatest discrimination in whatever field he likes, whether it is literature, engineering, biology or some other. His selection will indicate that he has bought books because of the joy of ownership, stressing well edited editions that are made to be read and not just showy books made to sell. A clear understanding of his reason for selecting the various volumes and his knowledge of them will be considered in allotting the award.

In this way Mr. Newton hopes to bring to the attention of a number of young people many features that endear certain editions and volumes to book lovers. Like Benjamin Franklin, Mr. Newton hopes the use of "cunning will make the most of little," and that the benefits of his award will far outweigh its size.

COMPLETING THE CATHEDRAL.

With a fine spirit of American cooperation all elements of society are rallying to support the movements initiated by President Hoover to restore confidence and assist in the resumption of normal activities in this country. Unimpaired natural resources abundance of capital and a season of plentiful crops combine to make the plans of the Chief Executive opportune and of practical value.

A notable contribution to the general effort to relieve unemployment, while forwarding useful works, comes with the announcement from the Right Rev. James L. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, that the trustees of the Washington Cathedral have authorized expenditures totaling nearly $500,000 for construction and symbolic adornments in connection with the beautiful structure on Mount St. Alban.

This means that the employment status of several hundred workers will not be disturbed. The Capital's skilled craftsmen will continue without interruption the task of completing this magnificent monument. During the next few months the north transept, rising 100 feet, truly a notable achievement in architecture, will be completed. Due to a generous anonymous gift of $100,000 the south transept will be started. In addition plans for continuing the work on the reredos, altar, a great stained glass window and the building of the east cloister are ready.

Bishop Freeman speaks true words of encouragement when he says: "We have in this country both resources and men, but for the time being we seem to be suffering a paralysis of initiative and the energies of our people have suddenly been suspended. What we need supremely is that kind of courage—even daring—that characterized Christopher Columbus. I have unbounded faith in the power of America to solve its problems, but we shall only solve them when we cast aside fear and with determination address ourselves to our internal household concerns. The most patriotic duty that lies immediately before us is to recover the finer qualities that were exemplified in our sires in other and more critical periods."

BUILDERS ORGANIZE.

The construction industry is to be organized so as to consolidate the many interests of this field under the direction of the Construction League. Architects, engineers, builders, laborers and others, making in all nineteen groups, representing capital that amounts to approximately $50,000,000,000, will be brought together in the greatest combination in the industrial history of the United States. This league, which embraces plasterers, quarrymen, decorators, plumbers, metal manufacturers and other affiliated industries, will be incorporated in the District of Columbia and its headquarters located in Washington.

Robert D. Kohn, of New York, president of the American Institute of Architects, has been named general chairman of the provisional organization. An effort will be made, according to Mr. Kohn, to coordinate action within the entire building industry. Each member organization will send representatives to periodic conferences, at which reports aimed to improve building practices will be submitted. It has been plainly demonstrated that the industry as a whole is ready to follow the leadership of the professional men and the direction of experts.

It is hoped that the league will be able to do nationally what has been done in many cities by local building congresses. Constructive policies have been carried out in this way, but are in need of coordination. Among the projects that will be given attention throughout the country are the apprenticeship work of the building congresses, the movement for better quality in building materials, fostered by the producers' council, and the attempts by the Associated General Contractors to bring about the prequalification of bidders, as well as to assist in relieving the unemployment emergency. It is believed that in the process of working together every group will acquire a better understanding of the place it holds in the economy of the industry.

FLYING AND FALLING

From the Boston Transcript.

Recent flights of aviators at speeds ranging from 200 to 400 miles an hour seem to have thoroughly exploded the notion formerly pretty generally accepted that a man falling from a great height loses consciousness before he strikes the ground and so is mercifully spared some moments of the horror of his swift-approaching end.

In all human experience previous to the invention of the airplane there had been no way to prove the truth or falsity of the theory. No one falling from a great height had ever survived to describe the sensation. But now, every day, aviators move through the air at far greater velocity than that of a falling body. When Lieut. Stainforth flew, the other day at a reputed speed of 400 miles an hour his passage through the air was about three times as swift as if, like Lucifer, he had dropped from the zenith like a fallen star, drawn by the terrible attraction of his mother earth.

There is, however, one important point of difference which makes us hesitate to say definitely that the old wives with their tale of the falling man were altogether wrong. The aviator is shielded from the rush of wind made by his machine. Experts in aerophysics say that at the speed made by Stainforth he would have been in peril of his life if he had raised his head above the windshield, and might have lost an arm if he had thrust it out into the air, so awful is its force at such high velocities.

We know the destructive power of hurricanes and tornadoes and typhoons when the wind blows at 100 miles an hour. What then must be the effect when it is moving at 400 miles an hour, the rate at which it streamed past Stainforth's machine?

A wind of that velocity sweeping over Boston from the West would flatten every building in the city in a few seconds, it is said, and in a few seconds more would carry all the debris into the sea. All living creatures and such light objects as automobiles, street cars, locomotives and trees would go scurrying aloft like autumn leaves, and be borne for leagues before they were strewn in wreckage over the face of the earth.

Experiments have shown that when a body the weight of the average man is dropped from a height of a mile it gathers speed until it falls at the rate of 118 miles an hour. There have been recorded winds of that velocity on sea and land, but they are rare, and those who have had experience of them say that, faced in the open, not only can one not stand against them but they take away all power of coherent thinking; they bewilder and stun and fairly beat one into insensibility.

The man falling a distance of a mile or more, then, is subjected to the same atmospheric pressure as the sailor in a typhoon, and is so tossed and buffeted and distraught by the terrific roaring wind that he may lose all sense of his doom and come to earth sunk in a compassionate oblivion.

WE CAN NOT HEAR.

An Englishman drawing a salary of $4,000 will pay an income tax of $1,000, says the Charleston News and Courier, and if he buy 1,000 gallons of gasoline a year he will pay a tax of $160 upon it, not to build good roads, but to support the British government. He will pay other taxes.

This is a heavy burden. Englishmen will bear it, to preserve the integrity of their country.

It may be that the British are complaining about their "hard times." We do not hear it.

The noise is completely drowned by the bellowing and squealing of Americans.

This surplus business is bad, all right, but give us time, we'll make a dent in it.

Ship Is Doomed When Crew Won't Work if They Can't Steer

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE curse of a free land is bad sportsmanship.

While men live under the discipline of a king or dictator they clamor for the right to govern themselves; the moment they are free, they show themselves incapable of the self-discipline on which the right to liberty is based.

In every community where majority opinion makes law, there is a minority unworthy of liberty. Its members recognize no higher law than self-interest. They believe in majority rule only so long as they agree with the majority. When the majority fails to do their will, they are openly disloyal.

As some men grow rich by holding unimproved property while others build a city around them, so these profit by a civilization to which they feel no obligation. They have no sense of duty, no civic consciousness. They will rule or ruin.

In literal truth they are like that Benedict Arnold who served his country bravely while service fed his vanity and turned traitor when he was denied the power and glory to which he felt entitled.

America has been cursed with traitors from the beginning.

Traitors sold Indians the guns used to kill their fellow colonists.

Traitors to their race encouraged the savages to kill women and children when England and France fought for the new dominion.

In the Revolution, and in every war that followed, disloyal groups did their utmost to assist the enemy and injure the cause of their own people.

That taint of disloyalty is in the blood of the Nation.

If a law displeases 20 per cent of the people, they do their utmost to hinder its enforcement. They acknowledge no obligation to support majority rule unless it pleases them.

Loyalty to country is a code for suckers. The smart guys are loyal only to self.

Congressmen frightened by the clamor of rural constituents deliberately cripple their country to save their jobs.

Men who wore uniforms for a few months and escaped all injury now demand ever increasing "compensation" regardless of the burden imposed on other citizens.

And now millions are jobless because men with power will not permit the obvious reforms suggested by unselfish and patriotic intelligence.

It isn't war that makes traitors; it is disloyalty to the will and the welfare of the clan.

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Dividing Work.

New York Herald Tribune.

The first recommendation of its subcommittee on unemployment plans and suggestions to the President's Unemployment Commission has the merit of being simple and obvious. In essence it is that employers who have had or may have to curtail their operations employ a full force on part time rather than a part force on full time. Involved in such an arrangement is a sacrifice for many workers who still retain full-time jobs. The employer, too, knows that it is productive of waste and inconvenience; but under present conditions its advantages to the community are too evident to permit of argument and far outweigh whatever considerations of personal sacrifice and industrial efficiency may be raised against them.

A concrete example is that of the chemical industries, which, through the Manufacturing Chemists' Association, has proposed a six-hour working day. The plan, if adopted, would increase the employment of workers in these industries by one-third, it has been estimated. It has the hearty approval of President Hoover.

Mobilizing Bank Resources.

New York Times.

The President's plan for meeting certain serious developments in the economic crisis is of high importance; his statement both about the situation which demanded action and the steps which he and organized banking propose to take is convincing and reassuring. The expedients contemplated ought to grapple efficiently with one of the most aggravating elements—the unnecessary runs on widely separated banks and the resultant throwing on the market, for whatever they will bring, of investments held by them. This double process had been an exceedingly powerful and mischievous influence for evil. It had prevented many banks from granting the usual credits, had embarrassed their clients and had increased banking and business failures.

Not least of all, in a situation surcharged with vague apprehensions and imaginative terrors, this wholesale liquidation of securities, regardless of intrinsic values, had forced down their prices to such abnormally low levels as apparently brought the frightened public to expect some sort of general insolvency. The disintegrating market was itself creating an atmosphere of unwarranted panic, with the result of paralyzing efforts to get ordinary business on its feet again. Mr. Hoover's proposals strike at this demoralizing influence in the vital spot.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Warning Sounded Against Get-Rich-Quick Spirit That Will Follow Return of Prosperity.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The simple truth is that after an economic depression—hard times, as we used to say—has reached a certain point, about the only thing to be done, aside from ameliorating treatment, is to let it run its natural course like an ordinary cold in the head. And as I look at it, the President's planning will do a world of good at a time when the country is getting away from a serious spell of fiscal fever to a condition of safe convalescence.

It will be a great blessing to humanity if the restoration of credit on a sound basis by which the full tide of business is to be renewed, should be permanent. But I am afraid that is too much to expect for some decades to come. However, the hearty response which has greeted the President's plea for united action is encouraging. Let us hope that as its most important result, those who are trustworthy among our financiers will frown upon and discourage the horde of financial mercenaries who will inevitably try to take unfair advantage of our restored credit.

I don't pretend to be anything but an amateur publicist and can only deal with the subject in a general way. But I hope you will permit me, at least, to opine that while another growth of American prosperity is not unlikely to take place in a few years, its permanence will not be assured if we can not hold within reasonable bounds the get-rich-quick spirit from which periods of depression have their certain growth.

Admirer of Dr. Carlos Finlay Denies That He Was an "Eccentric Fellow."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In your news item of October 2, entitled, "Treasury Sending Medals in Yellow Fever Conquest," while you give due credit to Dr. Carlos Finlay for advancing the notion that mosquitoes spread yellow fever," you somewhat disparage him when you say "he was considered an eccentric fellow."

Far from being an eccentric fellow he was a lovable, charming and genial gentleman. This the writer knows, as he was honored and privileged in being Dr. Finlay's cabin mate on a trip to Cuba in July, 1898, during the Spanish-American War.

Domestic Help Is Not Available in Spite of Unemployment.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Each day we read about the unemployment situation. We know these things are true, but do you know how hard it is to get a housekeeper?

I have been trying for two months to get a colored cook and housekeeper, but have had no success.

This position means a good home, a nice warm room all winter, three meals a day, and the salary is clear. Now, why wouldn't some one look at it that way, rather than face cold and hunger for the winter months? No, these people realize that they wont be allowed to starve, so why work?

This is not only my problem. Hundreds of people are seeking the same kind of help.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Will you kindly tell me the name of the person who is responsible for the desecration and destruction of the beautiful parks in the National Capital?

Lafayette Park and McPherson Square have been desecrated. I read in the papers that the destruction of Thomas Circle, the little park at the Taft Bridge, and the magnificent elms around the Ellipse is contemplated. I have admired a magnificent tree in a little park at Eighteenth and Columbia road. It has disappeared. Joyce Kilmer would say,

JUST FOLKS

LOVE AND BLINDNESS.

They say that love is blind. I doubt
This verdict of some grumpy sage.
I'd twist this sentence full about
And say that blindness comes with age.

There's Mistress Mary at the side
Of William, thin and pale and tall,
And finding in him signs of pride,
I vow I can not see at all.

A month ago, we quite agreed
On what was right and what was wrong,
My words of counsel she would heed,
And then this William came along!

"He's just another male," said I,
"A plain, ungainly youth to me,
An ordinary passer-by!"
"I think he's wonderful!" said she.

I looked him over once again
And dubiously shook my head,
"He's rather common-place and plain,
With no unusual charms," I said.

Miss Mary's eyes flashed fire, as she
To his defense was quick to spring,
Saying: "He's perfect as can be!
And isn't he a handsome thing?"

"Handsome?" I answered. "Hardly that!"
"Yes, handsome!" Mistress Mary said.
Fearing to start an endless spat,
I smiled and merely shook my head.

But here's the difference, I suppose:
Mary's in love, and she can see
A grandeur William never shows
To old, cold, calculating me.

TRIP TO IRISH CITIES PLANNED BY GANDHI

Indian Leader May Also Visit Several Countries of Europe and U. S.

London, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Mahatma Gandhi announced today he intends to visit Ireland soon and after the round-table conference is over he plans visits to France, Germany, Italy, Palestine and possibly the United States, if the British government has no objection.

He wishes, he said, to do nothing to embarrass the prime minister of the government in their present plight.

"I have the deepest sympathy for Prime Minister MacDonald," he said. "He is worn out. He is carrying a load which would have crushed a man of less spirit and courage long ago. You can see the terrible fatigue and anxiety in his face. How he can bear up under his political troubles and the terrific national problem, along with the round-table conference, is quite beyond me. England has not seen his like for many a year."

Ever since Ireland won its independence from Great Britain Gandhi has felt he could learn much from the people of the Irish Free State who, he believes, would value him and his fight for India's liberation.

At the conclusion of the conference he plans his visits to the other countries, if they are made. If he visited the United States he would speak on his doctrines in New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Boston and other large cities. The latest of the invitations he has received to go to the United States have come from Negro organizations in Harlem, New York City. In these the Mahatma was described as "a second Moses to lead all colored races from the wilderness of bondage into the light of freedom."

Asked if he was discouraged over the lack of progress of the round-table conference, he replied:

"Well, up to now they have given me nothing and I really expect nothing. I can see nothing but darkness on the horizon. But as long as I know there are certain enlightened constructive forces at work to prevent the conference from breaking down, I shall not return to India. I can not hold a blackjack over England's head while she is tottering and gouge India's freedom out of her."

Eugene Brewster Admits Separation From Wife

Hollywood, Calif., Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Eugene V. Movies Will Offer Shows for Jobless

Week of November 18 Set by Industry for Aid by 20,000 Theaters.

New York, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Special performances, proceeds of which will be donated to local unemployment relief funds, will be the contribution of 20,000 theaters toward the Nation-wide campaign for relief funds, Owen D. Young announced today.

The special performances will be held during the closing week of the Nation-wide campaign for relief funds, set for October 19 to November 26.

"The great majority of local campaigns either will have been completed by that time or will be approaching their end," Mr. Young explained. "Motion picture week will thus round out these endeavors, affording an opportunity to make additional contributions to the emergency funds of the communities."

Rail Travel Is Resumed After Floods in Illinois

Chicago, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Railroads unsnarled their lines today as cool weather ended nearly 2 inches of rainfall over northern Illinois. The Rock Island lines, tied up throughout the night while its trains ran over the Milwaukee road into Chicago, resumed operation.

Banks of the Hennepin Canal, linking the Illinois River to the Mississippi, caved in at several points. Burlington Railroad trains were reported several hours behind schedule. Serious washouts were reported on the Chicago-Galesburg and Streator-Savanna runs.

Of their futile attempts to obtain a license in New York and Newark, N. J., following the bridegroom's arrival, Mrs. Defrere said: "After we had dinner and couldn't get the New York license, we went to West New York and were married at 1:45 p. m."

SHAW, ON AIR, HAILS 'BOOBS' OF AMERICA

Firebrand of Letters Twits and Blasts Listeners on Capitalism.

London, Oct. 11, (U.P.).—George Bernard Shaw, firebrand of English letters, spoke by radio to the "dear old boobs" of America today, alternately blasting and twitting his transatlantic listeners over their "capitalistic" civilization.

"Hello, America!" he said into the microphone in a deep voice. "Hello, all my friends in America! How are all you dear old boobs who have been telling one another for a month that I have gone dotty about Russia? Well, if the latest news from your side is true, you can hardly be saying that now. Russia has the laugh on us. She has us fooled, beaten, shamed, shown up, outpointed and all but knocked out."

"We have prided ourselves," he said, "on our mastery in big business and on its solid foundations in a knowledge of human nature, and now we are bankrupt. Your President, who became famous by feeding the starving millions of war-devastated Europe, can not feed his own people in time of peace. The despairing cries of our financiers have resounded throughout the world."

Human Nature Called Putty.

Shaw said that Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, in a recent conversation with him concerning Russia, said that "you can't change human nature, no matter how you changed your institutions." He disagrees, he said, and likened human nature to a piece of putty.

After discussing his opinion of the American "big business" attitude of financiers grabbing money for their own pockets and saying "damn the public," Shaw said: "If you take that line in Russia you will soon get rich. But when this fact comes to the notice of the income tax authorities, they will ask the G. P. U. to inquire into your wealth and methods.

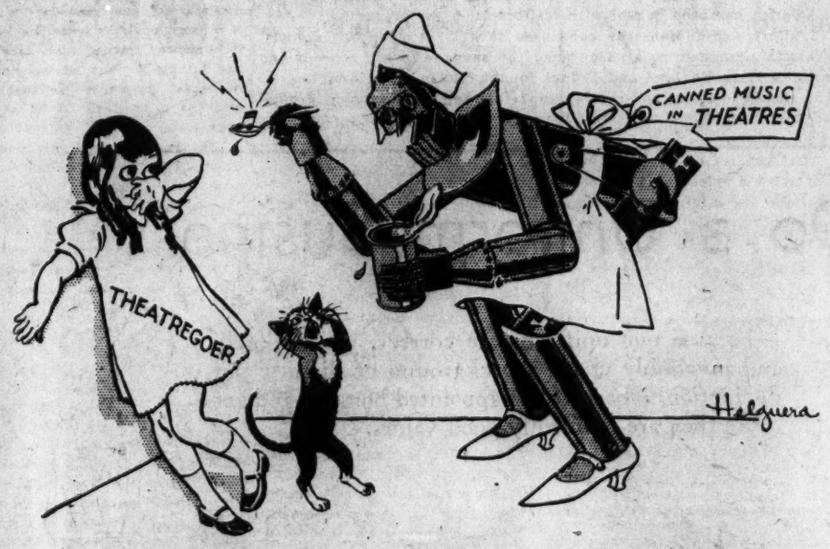
"You will be allowed to vindicate your American business principles and your belief in individualism and self-help to the full 100 per cent. You will not be reproached, nor bullied, nor argued with, nor inconvenienced in any way * * * When you have made yourself quite clear you will suddenly find yourself in the next world, if there be a next world.

Blames Self and America.

"Now, do not for a moment think that this is a punishment or that it has anything to do with the criminal law. All it means is that the Russian putty has been shaped to believe that idiots are better dead."

In describing himself, Shaw said that "I am not an American, but I am the next worse thing—an Irishman."

He holds America and himself responsible for the rise of Soviet Russia—America because of its part in the World War, and himself because of his discovery of Karl Marx. Of America's part in the war he said: "The British soldiers had no common sense and went on slaughtering; the French soldiers had no common sense and kept blazing away; the German and Austrian soldiers were just as foolish, the Italian soldiers joined up and, presently, the American soldiers rushed in and were the silliest of the lot."



THE ROBOT:

"Take it, dear, it's genuine music."

WISE CHILD:

"It's only more of that old canned sound, and I'm tired of it."

The ceremony was performed in a private apartment in the Hotel Pierre by the Rev. Leon R. R. Land, of 520 West 123rd street, in the presence of the immediate families. A small breakfast followed.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Capt. Charles J. Wynne. She wore a gown of beige crepe satin with a chiffon velvet jacket of deeper shade. The jacket was trimmed with blue fox. Her small hat was of beige velvet and she wore a corsage of purple orchids and valley lilies. Miss Helen Lincoln, of Italy, a cousin of the bridegroom, was the bride's only attendant. She wore a pearl-gray ensemble. Mr. Pelham Bogert, of Norfolk, Va., was best man.

After a trip Mr. and Mrs. Perry will live at 180 East Seventy-ninth street, New York. Mrs. Perry's first marriage, to Mr. Robert H. Everard, of Detroit, was terminated by divorce. She was educated in London and Paris and was presented at the Court of St. James. Later she made her debut in Washington. Her father was Consul General to Great Britain and Ireland. DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

BEGINNING a ten-day period of great activity in broadcasting, to be climaxed by the Yorktown sesquicentennial celebration, today will bring a fair share of unusual events to the listener.

Both President and Mrs. Hoover will speak. The President will address the International Association of Police Chiefs, in convention in St. Petersburg, Fla., at 12:45 p. m., through WRC and WMAL.

Mrs. Hoover will christen the 45-passenger Pan-American flying boat, the American Clipper, at the Anacostia naval air station at 2:30 p. m. The ceremony will include addresses by Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, Representative Will Wood, of Indiana; Representative Clyde Kelly, of Pennsylvania; Orestes Ferrara, Cuban Ambassador, and J. T. Trippe, president of the Pan-American Airways System.

Immediately following the christening an invitation will be extended to representatives of various American countries to board the ship for the official trial flight. George Hicks, formerly of WRC, is to make the flight and describe the ship's course over the Nation's Capital. A Spanish speaking announcer will assist him. This broadcast will be relayed by short-wave facilities of WGY, Schenectady, to Latin America.

THE following program will be played by Leopold Stokowski and the Philadelphia Orchestra in a broadcast of the concert to be given at the Academy of Music in Philadelphia tonight (WMAL, 8:15 to 10 p. m.):

Excerpts from "Orfeo," Monteverdi; prelude to "Alceste," Lully; "Concerto Grosso in D Minor," Purcell; overture to the tragedy, "Castor et Pollux," Rameau; "Water Music," Handel, and Fugue in C Minor, prelude in E flat minor, Choral Vorspiel, "Wir Glauben Alle;" Choral Vorspiel, "Aus Tiefer Noth;" Toccata and Fugue in D Minor, by Bach.

The five programs which were put aside in order that the Philadelphia Orchestra concert might be broadcast will be presented next Monday night at the regular times.

Italian and American notables will honor the memory of Christopher Columbus when the Italian Society presents a bronze statue of the Genoese sailor to the State of Minnesota in ceremonies to be heard (WRC, 4:15 p. m.)

The presentation will be made before the State capitol in St. Paul by Ambassador Giacomo de Martino, and will be accepted in the name of Minnesota and the United States by Gov. Floyd B. Olson and Attorney General William D. Mitchell.

Ceremonies to be held by the New York Chapter of the Sons of Columbus in observance of the day will be broadcast by WMAL, 12:30 p. m. today.

An imposing list of singers will be heard on a new series of Sunday afternoon programs under General Electric sponsorship. Choosing Sunday afternoons as an appropriate time, the sponsors have decided to bring to the microphone such singers as Geraldine Farrar, John McCormack and other artists of the Metropolitan Opera and Chicago Civic Opera companies in programs of simple songs.

Opera arias will be absent from the programs. Miss Farrar will be heard on October 18 at 5:30 p. m., with Mr. McCormack scheduled for the following Sunday. Other artists to be heard later include Maria Jeritza, Richard Bonelli, Mary Garden and Louise Homer.

A new morning program, which will be heard from noon until 12:15 p. m. over WRC, every Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday is to be known as the General Electric Home Circle and will be under the direction of Grace Ellis, an authority on woman's interests. The program will begin today.

The Three Doctors will move over to the WJZ network today. WRC will not be able to take the program, which formerly was heard here over WMAL.

SPOKESMEN of the American College of Surgeons, in New York for their annual clinical congress, will be heard in a series of talks over WRC today and again on Thursday. Their subjects will deal with their work, general public health and the prevention of cancer.

The New York Academy of Medicine will present Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson and Sir George Lenthal Cheatle, of London, England, over WMAL on Wednesday morning.

The new General Motors series "Parade of the States" will be inaugurated over WRC Monday, October 19, instead of tonight, as previously planned.

The "Meet the Artist" feature which hitherto has been heard every Thursday over WMAL will be presented hereafter on Tuesdays at 5:15 p. m. The program for last week on which Abe Lyman, orchestra leader, was to have been interviewed by Bob Taplinger will be broadcast tomorrow instead.

THOSE who have been reading the column of H. I. Phillips in The Post, will have an opportunity to hear him tonight when the columnist acts as master of ceremonies presenting Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians in a program heard here through Station WMAL at 10 o'clock.

Weddings are not the only happenings in Rock Creek Park these beautiful fall days. A roadster pulled up in the park Saturday afternoon, its occupants piled out, drew up a park bench where they could sit in more comfort than all in the car. Whereupon they turned on the radio, installed under the dashboard of the auto, and proceeded to enjoy the exciting account of the concluding world series baseball game and subsequently one of the football openers.

WHEN Senator Jesse H. Metcalf, of Rhode Island, is occupying his splendid new yacht anchored in the Potomac, which will be his home during the forthcoming session of Congress, he will be able to pick up the best radio programs and to communicate with Rhode Island, direct from the Capital, on his short wave set, inasmuch as the radio installation is said to be as powerful as that of an ocean liner.

After dark the radio will be the only way his constituents can reach him and no doubt the Rhode Island senator will enjoy the luxury of not having to crawl out of bed some cold winter night about 7 o'clock to answer a telephone call.

We happened to see the senator's new yacht while passing through Bath, Me., this summer. It looked fully as big as the Mayflower and unquestionably will be one of the finest yachts ever seen in these waters.

Art Interprets the Mode

Chic for many hours of the day is this fagotted black wool crepe frock, trimmed with green and white crepe de chine. (A New York model.)

New York, October 10.

YOU'D better watch out when you sail the seven seas of fashion these days—there are pirates about! Pirates who are out to get all they can, even the design of your favorite silk frock.

But seriously now, pirating of silk designs has become one of the major crises of the dress industry. A manufacturer goes to tremendous trouble and expense to design a silk worthy of today's lovely ladies, and then finds that some cheap little house has stolen the very same design and made it up in thin, poor silks—and naturally, he is angry. Silk designs don't just happen, you know—the prices of individual and current designs are extremely high, and this pirating has been a very unfair procedure.

But now, special silk-design patent laws have become effective, and they should put an end to this piracy. Most patent procedures are long-drawn-out affairs, and it's a sign of the seriousness of the whole silk piracy business that patents may now be put through only 48 hours after application has been made. There's endless red tape to this patenting—photostats taken, numbers assigned, many messengers carrying the silk design back and forth, having to submit positive proofs of identification, and so forth, but the system works.

Which means, my deahs, that the next time you see an irresistible lame (lah-may) and spend your last dollar and penny on it, you'll have the satisfaction of knowing that your cook won't come out in a $12.98 model "just like" yours a week later. And for that, we're all thankful that the manufacturers bothered with the red tape! Of course, if the cook has cooked you a specially nice dinner, you'll probably give her yours—but that's an entirely different story.

* * * *

There are days when we just must be dressed smartly for a number of different engagements, 'n' don't have a minute to dash home and change for them! And for such occasions, it's our aim to own a frock which is dressy enough and practical enough at the same time—which can be done, as you see from the illustration today. This frock is of black wool crepe, hand-fagoted at collar and sleeve, and brightened with an incrustation of white and green crepe de chine at the neck. 'N' aren't the novel incrustations and pleats on the skirt interesting, with two groups of pleats on one side and only one group the other?

If you analyze this frock, it's the little unexpected ways of pleats, fagoting and incrustations that distinguish it, and lift it from the class of plain practicality into the class of undeniable chic and beauty! And until you own at least one frock like this your wardrobe just isn't complete.

* * * *

Tucks, tabs and little pearl buttons get together to form the smart blouse I sketch today. It's to be worn outside your suit skirt!

* * * *

Even if you are just a wee bit plump, my dahr-ling, there's no reason why you shouldn't wear a blouse! Oh, yes, I know—you fear a blouse will "out you off" or "widen you out" or some such disaster, but you should just see the one I've designed for you this week! Well—why not see it and find out how becoming it is to you? Why not send your stamped, self-addressed envelope right straight off to the Dare department of The Washington Post for this leaflet? The blouse, you know, with its flattering surplice line, may be worn as a vestee, if you wish, or, in another material, form a two-piece dress.

Au revoir!

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"LIBRA."

IF October 12 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:15 a. m. to 11 a. m., 7:15 p. m. to 5:15 p. m., and from 8:40 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. The danger hours are from noon to 2:20 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m.

The planetary aspects of October 12 indicate great activity of mind and body, and prospect of betterment and advancement. There may be, owing to the influences, a desire to do too much. Such an attitude will militate against success. In the office, factory or home all work will run along smoothly, aided by optimism and cheerfulness of spirit.

Children born on this October 12 will possess courage, and be resourceful, and original. Although born to lead, they will be very easily led by those whom they love. They will be very competent and always have a large share of grit. Their affections will be deeply rooted, and they will be cheerful, spontaneous and tolerant.

You, if born on October 12, are studious, careful in money matters, and extremely cautious. Although not pessimistic, you are never blind to the "unexpected happenings." Your optimism does not serve as the initiative for your work. Rather does your work—when you get into your stride—serve as the generator of your optimism. You are very appreciative of quiet, and often more happy in solitude than when in a circle of congenial friends. You are a great reader and a deep thinker, but are rather uncommunicative, as a result of excessive self-consciousness.

You do not take very kindly to strangers. You are too disposed to think ill of people, and to undervalue the merits they may possess. In no sense of the word, however, are you a curmudgeon. You can dissemble quite successfully, and, when bored or annoyed, rarely, if ever, show it.

October 12 men and women should endeavor to cultivate a sense of humor, and not take life quite so seriously. "Laugh and the world laughs with you, weep and the world laughs at you." Your horoscope foretells a life of shadow more than of sunlight, in spite of the fact that, judged by ordinary standards, you will be successful.

Wives of Tomorrow

—FRANCES M'DONALD—

Youth Defends Youth.

DEAR Frances McDonald:

I have read your column for quite some time and have usually agreed with you on your comments regarding various situations, but your comments on "Lida's" letter just about "burn me up."

I'm sick and tired of hearing the "older generation" berating the codes and customs of the "younger generation." Not that I think "Lida" is a bit justified in her attitude. Anyway, life today isn't a bit different than it was thousands of years ago. From the beginning of time there have always been philandering husbands, misunderstood wives and mistresses.

I'll grant you that youth day is apparently more "hard boiled" than it was in grandmother's day, but youth today is much more broad-minded and has higher ideals than the youth of yesteryear ever thought of having. It's just that young people today see more of the world—they see older people cheat in business; cheat in life, and cheat in love—and the natural tendency is to turn cynic. But every one knows why God created the turtle with such a hard shell. Likewise, under an apparently "hard" surface, youth today carries a far more tender heart—a heart that longs for clean love, clean life, and clean happiness—than did the youth of yesterday. Lida, for instance, feels that if her friend's husband can be untrue to his wife, he should be made to acknowledge his acts and choose between the wife and her.

The "Lida" today "demands a showdown" with the wife of a philandering husband. If "Lida" had half a brain, she wouldn't want any one to know she's been such a fool as to take her friend's husband seriously. But there were "Lidas" just the same in past generations—only years ago they swooned very gracefully in the arms of the unsuspecting male and usually the parents of the female stepped in and demanded to know his intentions.

I'm a part of today's youth—22 years old—and quite representative, too. I've watched older folks—their attitudes toward their husbands or wives toward their friends and toward their families—and needless to say, I'm very much disappointed. I've quite made up my mind that I never want to marry, but I suppose some day I'll play "the cap" and say "yes" to some male's insistent plea—and probably regret it "forever and forever."

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

COMMON SENSE BUT UNCOMMON BIDDING

WHEN you sit down with a stranger to play a rubber of bridge, the question of the system of bidding used is often an important factor. Players have their personal idiosyncrasies, and, unless you are familiar with them, the language of bidding is apt to become somewhat unintelligible and the results attained unusual, to say the least.

The other day an associate of mine told me the story of a hand he played as partner of William E. McKenney, secretary of the American Bridge League, in which, through a confusion of the language of bidding, they reached an unusual and for the moment apparently impossible contract.

South—Dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♠(1)	1◇	2NT(2)	3◇(3)
3♡(4)	Pass(5)	4♡(6)	Pass
Pass	Dbl.	Rdbl.(7)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—South, using the Culbertson system, makes the only bid under that system in his hand.
2—North's bid of two notrump is, of course, self-evident.
3—A purely nuisance raise dictated by the fact that East and West were not vulnerable.
4—The bidding has reached too high a stage for South safely to show all three of his suits. A bid of three spades followed by a bid of four hearts might shut out a possible game in notrump. The heart suit was selected as showing the slight rebid values contained in the hand. In view of North's strong bid of two notrump, South hopes for a final contract of three notrump but does not like to bid it because of his void in diamonds.
5—West is well satisfied with the heart declaration.
6—Mr. McKenney, believing his partner was playing his system, which provides for bidding the short suit first, read South's hand as probably four clubs to the A K and a five-card heart suit, not weaker than Q J. Thus reasoned his raise to four hearts is logical.
7—The redouble is optimistic.

It is not always easy to rectify the mistakes in the bidding by accuracy in the play, but in this case South proved equal to that task. West opened his fourth best diamond, and South, after devoting a few moments to a study of the combined hands, played a small diamond from the Dummy. Perhaps he hoped that East would go up with his Queen, but East, evidently familiar with the Rule of Eleven, was content to play the 7 and South was forced to use one of his precious trumps to take the trick. It was evident that South's only chance to make the contract was based on the establishment of the club suit with the loss of a single trick. Entry in the Dummy to lead the clubs toward his minor tenace was, therefore, essential, so South laid down a heart, taking in the Dummy with the King. A small club was now led and the Knave forced West's Ace. West continued with the diamond. The Knave in Dummy was played and East covered with the Queen, South winning the trick with his third trump.

South now laid down the Ace of trumps, leaving the 5 alone in the Dummy. A small spade was led to the North hand and East discarded a diamond. Now the second round of clubs was led and on the third round East's Queen fell. South led the fourth round of clubs and West trumped. However, his two high trumps and the Ace of clubs were the only tricks he took. The hold-up of the Ace of diamonds proved a more effective barrier to the hopes of East and West than would another trump in the Dummy hand.

The hand is most unusual apart from the unconventional bidding in that the declarer, with only four trumps in his own hand and a total of seven in the combined hands, deliberately accepted a force and left an opponent not only with the commanding trump but with two of them.

The hand is just one of the examples, which occur wherever bridge is played, of partners misunderstanding the messages conveyed across the table. Happy is that partnership which can rectify misunderstandings in the biddings through skill in the play.

TODAY'S POINTER

In the use of takeout doubles it is important to distinguish between doubling when vulnerable and when not vulnerable. There is a great difference in the resultant penalty should the doubler strike, as will happen at times, a blank hand. Consequently, although the 3 honor-trick requirement remains the same, the double when vulnerable should show either strong intermediates or, if it be a strategic double, a fairly powerful escape trump suit.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

WHITEHEADS.

MANY persons write, asking about whiteheads. This is by way of a collective reply and is nothing more than an explanation of them. They have no health relations and are not even of great interest from the cosmetic standpoint.

The skin is studded with glands, some secreting grease and others water. The purpose of both sets of glands is to serve the skin, though the sweat glands help to keep down body temperature. The purpose of the grease glands is to keep the skin and hair properly oiled.

It is possible that originally every grease gland opened alongside a hair shaft, but when man became a relatively hairless animal, some of the grease glands were compelled to pour out their secretion on the general skin surface unprotected by a hair shaft. If the grease is very liquid, it pours out very readily. If it is less so it may accumulate in the glands.

Some day some chemist may teach us how to increase the liquidity of this grease — the same type of changing back and forth among fats that commercial establishments are so successful in doing. In this way we may find a magic cure for blackheads and pimples. When grease accumulates in an open mouthed grease gland the outer segment absorbs dirt, and this further dries the fats, making the familiar, wormlike blackhead. If skin bacteria infest this clogged up grease gland the result is a pimple. The general condition is known as acne.

So much for blackheads—and the only difference between them and whiteheads is that in the latter a thin layer of skin covers the opening of the grease gland. This keeps the dirt away from the grease and, in that way, prevents the outer end of the plug from becoming black. Incidentally, it keeps the bacteria away and thus it comes about that whiteheads rarely develop into pimples.

The orifices of grease glands are especially likely to be closed by a growth of displaced cells on parts where the skin is pushed around. Such parts are the bridge of the nose, the top, the sides, and the temples in those who wear glasses. Around the eyes and across the forehead, and in other areas that are the site of wrinkles and in the areas of the face that are customarily shaved.

These several procedures sometimes cause skin cells to bridge across the gland opening, to get a foothold on the opposite side, and then to grow. In consequence, in time, the gland has no emptying duct, and if secretion continues the grease accumulates as a rounded white ball. I have seen such masses as large as a pea. Hairs are caused to ingrow in the same way.

The only way to prevent the formation of whiteheads is to discontinue the cause; to refrain from using glasses, not to wrinkle the brows or screw up the eyes, or to let the beard grow. Most people faced by such alternatives would take whiteheads.

GO ON AND SWIM.

G. R. writes: I am a young man and am bothered by superfluous hair which appears in such conspicuous places on my back, arms, and shoulders as to make it very embarrassing. I do not go in swimming on this account. Have tried various depilatories which remove the hair, but it comes right back. Is there a permanent way of removing it?

REPLY.

There is nothing practicable. Why not go swimming? Many ladies prefer the "hairy type." Many "hairy ape" men are glad of a chance to strut their stuff.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

WINTER MULCHES.

AT THIS time when the foliage of our perennials is beginning to turn brown and become dry it should be removed, as it is of no further use to the plants. In fact, if left intact these dead tops become a menace as they harbor insects and disease spores. Cut them off 2 or 3 inches from the ground and as soon as possible burn them. While you are going about your garden be sure to loosen the soil and uproot and burn any weeds you chance to find. This will materially lessen your work next spring.

Plants which have developed into large clumps should now be divided. This dividing and transplanting is necessary with most perennials about once in four or five years. It may sound like work, but it is really very easy to lift and divide a clump. All that is necessary is to lift the root out of the ground. Clean out the crown; if it is filled with mud wash this off with the strong stream of the garden hose. Sometimes you can pull a clump apart with your fingers, at other times they must be separated with a sharp spade or an edging tool.

If you are making over an entire old bed of one variety then it will be best to make fairly large divisions; say three to six to a plant. These should yield a generous supply of blooms next year. If, however, you wish to increase your supply of a certain variety and are not so particular as to next season's flowers, you may make the division much smaller. If the plants are in active growth when you lift them you must keep them shaded for almost two weeks after planting and keep them very moist to prevent their wilting.

These plants, and particularly newly set-out plants that have not been divided, must be carefully mulched if they are to come through the winter in good shape, ready to make growth at the first suggestion of spring.

Dry leaves, manure (well-rotted), coarse leafmold from the woods or peat moss are all good mulching materials. The leaves may be held in place by evergreen boughs. In the case of peat moss it should be moistened and applied before the ground freezes, so that it can be slightly mixed with the soil. One advantage with peat moss is that you are sure it contains no weed seeds.

Most perennials are perfectly hardy so you do not use a mulch to prevent freezing or protect them from the cold, but to prevent alternate freezing and thawing of the surface of the soil with resulting root injury, and to prevent them from starting into growth too early in the spring.

Ancient Armor of Esquimos Found by Scientist Group

Articles Used by Northland Warriors as Long as 1,000 Years Ago Uncovered by Smithsonian Party in Excavating Village Sites.

(Associated Press.)

An ancient piece of armor, worn by a Northland warrior perhaps as much as 1,000 years ago, is the latest clew to the mystery of the Eskimos' origin.

Discovery of a breastplate made of whalebone strong enough to ward off primitive arrows and spears has been reported by Moreau B. Chambers, representative of the Smithsonian Institution. He found the armor, with many other relics of the long-vanished "Golden Age" of Eskimo history, while excavating prehistoric village sites on St. Lawrence Island, in the Bering Sea, this summer.

Beautifully carved ornaments, weapons and tools, found on the older village sites, provide additional evidence that the Eskimos originated in Asia, says Henry B. Collins, jr., Smithsonian archeologist.

The Eskimos are known to have come to America long after the original ancestors of the Indians crossed from Asia, probably by way of Bering Strait, Mr. Collins explained. Where they originated, why they stayed in the inhospitable North, why the beautiful art of their prehistoric "Golden Age" degenerated much as did that of the ancient Greeks, are mysteries scientists are seeking to solve.

Five village sites on St. Lawrence Island, dating back to the oldest known Eskimo culture of from 2,000 to 3,000 years ago, furnish a complete cross section of Eskimo history covering that period of time. They are considered as valuable to students of Eskimo history as Pompeii to students of ancient Rome. Eskimos lived there for centuries because walrus, seal and whale were plentiful.

Preserved in the frozen soil for hundreds of years as though in cold storage, Chambers found tools made of flint lashed in the ends of split sticks, with the original lashings of flexible whalebone still in place. There were also ivory knife handles with slate blades, throwing sticks for hurling darts, wrist guards used when shooting bows and arrows, ivory-tipped harpoons and many ornaments.

Those from the older village sites were carved with delicate freehand designs. They represent the golden age of Eskimo culture, which flourished between 3,000 and 1,000 years ago.

RED CROSS SEEKS CLOTHES FOR POOR

Arlington Chapter Asks Women to Help Repair Garments.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The Arlington County chapter of the American Red Cross and the superintendent of public welfare, Mrs. Mae E. Jacobs, have issued a joint appeal for clothing, which they claim will be greatly needed for the poor in the county this winter.

Women handy with needle and thread and who can spare a little time from their own home duties will be welcomed each Tuesday at the local Red Cross headquarters in the Rucker Building at Clarendon, the chairman, Mrs. Bertha Kelly, stated. Volunteers are needed, Mrs. Kelly says, to patch and mend clothing which is donated.

Those having clothing to donate are asked to communicate with Mrs. Kelly, in Ashton Heights, or Mrs. Jacobs at her office at the county courthouse or at her home in Ballston.

Candidates for the county board will speak at a political mass meeting tonight at 8 o'clock under auspices of the Jefferson District Citizen's Association, in the auditorium of the Firemen's Hall.

A party for the benefit of the Jefferson District Fire Department Band will be given in the auditorium of the Firemen's Hall Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. A program will be presented by Gladys Marcey, Nelson Marcey, Miriam Talshoff and the band. County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp will be master of ceremonies. Prizes will be awarded for conduct, progress and attendance.

The party is being sponsored by Harry K. Green, Howard B. Fields, William C. Gloth, Lawrence W. Douglas, B. M. Hedrick, James Burke, Frank Nelson and George D. Hornig, patrons of the band. Mrs. Pauline A. Smith is acting chairman for the patrons.

Armistice Jubilee Plans Progressing

Representative Johnson Is to Act as Grand Marshal for Event.

A prominent film star and an actor eminent in the vaudeville world are to be among the notables present at the Armistice Day jubilee of the Veterans of Foreign Wars on November 11 at the Washington Auditorium. Other plans for making the event an unforgettable one, both financially and otherwise, are proceeding apace under the direction of the Armistice jubilee committee of the organization, of which N. D. Golden is chairman.

Representative Royal C. Johnson, of South Dakota, will act as grand marshal at the jubilee, which is to be staged under the setting, "Paris on Armistice Night." A hundred and one features designed to provide authentic atmosphere have been arranged for by the committee. Tickets, which are to retail for $1, are going fast.

Many notables are behind the drive to make the jubilee a success. Mrs. Mary Roberts Rinehart has been invited to be the chairman of the committee for the sales of boxes; Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, will head the patrons and patronesses committee, and Mrs. John Allan Dougherty the advisory committee.

Don Carlos Hailed As Spanish King

Carlist Leaders Plant Gold Crown on Coffin of Aspirant.

Viarreggio, Italy, Oct. 11 (U.P.).—Don Alfonso Carlos of Bourbon, was formally proclaimed "King of Spain" today by the Carlist leaders who gathered in front of the tomb of Don Jaime, pretender to the throne from which Alfonso XIII was toppled last April.

Later a manifesto was issued affirming the rights of the Carlist leader, long a foe of Alfonso XIII, to the crown. Members of the Bourbon, Bourbon-Parma, and Bourbon-Orleans families attended the ceremony which appeared to have nullified the unity of Spanish Monarchist forces achieved by Alfonso and Don Jaime shortly before the latter's death in Paris.

Conte Mattioli Pasqualini represented King Victor Emmanuel at the burial of Don Jaime in the family vault. The Archbishop of Lucca officiated at the ceremony. A gold crown, scepter and sword were placed on the coffin of the Carlist leader who had aspired to the Spanish throne.

Henderson Estate Valuation Delayed

Persian Attaches Refuse to Allow Action Until Minister Is Here.

Appraisal of part of the property of Mrs. Mary F. Henderson, former Washington society leader, who died recently, will be delayed until the new Persian Minister reaches the Capital, it was learned yesterday.

The property, consisting of furniture and pictures, is in the Persian Legation, having been loaned to it by the deceased dowager. Attaches of the legation have declined to permit collectors for the estate of Mrs. Henderson to appraise it until the new minister arrives. The collectors will ask the court for an extension of time for filing thir final report.

All other personal property in the Henderson estate has been appraised. The total, exclusive of a note for $137,000 on the Polish Legation, and a small amount of cash, will amount to about $175,000, it was learned. Property at the legation is believed to be worth about $3,000.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

POSSIBLY one of the most significant notes that has recently reached the dramatic desk, from a purely local standpoint, has just come to hand from Mr. Robert D. Chase, chairman of the producing group of the Drama Guild of Washington. Says Mr. Chase, in part:

"We have undertaken to revitalize the Drama Guild here by building it around a group of some 35 individuals who constitute the best dramatic talent of the city, and we should very much like to talk over with you—meaning the Capital's dramatic press—some of the problems facing us in making the organization a real factor in the dramatic life of the city, and Washington a real leader in the nonprofessional dramatic movement of the country.

"This has been the aim of many of the best dramatic minds of the city for the past 20 years and we believe we are now so organized that we can begin to realize that objective."

This round-table discussion, as I understand it, will be participated in by the editorial chiefs as well as the dramatic departments of the local papers together with the moving spirits of the Drama Guild at a luncheon in the Cosmos Club on Thursday afternoon at 12:30.

There may be here the nucleus of a noteworthy development. Friday morning's column ought to tell!

It is not surprising that "The Admirable Crichton" should have scored so decisively at the National last week, in view of the far-sightedness of George C. Tyler in casting the Barrie play.

In the first act of "Crichton" a long list of servants lend a touch of delicious humor to a scene that none but a Barrie could concoct. The individual roles are distinctly minor, but they are without exception played by actors and actresses capable of stepping into parts of major importance and giving creditable performances. As a matter of fact, many of these supporting players understudy the principals.

As an example, in the role of the stable boy, George Smithfield had the merest bit, although he is a character actor of some note and the author of a farce, "Up the Alley," which was presented by the Provincetown Players at their theater in Greenwich Village, N. Y., for a run this past summer. Furthermore, in the illness of William Fonstance, stage director, Mr. Smithfield was called upon to rehearse the company at the National preceding last Saturday's matinee.

Mr. Smithfield, incidentally, is a World War veteran who was once stationed at Camp Meade as stage director of the edusational and recreational department of the war plans division of the War Department.

All of which comes back to the original point that Mr. Tyler overlooks no bets.

And about this exceptionally fine film, "The Spirit of Notre Dame," current at the Rialto, if it accomplished nothing more, it would have served a useful purpose in correcting the popular error in the pronunciation of Frank Carideo's name. It is not Car-rid-se-oh, with the accent on the second syllable, but Cah-ree-day-oh, with the accent on the third.

Yeah, learn one thing each day!

And another thing. Contrary to an additional popular misconception, "The Spirit of Notre Dame" is not in in any sense a sequal to, or in any way connected with, "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," an earlier Universal triumph. The Notre Dame here concerned is the educational institution located out at South Bend, Ind. Y'wekkum.

Earl Carroll, producer of the "Vanities," concerning which you will find something in other columns—or maybe these same ones—of today's issue, is a visitor in this city, Hugh Miller, the demon photographer of the New York Morning Telegraph and formerly of this paper, having snapped a serious-visaged likeness of him, in company with Tom Rooney and Ned McGurn, out at the Laurel track last Saturday.

From the expressions on the faces of this trio—a print of the picture is before me—I take it that they had not exactly been knocking the parimutuel machines loose from their moorings with any heavy winnings, although, of course, it may have been the way the sun hit them! Anyhow, both Earl and Brother Jim were in jovial mood when I chatted with them between the acts at the National last night.

And just to use up a few dots, if there is anything in heredity, Linda Watkins, who makes her screen debut in "Sob Sister," now at the Fox, should never have been an actress. Her father was a real estate operator and other relatives include Professor Michelson, discoverer of the velocity of light; Maj. Arthur Radcliffe Dugmore, painter and explorer, and William Watkins, inventor of the automatic fire alarm . . . Doris Kenyon, with William Powell in "The Road to Singapore," at the Earle, has made one of the most notable comebacks in the history of the cinema . . . Three members of the cast appearing with Ann Harding in "Devotion," in its second week at RKO-Keith's, hail from faraway Australia—O. P. Heggie, Tempe Pigott and Joan Carr; three others have scored decisively on the London stage—Leslie Howard, Doris Lloyd and Louise Closser Hale . . . Now that William Powell is married to Carole Lombard, Ronald Colman, in "The Unholy Garden," at the Palace, is the last survivor of that famous bachelor trio that consisted of Powell, Colman and Richard Barthelmess . . . "Devotion," unless that was you who just tiptoed out of the room, opened its second week to practically the same box-office grosses as marked the inauguration of its first week ten days ago—a most unusual achievement.

It took Gabby Street almost as long to win another world's championship as it did to catch that ball tossed out of the top of the Monument twenty-odd years ago. Apropos of nothing whatever, of course.

THE THEATER LAST NIGHT

EARL CARROLL VANITIES (Eighth edition). A super-spectacle in 66 incidents, featuring Jack Benny, Herbert Williams, Chas Chase, The Collette Sisters, Betty Veronica, John Hale, the Stroud Twins, Mary Marlowe, Julie Jenner, Curtiss Coly, Eddie Leslie and June Brewster, supported by a large cast and chorus of beauties. Dances and ensembles by Ned McGurn; dialogue by Eddie Welch; Eugene Conrad; music and lyrics by Jay Gorney and E. J. Harburg. Harold Arlen and Ted Koehler; costumes designed by Charles Le Maire. At the National Theater.

By NELSON B. BELL.

A glittering phantasmagoria of riotous color, flashing bodies and frenzied dance; a stupendous symposium of spectacle, syncopation and salacity—such is this first of the recent Broadway revues to reach the National Capital this new season.

Those who cringe at entertainment that now and again marks the farthest reaches of daring in the display of the human form divine, and, at other times, becomes broadly, but generally amusingly, risque, had best not bother about this one. Those others who find it possible to lend themselves to the so-called "continental" spirit of ribaldry, popularly supposed to characterize the present era, and have an eye for the beauty frequently underlying the surface smudge, will have a pretty swell time at a pretty spectacularly swell show.

For there is beauty in the "Vanities"—beauty of scene, beauty of costuming and occasionally beauty of dance, when rhythm supplants the rumba and terpsichore takes possession of the fest instead of the torso. "Kneedeep in June" and "Heart of Daisies," at the very beginning of the first act, are lavishly lovely, even if not so extravagantly magnificent as the "Celestial Bodies," "Diamond Studded Sky," "Let Freedom Ring"

Interspersed with these imaginative scenes of splendor and sparkle and skin are innumerable bawdy blackouts—some hilariously funny, others merely boldly and crassly vulgar. And sandwiched in among these, in turn, are individual specialties by a group of the variety stage's most reliable and resourceful comedians.

Jack Benny wanders in and out through the scenes, alternating his deliberate and droll comments on the goings-on with bits of favorite monologues, with which many in the audience find themselves already familiar. Herb Williams, a comedian of such distinctive methods and equipment as to preclude successful imitation, participates in all of the evening's funniest skits and climaxed his performance with an elaboration of his piano act, which gains immeasurably by being moved into a broadcasting studio. Completing a surefire trio is Chas Chase, that diminutive maniac who ravenously devours everything in sight and here displays a sounder sense of comedy than his single act would lead you to believe.

Then there are the Collette sisters, who do yeowoman's service throughout the two acts in song, dance and patter; Mary Marlowe, a tower of strength in the rougher of the comedy bits; the Stroud Twins, Claude and Clarence, in their tap, acrobatic and amazingly accurate unison dancing; John Hale, with a pleasant tenor voice; Harry Stockwell, with a ditto barytone; Julia Jenner, who wriggles and writhes through the provocative measures of "Hittin' the Battle," the wildest number in the two acts, and scores more.

There will be few to dispute Mr. Carroll's modest claim that in this production are to be found the most beautiful girls in the world. It is a stunning ensemble, stunningly costumed in a stunning absence of any sort of apparel much of the time!

The score is not distinguished, nor is it disappointing—just a good, average journeyman's job to lace together the blistering blackouts and the licentious dances of a fast, funny and furious flaunting of all the conventions, in which, strangely enough, physical revelation is turned to genuinely artistic account and so rendered impressively innocuous.

Religious Proposal For Schools Is Hit

Secular League Sees Use of Clergy in Plan as Good-Will Menace.

Condemnation of a recent proposal that a committee of clergymen assist in preparing a character training program for use in public schools was voiced in a resolution adopted yesterday by the Secular League. The proposal, advanced by Henry Gilligan, Board of Education member, envisioned a designation of a rabbi, a Catholic priest and a Protestant minister.

Declaring that the movement was "violative of fundamental American principle and fraught with peril for the peace and good will of our citizenship," the resolution pointed out that Congress, "which is supposed to govern the District, is forbidden by the Constitution to enact laws respecting the establishment of religion."

The meeting, which was held at Musicians Hall, 1006 E street northwest, was also addressed by Julius Davidson on the subject of "Religion and the Soviets." A discussion which followed was joined by several native Russians.

INJUNCTION SOUGHT IN ASTOR LITIGATION

Portland, Oreg., Man Asks Court to Prevent Order Disposal.

Portland, Oreg., Oct. 11 (A.P.).—A suit seeking to enjoin Vernon J. Emerick, Medford, Oreg., from disposing of a New York Probate court order to heirs of the late John Jacob Astor, has been filed in Federal Court here.

Jesse Jacob Emerick, Tacoma, who filed the action, asserted the probate court order was vital to the distributio of a huge estate, represented as left in December 16, 1816, by John Nicholas Emerick, a partner of the late Mr. Astor. John Nicholas Emerick, the petition stated, died in Philadelphia.

The Emerick estate reputedly was appraised at $1,000,000, and left in trust for 90 years. The plaintiff to the Portland action contends he is a direct descendant of one of several brothers, only heirs to the estate.

In 1849, it is set forth, the will was probated in New York, and a determination of the heirs made, but the court refused to distribute the estate, and decreed it must remain in trust until 1906.

The petitioner says the Astor family is anxious to obtain the New York court order because certain provisions of the nineteenth century Emerick will directly affected the fortune of his partner, the late John Jacob Astor.

Defendants to the action, other than Vernon J. Emerick, include Otto M. Jones, Merton J. Emerick, Dee W. Emerick, Edna Carnahan and Lindon Ray Emerick.

Vernon J. Emerick, at Medford, today said he did not possess the reputed missing court order, and did not know Jesse Jacob Emerick. Vernon J. Emerick, a former Medford mayor, said a similar suit had been pending in New York courts for four years.

SHARKEY HELD 7-5 CHOICE OVER CARNERA TONIGHT

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

JUST as surely as Al Pease caught the 50-yard pass from "Shorty" Chalmers to win the game against Navy for Maryland, a couple of other lads in the line-up saved the battle for the Old Liners in the final period at Griffith Stadium last Saturday.

From his position at right guard, Jess Krajcovic, handsome Polish youth who never played a minute of football before entering Maryland, wrought havoc with Navy's attack throughout the game in an exhibition of pluperfect line play. When Navy was threatening to score with a desperate open attack in the final quarter, Krajcovic it was who time and again burst through the Navy line to rush Navy passers into poor heaves and bring down Navy runners ere they reached the line of scrimmage.

Battling desperately and effectively, too, was Al Woods, the Maryland quarter back, an ubiquitous individual out there on the field Saturday. Woods personally accounted for a half dozen Navy passes that came to grief as he defended the secondary zone.

Woods raced hither and yon, knocking down Navy heaves and bringing down Navy runners who had crossed the scrimmage line. Woods it was who covered the ground with giant strides to bring down Hampson from behind after the Navy back had blocked Chalmers' placement kick and then recovered the ball with a clear field ahead of him.

Gabby Street turned to a game guy for assistance when he chose Hallahan to relieve Grimes in that hectic ninth inning in the final world series game after the Athletics had risen in their might and put two runs across with two out, leaving the tying runs on base.

That Hallahan disposed of Bishop for the final out is history, but he justified the faith of Street. Hallahan's wildness is irrefutable. Much too often he is in difficulties from the passes he issues. This was no spot for a wild pitcher. But Street wanted a guy with "guts" in there. And Hallahan won the job for that reason.

Hallahan had demonstrated his courage in his second game of the series at St. Louis, when Jimmy Wilson's attack of mental indigestion on Moore's third strike resulted in the Athletics filling the bags and cheating the little southpaw of apparent victory.

Any kind of a hit would have tied the score for the Athletics that day. Hallahan went back to the mound after Eddie Collins' protest had been upheld, and displayed no trace of disgust on his chalk-like features. He faced Max Bishop as indifferently as if Bishop had been the opening batter of the ball game instead of the man who threatened to cheat him of a game which already should have been won. That time, too, he disposed of Bishop on a foul to Bottomley to clinch his victory.

But Hallahan's courage stood out in boldest relief in the fifth game of the series at Philadelphia. Only Al Simmons had been able to solve his delivery in the first three innings. In the fourth, again Simmons hit. It was a scorching liner directly into the box and bounced off Hallahan's midriff with such force that it caromed past Gelbert into right field. Hafey was forced to field the ball while his teammates gathered about Hallahan solicitously.

But Hallahan never even rubbed the spot where he was hit. Waved his teammates away and started pitching again.

Two innings later, Jimmy Foxx lined a pitch back at Hallahan. It hit the little southpaw a resounding crack on the left shin and bounded past Frisch into right field. Again his alarmed teammates gathered about the little pitcher. He shook it off with two violent kicks of the injured leg and let it go at that. There were no time outs for Hallahan.

So Gabby Street chose Hallahan to save the game and the series for the Cardinals last Saturday at St. Louis.

San Francisco Wins Coast League Pennant

Los Angeles, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—San Francisco took over the Pacific Coast League pennant here last night by winning its fourth straight game of the play-off with Hollywood, 5 to 4, before 6,000 fans at Wrigley Field. The victory was the second of the series for the Seals' star right-hander, Sam Gibson.

Minus Players, Squad Turns to Basket Ball

Ryderwood, Wash., Oct. 11 (A.P.).—When is football basket ball? Answer—When only 13 men report for the grid team.

A call was issued for football at the Ryderwood High School this fall and all the boys—thirteen—turned out. The coach took one look, figured they would average 125 pounds with only two reserves and he quickly shooed them inside and handed them a basket ball.

He will forget football this season and get a two months' jump on the other schools at basket ball.

Grange's Touchdown Wins for Chicago Pros

Chicago, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Harold "Red" Grange scored the only touchdown to give the Chicago Bears a 6-to-0 victory over the New York Giants in a National Professional League football game today.

A poor punt gave the Bears possession of the ball on the Giants' 20-yard line in the third period. "Bronko" Nagurski and Joe Lintzenich hammered to the 1-yard line and Grange, erstwhile University of Illinois star, took it over.

BETHESDA WINS FINAL.

The Bethesda Athletic Club baseball team wound up its season yesterday by nosing out the Ballston Athletic Club, 6 to 5, in a well played game on the latter's diamond yesterday. The Best brothers, Harry and Bill, held the losers to nine hits. The winners slammed McQuinn for thirteen safeties.

Apaches and Irvington in 0-0 Tie

Indians Miss Chance to Take Game as Contest Ends.

Both Teams Threaten to Score Throughout Battle.

EVERYTHING that goes to make a good football game was on exhibition at Griffith Stadium yesterday afternoon. The Apaches, District champions, and the Irvingtons, of Baltimore, battled their way up and down the field in the first game of the new South Atlantic League's season. They thrilled the fans with long runs, completed passes, sensational tackling and a class of fight generally saved for colder weather. But after 60 minutes of action, the players dragged themselves off the field without a score having been made.

Despite that fact, a very little portion of the contest was fought in midfield. First one club and then the other seemed on the verge of a touchdown only to buck up against a stonewall defense.

Perhaps the best chance to decide the battle was offered the Apaches in the closing minutes. Gene Murphy, former Catholic U. full back, shot a 40-yard pass to Connell, who was tripped and downed on the Irvington 8-yard line. When two line bucks failed, Murphy dropped back and tried two passes, the first was knocked out of Dugan's hand and the other was grounded over the goal line.

Irvington gambled with the game at this point, trying three passes from behind the goal line before Campbell booted far up the field.

The first half was fought for the most part between the 15-yard lines. The Apaches had a chance after a pass from Murphy to Dugan, while a long run by Campbell put Irvington in a scoring position.

Irvington Threatens in Second Half.

On the second play of the second half, it appeared that the Apaches might lose their grip on the game. Campbell slipped off tackle, wiggled himself free from several tacklers and hoofed it down the sideline. At least two Apaches missed dives at his legs before Marvin Meyers brought him down on the 10-yard line. Campbell, the hero, proved the dub a moment later when he fumbled and Roy Boyd recovered for the Apaches. But Byrne's punt was blocked and it was Irvington's ball 18 yards from the goal line. This time the Baltimoreans could make no headway and the Indians took the ball on downs.

At the start of the last period, Irvington was again in scoring position. Byrne, Apache quarter back, punted a long drive that E. Ryscavage caught on the run. He was downed on the 15-yard line. Two line plays failed the visitors and Dugan, Apache half back, ended the threat by intercepting a pass.

The Apaches, playing their first game under the direction of Jim Farrell, made a creditable showing. The line shows promise of giving the Indians another strong set of forwards while the back field, once it clicks together, should trouble any club in the league.

Jim Montague and Roy Boyd, a pair of Southeast boys, played brilliant defensive games.

Next Sunday, the Apaches will meet their old rivals the St. Mary's Celtics at the stadium, while the Mohawks are clashing with the Irvingtons in Baltimore.

VAUDEVILLE CALLS PEP MARTIN

Cards Scatter Until Called to Training Camp in Spring

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Gabby Street, manager of the world champion Cardinals, departed this morning for his home in Joplin, Mo., to forget the trying moments of the world series and prepare for the opening of another season. With Street gone, a majority of the athletes have said farewell to baseball until next spring.

The plans of the players are varied, but Jimmy Wilson, star catcher, believes he will enjoy the winter most of all.

"I'm going back to Philadelphia," he said, "buy the biggest cigar I can find and walk up and down Broad street telling the boys all about it."

Pepper Martin Now an Actor.

Pepper Martin still is in St. Louis, playing vaudeville. When his vaudeville engagement ends he will return to his native Oklahoma and hunt, the one thing he likes to do better than play baseball.

"Sunny Jim" Bottomley, the ladies' favorite, plans to play a few exhibition games, one of them in his home town, Nokomis, Ill., after which he will spend much time hunting and eating chicken fried by his mother. "Ma" as "Sunny Jim" calls her, still is his sweetheart and the best cook he has run across.

Frankie Frisch, the Cardinal captain, is going to Japan with an all-star team, which will include Lefty Grove, Mickey Cochrane and Al Simmons, of the Athletics.

Pitcher Sylvester Johnson is en route to Portland, Oreg., where he will play golf. He is one of the best golfers in baseball and has won several tournaments.

Wally Roettger, as usual, will coach basket ball at Illinois Wesleyan, Bloomington, Ill. Bill Hallahan will remain here for a few days and then leave for Binghamton, N. Y. Gus Mancuso and George Watkins will winter at Houston, Tex., where they will hunt and "just rest."

Sparky Adams is going to his home in Pennsylvania but he has no special plans. Charley Gelbert also

D. C. BOASTS 2 UNBEATEN ELEVENS

Maryland and G. W. Yet to Feel Sting of Defeat.

As a result of Saturday's engagements the Capital has now but two undefeated college football teams, and these, George Washington and Maryland, face powerful foes this week in Tulsa and Kentucky, respectively. Georgetown, with a victory over Western Maryland to its credit, met disaster in Yankee Stadium, New York, where New York University's gridiron behemoths inflicted the worst beating a Georgetown eleven has suffered in a decade.

George Washington and Maryland scored their third successive wins by defeating, respectively, Boston U., 14 to 0, and Navy, 6 to 0. It was the third game in which G. W. denied its opponent a single point.

In victimizing the Terrors, Coach Jim Pixlee's players showed an improvement over earlier performances, but they should have piled up a more convincing total. Four times the Colonials' offense either stalled or met stonewall opposition near the Boston goal line.

In its prestige-winning triumph over Navy, Maryland showed far better football than in its winning games with Virginia and Washington. Shorty Chalmers came through with a mighty 50-yard pass in the third quarter that was converted into the SATURDAY.

Gallaudet vs. Langley Field at Langley Field, Va.

THE first night football game of the season here features this week's local college gridiron program, which lists three contests for home consumption and two others in which Capital representatives perform on foreign fields.

Coach Jim Pixlee's promising George Washington Colonials will be hosts in the nocturnal attraction, scheduled Friday night in Griffith Stadium, with Tulsa University's Oilers providing the opposition. It is the first of three interactional engagements on George Washington's schedule.

Kentucky Eleven Visits Maryland.

While this game holds the stage alone on Friday, two games will vie for patronage on Saturday afternoon. Maryland University's eleven meets Kentucky's Wildcats, with "Shipwreck" Kelly in the visiting line-up, at College Park, and the scrapping Eagles of American University tackle High Point College from North Carolina on the Eagles' new gridiron at Massachusetts and Nebraska avenues.

Out-of-town assignments are listed for Georgetown and Gallaudet, which will play, respectively, Duquesne at Pittsburgh Friday night, and Langley Field Aviators at Langley Field, Va., Saturday afternoon.

Interest in the G. W.-Tulsa game is mounting by leaps and bounds and one of the season's largest crowds is anticipated. This is the contest for which Pixlee has been pointing his players since early in September.

Tulsa, one of the few Southwestern teams ever to come East for competition, will seek to make it two victories in a row over the Colonials, whom they turned back, 14 to 6, a year ago on the Tulsa field. In view of the fact that the Oilers lost only two members of their 1930 combination, it seems a stern test for the Colonials is assured. Already this season Tulsa has defeated the powerful Texas Christians, prominent in the Southwest Conference. The Oilers hold the championship of the Big Four Conference.

Old Liners, Kentucky Appear Evenly Matched.

Maryland and Kentucky are figured evenly matched and an interesting game should develop. As it marks the beginning of Maryland's campaign in the Southern Conference, the Old Line may be expected to give the Wildcats plenty of opposition.

Standing out in the Kentucky array will be the famous "Shipwreck" Kelly, who is one of the most ef-

Snapping of Notre Dame's Win Streak Grid Highlight

By HERBERT W. BARKER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—The snapping of Notre Dame's winning streak after it had reached twenty games, and the South's brilliant accomplishments in the intersectional field furnished the high lights of the latest and most vigorous drives of the football season.

Notre Dame was not beaten, but the Ramblers were forced to content themselves with a scoreless draw with Northwestern in a gruelling game, played for the most part in a torrential rain. Fumbles were almost as numerous as punts—19, to be exact—and many of them came at critical moments.

Northwestern Twice Within 5-Yard Line.

Northwestern twice was within the Ramblers' 5-yard line, but neither time could the Wildcats summon up the strength necessary to push the ball across the line. Notre Dame reached the Wildcat 20-yard line three times and outgamed the cochampions of the Big Ten, 106 yards to 81, but could not score. The most important figures on the field were Marchemont Schwartz, of Notre Dame, and Ollie Olson, of Northwestern. They did the kicking, and that was half the game.

Outside of this battle of giants, the spotlight shone particularly on Georgia, Vanderbilt, Maryland, Duke and Auburn, of the Southern Conference; Stanford and Southern California in the Far West; Army, Carnegie Tech, Brown, Dartmouth, New York University and Pittsburgh, in the East; Rice and the Texas Aggies in the Southwest, and Michigan, Purdue and Nebraska in the Midwest.

Georgia, with Key and Downs in the chief roles, came north and whipped Yale, 26 to 7, for the third straight time. The Georgians, making 13 first downs to 4 for Yale, con-

World Series Affects 12 Records

Seven Marks Broken, Five Matched in 1931 Games.

Martin Equals Pair; Frisch Sets Three, Simmons One.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Twelve record performances marked the 1931 world series, including the displacement of seven former records and the equaling of five others.

The world champion Cardinals, led by Pepper, the Martin bomber, came close to running wild through the record books. They won the series, but Martin's personal rampage was effectively stopped by Grove and Earnshaw in the last two games.

Martin had a half dozen records all but wrapped up until he went hitless in his final two games. His early exploits were none the less heroic and he tied two long-standing records, with his total of twelve hits for the series and four runs batted in for one game. He stole five bases, within one of the record.

Frank Frisch, captain and second baseman of the Cardinals, set three new records. He increased two of his own by boosting his all-series total of hits to 52 and increasing his times at bat to 166. He also enjoys the distinction now of having participated in the most world series games, 43, six more than Babe Ruth.

Frisch Missed Mark Of Ruth.

Frisch missed a good chance to equal Ruth's record of hitting .300 or better in five series. The Cardinal captain fell to a final batting mark of .280 by getting only one hit in the last two games. He was over the .300 mark four straight times with the Giants in 1921-24, but has yet to do so with the Cards.

The Athletics established a new defensive record by playing errorless ball in the first five games, but their defense was distinctly wobbly in the final contest. Poor work on two pop flies that went for singles and an error by Foxx after Cochrane dropped a third strike contributed to the first-inning advantage the Cards gained against Earnshaw.

Earnshaw, by striking out 20 Cardinals in 24 innings, came within 1 of equaling Joe Wood's record against the Giants in 1912.

Big George's total of 56 strike-outs in 3 world series puts him within striking distance of another record, 59 by Chief Bender.

Al Simmons, big noise of the A's at bat, came within one of equaling Lou Gehrig's clean-up record by accounting for eight runs batted in. Al hit safely in all but one game, the second, and was the only player on either team to do so.

Records Broken Listed.

The records broken or tied this year follow:

1—Most hits, one series, 12, Martin, equaling mark held jointly by Buck Herzog, Joe Jackson, Sam Rice.

2—Most runs batted in, one game, 4, Martin, equaling record shared by Elmer Smith, Goose Goslin, Babe Ruth, Lester Bell and Al Simmons.

3—Most hits, total series, 52, Frisch, beating own former record of 45.

4—Most times at bat, total series, 166, Frisch, displacing own former mark of 139.

5—Most games played, total series, 43, Frisch, breaking former record of 37 held by Babe Ruth.

6—Most series umpired, 15, by William J. Klem, National League, breaking own former record.

7—Most two-hit pitching performances, in succession, one series, 2, by Burleigh Grimes, of Cardinals, and George Earnshaw, of Athletics, in third and fourth games. Equals feats of Ed Walsh, of White Sox, and Mordecai Brown, of Cubs, in 1906.

CLUB RECORDS.

8. Most errorless games, one club, one series, 5, by Athletics, equaling mark of Giants in 1921.

9. Most successive errorless games, one club, one series, 5, by Athletics, breaking mark of 4 by Red Sox in 1918.

10. Most errorless games, both clubs, one series, 9, five by A's and four by Cardinals, breaking former mark of eight by Yankees and Giants in 1921.

11. Most strikeouts, both clubs, one series, 85, including 45 A's and 40 Cardinals, beating former record of 82 by Giants and Yankees in 1921, eight games.

12. Fewest stolen bases, one club, one series, none, by Athletics, for third straight year.

Mystery Men of Ring Facing Important Test In 15-Round Struggle

Jack Sharkey (above) and Primo Carnera.

Defeat Seen Curtain to Boxing Career of Bostonian.

Match May Disclose Giant as Coming Champion.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Into the ring at Ebbets Field tomorrow night will stride two fistic "mystery men," Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera. They may not be nearly so mysterious when they've finished their fifteen-round heavyweight test, last promotorial venture of Jimmy Johnston before he moves over to Madison Square Garden.

Apparently operating on the theory there is no real line on Carnera's ability, the betting fraternity has installed Sharkey a 7 to 5 favorite, this in the face of Sharkey's many disappointing performances, the most recent of which was his sad draw with the middleweight, Mickey Walker.

Carnera Unimpressive Against Topnotchers.

Carnera, whose 270 pounds gives him tremendous physical advantage over every man he meets, has bowled over set-ups by the score in his two tours of the United States, but against first-rate or near first-rate heavyweights his record is less impressive. He split even in two bouts in Europe with Young Stribling, both being decided on fouls, and he got no better than an even break with Jimmy Maloney, of Boston. Maloney won their first meeting at Boston and Carnera took a hair-line decision in the South.

A defeat for Sharkey might well end for all time the Boston sailor's position as a ranking contender for the heavyweight title. If he can bowl over the giant Italian tomorrow, he probably will be asked to battle Tommy Loughran again before he rates a "shot" at Max Schmeling.

The Garden's Friday night show will be topped by a ten-rounder between Billy Townsend, Vancouver middleweight, and Paulie Walker, of Trenton, N. J.

Battalino, Midget Wolgast in Nontitle Bouts.

Two champions will appear in other sections, both in nontitle fights. At Philadelphia tomorrow Bat Battalino, of Hartford, Conn., featherweight king, tackles Roger Bernard, of Detroit, and at Oakland, Calif., Midget Wolgast, of Philadelphia, recognized in some States as flyweight champion, will face Tony Russell, of New Orleans, on Wednesday.

Bouts on the national schedule include:

MONDAY—At Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, Primo Carnera, Italy, vs. Jack Sharkey, Boston, heavyweights, 15 rounds. At Philadelphia, Bat Battalino, Hartford, Conn., vs. Roger Bernard, Detroit, featherweights, 10 (nontitle); Vincent Dundee, Newark, vs. Johnny Seppe, middleweights, 10, and Mike Sankowitz, New Jersey, vs. Tony Galento, New Orleans, heavyweights, 10. At Trenton, N. J., Kid Chocolate, Cuba, vs. Steve Smith, Bridgeport, Conn., lightweights, 10. At Cleveland, Paul Pirrone, Cleveland, vs. Jimmy Taylor, Cleveland, middleweights, 8.

WEDNESDAY—At Oakland, Calif., Midget Wolgast, Philadelphia, vs. Tony Russell, New Orleans, flyweights, 10 (nontitle). At San Francisco, Leon Chevalier, Oakland Negro, vs. Jack Spence, Dallas, heavyweights, 10. At Seattle, Tod Morgan, Seattle, vs. Sammy Santon, Los Angeles, lightweights, 8.

THURSDAY—At Tacoma, Leo Lomski, Aberdeen, vs. George Rickard, Tacoma, heavyweights, 6.

FRIDAY—At New York, Madison Square Garden, Billy Townsend, Vancouver, vs. Paulie Walker, Trenton, N. J., middleweights; Vince Dundee, Newark, vs. Solly Krieger, New York, middleweights, and Harry Carlton, Jersey City, vs. Tony Herrera, El Paso, lightweights, each 10. At Hollywood, Meyer Grace, Chicago, vs. Vasil Whitehead, welterweights, 10.

Only Cheers for Mack As Athletics Return

Philadelphia, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia Athletics, former world champions of the baseball world, returned home today to be welcomed by several hundred persons who jammed the North Philadelphia station of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Official welcome from city fathers was lacking, but the fans, faithful in defeat, formed the reception committee when members of the world series losers left the train. They formed a lane through which Manager Connie Mack and his players passed to waiting automobiles.

It was a silent reception, the only cheer that broke forth coming on appearance of Mr. Mack.

Shires Hits Homer As Major Stars Tie

Omaha, Nebr., Oct. 11 (A.P.).—A barnstorming team of major league stars found Mel Harder, Cleveland Indian hurler and a resident of Omaha, a hard nut to crack today and were held to a 4-to-4 nine-inning tie by an Omaha amateur team. Gomez, of the Yankees; Walberg, of the A's, and Al Schacht, Washington clown, pitched for the stars. Art Shires, now the property of the Braves, hit a home run with two on for the stars.

Grimes Risked Appendicitis Attack to Play in Series

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 11 (U.P.).—Burleigh Grimes, spitball pitcher of the St. Louis Cardinals who won two games against the Philadelphia Athletics during the world series, has been suffering from an ailment believed to be appendicitis for the past six weeks, it was learned today.

Dr. Robert Hyland, Cardinal club physician, said that Grimes had been ill for six weeks but declined to be examined because he feared he would be ordered to discontinue playing this season.

"Grimes is to receive an examination either Monday or Tuesday," Dr Hyland said. "Six weeks ago, when he first became ill, Grimes said he believed he had appendicitis. Because he would not allow me to examine him I am unable to say what is the matter with him."

Dr. Hyland said that there was "no doubt" that the illness had weakened Grimes considerably.

"In yesterday's game," Dr. Hyland said, "Grimes began to weaken in the eighth inning. In the third game played at Philadelphia he weakened in the ninth.

"He has a fighting spirit, and wouldn't give up. We have been keeping information as to his condition from the press because he was determined to play."

The baseball players, their work complete for this year, were leaving for various sections of the country today. Grimes went to his farm in Washington, Mo., and will return here tomorrow or Tuesday.

Paul Derringer, right-hand pitcher, was making ready to leave for his southern Illinois home. Pepper Martin, individual hero of the series, was to complete a week on the stage here before leaving on a four weeks' tour ending in Oklahoma City, his home. He plans a hunting trip after his vaudeville tour.

Manager Gabby Street was preparing to leave for his Joplin, Mo., home.

Intersectional Game For Emerson Today

Emerson Institute will meet the National Farms School grid team today at 3:45 p. m. in Griffith Stadium in one of the few intersectional football games listed for schoolboy teams. The Farm School Band of 40 pieces will accompany the team to this city and will drill during the intermission.

Emerson boasts a good football record in its campaign thus far. It holds decisions over Business High School and Gettysburg Academy. The team's only loss was to Woodberry Forest by a small score.

LANDERS AND DE ANGELO CLASH AGAIN TONIGHT AT FORT

Speedy Boys Meet for 3d Time

Mohawks' Featherweight Would Even Score.

Irving and Finazzo, Vance and Messick on Program.

FOR the third time those peppery little fellows, Billy Landers and Frankie de Angelo, will swap hooks and jabs tonight in Fort Washington's ring, the bout being listed as the feature of a 34-round program and scheduled to go ten heats unless there is an early knockout. Action will commence at 8:30 o'clock.

In their earlier clashes neither fighter was able to score a decided edge in points, although Landers was awarded a referee's decision on the first occasion back in August. The second meeting was declared a draw about a month ago. Consequently, the fans are still divided in their opinions as to the question of superiority, all of which makes for considerable interest among the customers tonight. One of the largest crowds of the outdoor boxing season hereabouts is anticipated, and the cofers of the Fort Athletic Association should be proportionately enriched.

Irving Seeks Seventh Kayo Victory.

It is likely that Landers will pursue a different plan of attack tonight, with his efforts being directed to forcing De Angelo to come to him. The local Italian featherweight avoided mixing it in the other bouts, the result being that Landers lost a lot of steam trying to rush in for slugging melees.

The new plans of Landers are suited to the increase in the number of rounds scheduled, the promoters having added a couple of rounds over the previous bouts. If Landers can make De Angelo force the fight during the early stages, he figures he will have Frankie worn down to a state susceptible to an easy knockout in the late going.

But, De Angelo, of course, has ideas of his own, and thus far he has been saying little and training every minute possible. However, it is improbable that Patsy Donovan's protege will present any change in tactics, for he realizes his rival has the stronger punch. The customary sight of De Angelo dancing, jabbing and backing off in shifty style is the thing to be watched for by his many Southeast supporters.

The real explosives of the affair should be set off in the semifinal in which Henry Irving, local light heavyweight, who carries a kayo blow in either hand, engages the tough Baltimorean, Joe Finazzo, who has kept his feet with more experienced fighters. This bout is scheduled for eight rounds, but will close sooner if Irving continues his string of sleep-producing punches.

Landers Plans New Mode Of Attack.

Six knockouts are now credited to Irving in seven fights, and one of these more than offset the only loss he has sustained. He avenged a decision defeat at the hands of Jack Pollock early in the summer by flattening that rival in the second round two weeks ago.

Frank Vance, another Capital light heavy, engages Harry Messick, of Baltimore, in the main preliminary of four rounds. Other bouts will pit Jack Cody, Fort Myer, against Billy Hoe, Mohawk Club; Soldier Smith, Fort Washington, against Fred Shafer, of this city, and Willie Eschinger, Washington, against Marini Marino, Mohawk Club.

MARINES-LANGLEY TIE.

The Quantico Marines and the Army Team from Langley Field, Va., battled to a 0-0 tie in a hard-fought grid struggle at Quantico yesterday. The Marines chalked up fifteen first downs to none for their opponents, but lacked the punch to score. O'Neill and Zehr played well for the Leathernecks.

—Laurel Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 11.—The first week of the 24-day racing season at Laurel has tended to show an increase in attendance and the betting has been almost normal, the daily average of money passing through the pari-mutuels being well over $325,000.

Featuring the opening week were the setting of a new track record by Mr. Sponge in the Capital Handicap and the good showing of Burning Blaze in winning the Richard Johnson Stakes. Also Mack Garner's riding skill caused much interest, the Widener jockey leading in winners.

Stakes for the current week are the Chevy Chase Steeplechase Handicap, Wednesday, $5,000 added, and on Saturday the Maryland Breeders' Futurity, $5,000 added, and the Maryland Handicap, $15,000 added.

The card tomorrow is featured by the Colombus Handicap, with a purse of $2,000. Mrs. Charles Amory's big sprinter, BALKO, a shade under his form this season, but turning in his best race of the year behind Mr. Sponge last Wednesday, is expected to earn brackets. Balko will carry 130 pounds in the 6-furlong dash. He had 128 when second to Mr. Sponge and his opposition is less formidable in this, for BLACK MAJESTY, though very fast, can not be classed with Mr. Sponge. The Coe horse won last week in 1:11 2-5, which equalled the old mark before Mr. Sponge set a new one. HELIANTHUS should take third. He needs a stronger rider than V. Smith.

FIRST RACE—The Trainer Hirsch entry of DUNNY BOY and BRIGHT KNOT looks best in the first race, with DUSTEMOFF the contender. The last race of DUNNY BOY should win this if repeated. He ran second to Hagerstown DUSTEMOFF has never been out of the money but once, but seems unable to win. MOGUL may improve.

SECOND RACE—REDBRIDGE has won his last three races, and appears best in the Steeplechase, second race. J. E. Widener's DRAPEAU looks best of the others, with CREEK, which DRAPEAU has beaten, next best. DRAPEAU has the appearance of a real jumper and eventually should outclass these. REDBRIDGE has never beaten a horse near the first rank.

THIRD RACE—TRY AND AGAIN, which will be ridden by M. Garner, should repeat. She beat Temple Bells and Betty Farrell last week. SEVEN VEILS should be the contender. She has never run back to her good race at Belmont Park when she distanced Stagecraft. She is coupled with FRENCH DUCHESS, which also beat Betty Farrell. DELICACY is the next best.

FOURTH RACE—BACKGAMMON is selected to win the secondary feature. He is a consistent horse, for he has won four races, second in three and third in his other two starts this year, never out of the money. He easily beat Morsel last week. INCEPTION is improving and should be the contender. FORTUNATE YOUTH should be third.

SIXTH RACE—TANCRED, on his New York form, should win. He won twice and was left at the post in his last at Havre de Grace. ST. FRANCIS may be a faster horse, but has never been as far as a mile and a sixteenth. He should be the contender at that. RIP VAN WINKLE is not in top form, but should rank third in this field.

SEVENTH RACE—RUANE appears the class and is a beaten favorite. SCOT FREE, a surprise Havre winner, may again surprise, but second should be more probable. ROYAL CHARGE has a chance.

NOTRE DAME TIE SNAPS STREAK

Purple's Stunt Saturday Football Highlight.

centrated their scoring in the second and fourth periods. Vanderbilt's heavy machine scored 4 touchdowns in the first half against Ohio State and then just managed to hang on to win, 26 to 21.

Auburn, one of the weaker teams of the Southern Conference, surprised by holding Wisconsin to a 7-all tie; Duke took advantage of three Villanova fumbles to turn back the Easterners, 18 to 0; Maryland upset Navy, 6 to 0, on a long pass from Chalmers to Al Pease.

Second-String Army Backs Show Class.

In the East, Army took Michigan State over the jumps, 20 to 7, although it took a second-string back field led by Ken Fields to make any impression on the Midwesterners' defense. Carnegie Tech, with Kavel and Armentrout doing most of the ground-gaining, upset Georgia Tech, 13 to 0.

New York University and Pittsburgh showed great power in downing Georgetown and West Virginia, respectively, both by 34 to 0 counts. Brown whipped Princeton for the third straight year, 19 to 7, to become the first team outside of Yale or Harvard to accomplish that particular feat. Bill Morton led Dartmouth to a hard-fought victory over Holy Cross, 14 to 7, scoring all his team's points. Syracuse trounced Ohio Wesleyan, 48 to 7, and Cornell stopped Richmond, 27 to 0.

It took some accurate passing by Harry Newman to give Michigan a victory over Chicago, 13-7, in a Big Ten game, the Wolverine star passing to Heston and Hudson for both scores. Purdue conquered Illinois, 7-0, in another Big Ten championship struggle. In the Big Six Nebraska walloped Oklahoma, 13-0, and Kansas State checked Missouri, 20-7.

In the Southwest, the Texas Aggies crushed Iowa in an intersectional game, 20-0; Southern Methodist defeated Arkansas, 42-6, and Rice checked the Texas Longhorns, Southwest Conference champions, 7-0, in a sensational upset.

Stanford Shows Power in Final Period.

Stanford waited for three periods and then pushed over Minnesota, 13-0, in another intersectional battle played at Palo Alto. Southern California's powerful Trojans checked in with another conference victory, bowling over Washington State, champions last year, 38-6. Oregon stopped Washington, 13-0, and California nosed out the Olympic Club, 6-0.

The Utah Aggies' 32-20 victory over Western State; Colorado Aggies' triumph over Colorado College, 32-6, and Colorado University's defeat of Colorado Mines, 27-0, marked the day in the Rocky Mountain Conference.

Vines Bows in Upset To Keith Gledhill

Santa Barbara, Calif., Oct. 11 (A.P.).—Rallying before a home-town crowd after the first set, Keith Gledhill today routed the national singles tennis champion, Ellsworth Vines, of Pasadena, Calif., to win the singles title of the invitation tournament here. The scores were 3—6, 6—1, 6—0.

Del Ray Safety Beats Iroquois Eleven, 2-0

Special to The Washington Post.

Alexandria, Va., Oct. 11.—Nugent was thrown for a safety in the latter stages of the first period when he attempted to run a punt out from behind his goal to give the Del Ray club the margin of victory, 2—0, over their rival, the Iriquois, in a game played on Duncan's Field.

CAPITAL CITY UNLIMITEDS IN CLOSE GAMES AS LEAGUE OPENS

Mercury and Marions in 0-0 Draw

St. Stephen's Wins From Gunners in 7-0 Surprise.

Fraters Rout Wolverines, 39-6; Brookland Ties Pigs.

ST. STEPHEN'S surprise 7-0 victory over the Seaman Gunners, and the Fraters' rout of the Wolverines by a 39-6 count, featured the opening of the unlimited division of The Post's Capital City League yesterday. The two other tilts scheduled in this division involving the Dixie Pigs and Brookland and champion Mercury and Marions, resulted in scoreless ties.

Entering the contest as the underdog, the Saints battled on even terms with their opponents for the first half of the game with neither team having an advantage. "Tuck" Dalgish, St. Stephen's half back, got loose in a broken field on one occasion and ran 40 yards to the Gunners' goal line, only to be called back when a teammate was detected holding. The 15-yard penalty imposed momentarily halted the eventual winners.

Zumbo and Dalgish Star.

Sensing victory, the Georgetowners returned to the fray, after the intermission, determined to score. Zumbo and Dalgish alternated in carrying the ball on a sustained drive from midfield, which ended only when the former smashed off tackle for the lone marker of the game.

In addition to his good work in carrying the ball, Dalgish also turned in some good punting, averaging 50 yards on each kick. Roberts played a bang-up game for the losers.

Using an aerial attack the Fraters swamped the crack Wolverine eleven of Washington in their first Capital City loop game here today, 39-6, before several hundred spectators at Baggett's Stadium.

Less McMenamin, big quarter back and acting captain of the Fraters, again stole the show in the independent play. He averaged 62 yards on kicking, while his long aerial heaves more than once placed the Alexandrians in line for a touchdown. His best play of the game was a 40-yard pass to Luckett in the final period that netted a touchdown. It was the old sleeping end trick.

Blocked Punt Costly to Frat Eleven.

The Wolverines scored their lone 6-pointer in the third period when Raum broke through and blocked Reid's punt. McPherson was on the leather like a hawk and dusted 41 yards for the markers. He was never in danger of being stopped.

Again in the closing minutes, the Wolves made a bid to score on Dreifus' cohorts as Smithson intercepted a pass from McMenamin and was downed on the Fraters' 3-yard line after a mad race of 60 yards. Dave Bayliss, Fraters' center, pulled him down from the rear.

The Dixie Pig-Brookland game developed into a battle of linesmen with the Dixie forward wall holding a slight edge over its opponents. The invading Brooklanders gave way before the powerful line plunging of Pigs, who ran up a total of seven first downs to their rivals' none. Whenever the Barbecue eleven manuevered into a favorable position and seemed headed for a score, however, the Brookland line braced and held. The combination of Buscher, Ault, Radtke and Brown, composing the Pigs backfield, could not supply the punch that would have brought victory.

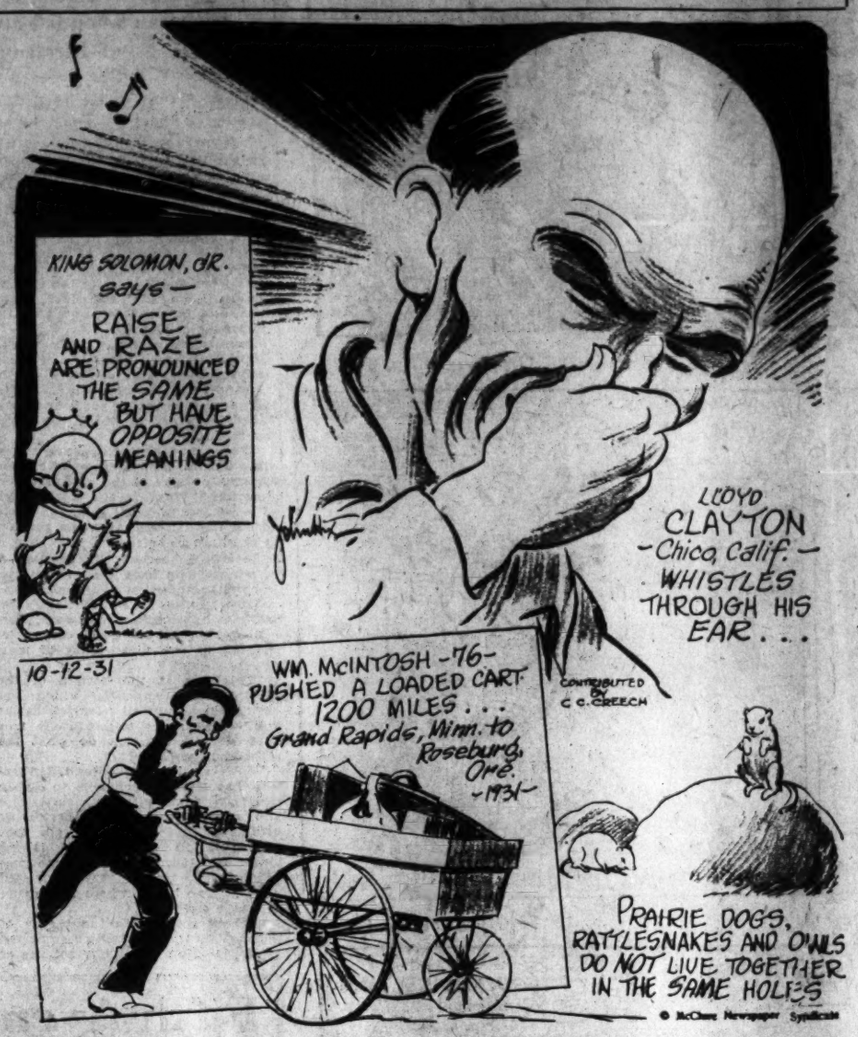
STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix



LLOYD CLAYTON, who is known to his friends as "Doc Fisher," can either whistle or exhale smoke through his right ear. Now 40 years of age, "Doc" has been able to perform these tricks since boyhood. The first time he attempted to smoke, he felt a burning sensation in his ear, and discovered that it was caused by the smoke.

Prairie dogs, owls and rattlesnakes might live in the same holes, but never together. Many are the old timers who will swear and double swear that they have actually seen owls, rattlers and prairie dogs living together. But the fact is, they are not friends, but enemies. Owls and rattlers are often found in the holes, but their visit is far from being an amiable one. There is nothing an owl or rattler enjoys more, than a nice wholesome meal of baby prairie dogs. Burrowing owls often build their nests in deserted dwellings of the rodents Thus prairie dogs, rattlers and owls are often found in great numbers in the same locality, but the "dogs" get the worst of it.

Centennials, 1930 Champs, In 0-0 Tie as League Opens

Held to Deadlock by Brooklanders in 150-Pound Class; Palace, Stantons and Northern Preps Are Winners.

THREE victories and one tie game were recorded in the opening of the 150-pound division of The Post's Capital City League yesterday. The champion Centennial Team was held to a 0-0 draw by an outweighed but not outgamed Brookland team, while Palace, its chief rival, was walking over the Brentwood Hawks for an 13-0 victory.

In the other games played the Stantons eked out a 7-0 win over the Petworth Pennants, and the Northern Preps swept to an 18-0 triumph over the highly touted Columbia eleven.

The champions made their only real scoring threat in the third quarter when a succession of line plunges carried them to the Brooklanders' 12-yard stripe. Brookland's line stiffened at this juncture and held for downs. The punting of Buddy Bussink saved the Centennials from danger throughout the game.

decisive touchdown by the fancy catch and speed of Al Pease, veteran end.

The Terrapins throughout showed few traces of the fumbling and overanxiousness that marked their previous battles. The backs went about their complicated reverses and spinners with a sureness that bespoke fine training and determination.

Georgetown's crushing defeat at the hands of the Violent Violets of New York University left much more than bitter memories. The relentless pounding they received for 60 minutes from Coach Meehan's strapping veterans laid out four Hilltoppers with injuries.

Bernie Donoghue and Ben Gellis, both left half backs, were in Georgetown University Hospital last night, the former suffering a badly wrenched shoulder and the latter a strained knee. Joe Alenty, right half back, is sporting a deep cut over one eye, while Charley Brickman, reserve right guard, sustained another injury to his arm.

In addition to the four mentioned, Wilmer Bradley, full back, is out with a broken collar bone, and Bill Maczees, left half back, has a sprained leg.

New Golf Champs Named At 2 Washington Clubs

Steward and Lynch Victors at Congressional and Argyle, Respectively; Baltimore Golf Team Beats Chevy Chase.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

TWO club golf champions were added yesterday to the list of title holders. At the Congressional Country Club, Luther B. Steward is the new champion and at the Argyle Club, John J. Lynch, who has long been one of the outstanding players of the club, came through victorious in the final round.

An unexpected result marked the semifinal round played on the course of the Congressional Country Club yesterday morning, when both M. Parker Nolan and Page Hufty were defeated. Steward defeated Nolan 2 and 1, playing a fine game with a par 4 on the eighteenth for a 74, while Nolan's score would have been 76.

Jones Beats Hufty on Last Green.

W. W. Jones had a closer match with Hufty, former club champion, when he defeated his opponent 1 up on the final green.

In the decisive round, Steward secured his first lead when he made a birdie 4 on the fifth hole and was 2 up at the turn, with another birdie 4 on the eighth.

On the tenth, Jones won with a 5 to Steward's 6, leaving him still 1 down. He lost the eleventh when he had to play his second shot to the green, Steward winning in a par 3. Then Steward won the twelfth in a par 5, when Jones was bunkered on his tee shot, and from that time on Steward was not seriously in danger. The match ended on the fifteenth green, when Steward was 5 up and 3 to play. The cards:

Out—
Steward—	6	4	4	4	4	4	4	4—	38
Jones —	6	4	4	4	5	4	5	3—	40

Shaw which was carried to the twenty-first hole. In the Class C flight the finals will be played by H. G. Cooper against E. L. Degener. Cooper yesterday defeated P. W. Oman on the nineteenth hole, while Degener won from J. Rubenstein, 3 and 2.

The Columbia Country Club women's championship will begin this morning with a qualification round of eighteen holes, followed by match play.

80-YARD RUN WINS FOR SAINTS

Scheele's Dash Aids in 19-13 Defeat of Trojans.

FRED SCHEELE'S 80-yard run to a touchdown, after taking the opening kick-off of the second half, enabled St. Stephen's to score a 19-13 victory over the Northeast Trojans in the inangural of the 125-pound division of The Post's Capital City League yesterday.

With the exception of this run the two clubs were evenly matched. The Saints scored in the first period when Quigley gathered in a 10-yard pass and scampered unimpeded over the final chalkmark.

Trojans Rally in Third Quarter.

The third tally was scored by Griffin after a short end run in the third period. The Trojans rallied in the third quarter when they carried the oval over for two successive touchdowns after sustained marches through the line from midfield. Dorr and King bore the brunt of the attack.

Marconi Sees Solution To Problem of Nuclei

Inventor of Wireless Communications Meets With American Scientists at Rome to Discuss Mysteries of Electrons and Analysis.

Rome, Oct. 11 (A.P.).—The great problem of "what the world is made of" seems about to be solved, Guglielmo Marconi said today in opening a meeting here of 50 world scientists.

The scientists, including seven Nobel prize winners, one of them Mme. Curie, gathered here in an attempt to solve the mysteries of nuclei and electrons. The Americans attending are Robert A. Millikan, of the California Institute of Technology, Pasadena, and Arthur H. Compton, of the University of Chicago.

Premier Mussolini, other Italian cabinet ministers, physicists of half a dozen nations and directors of the Alexander Volta Institute, under whose auspices the conference was called, together attended the opening meeting.

"Twenty-five centuries have passed since Thales, first scientist of ancient Greece, thought of the answer to the question—'What is the world made of'"—Senator Marconi said, "and now in our day it seems that the problem is about to be solved."

Reviewing recent discoveries of physicists who have been investigating the composition of the atom and paying tribute to Dr. Millikan's researches in charges of electrons, Marconi said that all these discoveries pointed to one idea—unity of matter.

"This was at the bottom of the idea of the alchemists, which was derided by almost all scientists in the last century," he said. "It is true that we can not now do what the alchemists dreamed of.

"However, the Englishman Rutherford has already been able to obtain hydrogen from nitrogen, aluminum and other elements, demonstrating brilliantly once and for all that transmutation of elements is no longer utopian, but has become possible today within very restricted limits. Who knows where the future will take us?"

Marconi referred to the theory of Democritus that all matter consisted of atoms. He said that researches of modern scientists had shown that the atom consisted of nuclei and electrons and had given surprising and encouraging results.

"Many," he said, "have full faith that in the atomic nucleus are hidden immense treasures which in the near future can be utilized for the benefit of humanity."

COLUMBUS' COURAGE HELD NATION'S NEED BY BISHOP FREEMAN

Plans to Speed Cathedral for Relief of Jobless Are Revealed.

$500,000 IS AVAILABLE TO BE EXPENDED NOW

List of Projects Under Way Is Announced; 375 Now Working.

What America needs is the kind of courage that characterized Christopher Columbus—a faculty to dissipate fear—the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, declared in an interview yesterday in the College of Preachers Building of Washington Cathedral, in which he revealed plans for a new construction program for the Cathedral.

To prevent the building program of the Cathedral from lagging and also to give as much employment as possible, the trustees of the Cathedral have authorized expenditures aggregating nearly $500,000 for construction and symbolic adornment, Bishop Freeman said.

"To keep the cathedral builders at work and add to their number whenever possible has been the constant aim of our emergency employment program outlined in answer to President Hoover's appeal for 'constructive enterprise,'" he said.

"We have felt it to be the part of good citizenship to have faith in prosperity's return. Side by side with the Federal building program, which is so enriching and beautifying the National Capital, the cathedral enterprise must keep pace in erecting this witness to Christ at the heart of America.

375 Now Employed.

Bishop Freeman reported that 375 persons are employed by the cathedral. Work to be carried on immediately with the authorized $500,000 includes:

Completion during the next few months of the north transcept, now more than three-fourths finished; pouring of concrete for steps leading to the south transcept and several adjacent piers, made possible through an anonymous gift of $100,000 received early in the summer "to be used immediately for construction of the south transcept in order to give employment to more workmen."

Immediate building of the east cloister, leading from the north side of the apse or sanctury to the administration building ultimately to be erected on the Woodley road slope to the west of the College of Preachers. Anonymous donors have made the contribution for this work in memory of their son.

The reredos and altar for the Chapel of St. Mary, in the north choir aisle, is being created in Boston from designs prepared by Frohman & Little, the cathedral architects. It will be of wood, 25 feet high, with a gold background and several figures in colors.

Models for the stone reredos and altar in the Chapel of St. John in the south choir aisle have been completed and are ready to be carved. The first two bays of this chapel, containing the altar and reredos, are the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Prince, of Boston, in memory of their son, Norman Prince, who founded the Lafayette Escadrille and who was killed in France in 1916.

Other Funds Provided.

Completion of one of the 65-foot stained-glass windows in the south wall of the apse, included in the original gift for the apse made by the late Mr. and Mrs. Archibald D. Russell in memory of Mrs. Russell's mother, Mrs. Percy R. Pyne; completion of the remaining two stained-glass windows in a series devoted to the Miracles of Christ in the chapel of St. John. Two of the windows have been installed.

Various other commissions in symbolism and decoration, amounting to $82,000, all of which has been given, include the carving of pinnacles on the north transept, the making of models for the life-size figures of angels to be carved on the choir arch above the roof beam, the creating of wrought-iron grilles for St. Mary's Chapel, the Children's Chapel and the south choir aisle by Samuel Yellin, of Philadelphia, and the ordering of the design for the reredos in the Children's Chapel.

Horse Show Fund Will Go to Jobless

Shoreham Saddle Club Event Will Take Place on November 7.

Proceeds from the eighth annual horse show of the Shoreham Saddle Club, at the equitation field in Rock Creek Park November 7 will be devoted to unemployment relief, John Gheen, president, announced yesterday.

The show this year will not be restricted to local entries, according to Mr. Gheen. The event was to have been held in the spring, as customary, but other events conflicting forced postponement.

There will be entries for saddle ponies, hacks, children's, thoroughbreds and hunters, entries in the family class and in the pony jumping class. There will be a handicap jump, 3-year-olds to jump 3½ feet; nonwinners, 4 feet, and horses that have won previously in the 4-foot class, 4½ feet.

Illinois Man Will Give Christian Science Talk

Judge Hill is a member of the board of lectureship of the mother church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Mass. He will be introduced by Charles P. Rouse, first reader of the Fourth Church, under whose auspices the lecture will be given.

Mann, Back From Guiana, Has 400 New 'Pets' at Zoo

Rare Animals, Reptiles and Birds From South American Jungle Are Rushed by Special Express to New Home in Capital.

Dr. William M. Mann, director of the National Zoo, reached Washington at 7:35 o'clock last night with an express car filled with rare specimens he and Mrs. Mann and Frank Loew, assistant head keeper of the zoo, collected on a prolonged trip through the jungles of British Guiana.

Dr. Mann and his party landed in New York yesterday morning, but the zoo director was in such a hurry to bring his prizes to Washington that he arranged for a special express car to hasten them to their new homes.

The 75 crates of animals, reptiles and rare birds were stored in the basement of the reptile house within an hour after their arrival last night. Dr. Mann says he has so many new pets he doesn't know exactly how many specimens will be added to the zoo's collection, but he believes there are about 400.

At least one rare animal will be added, but this one will join the zoo family later. It is a white lipped peccary and there are few examples of this beast in zoos in the United States. There is one in New York and Dr. Mann has had them here, but not in recent years. The peccary he brought back on this trip, however, was held at quarantine in New York for observation for several weeks. This step was taken as a precaution against hoof and mouth disease.

Dr. Mann says his new collection will present a cross section of the animal life of British Guiana.

Among animals he will unpack this morning will be ant eaters, two varieties of sloths, both two and three-toed; some giant armadillos, tiger cats, all kinds of rodents and three different varieties of monkeys.

He also brought many species of birds, including a few of the ferocious harpy eagles.

The reptile house, one of Dr. Mann's favorite spots at the zoo, was amply cared for by the director. He captured several large boa constrictors, about 12 feet long, and some anacondas, as well as many smaller snakes—some of them of extremely poisonous varieties.

Dr. Mann and his party left New York July 22. They landed at Georgetown and traveled up the Demerara River to McKenzie and made trips into the jungle by steamboat, canoe and motorboat. They left Mr. Loew on the Demarara River while Dr. and Mrs. Mann made a journey up the Pomeroon River, where Dr. Mann said they had "very good luck."

POLITE ROBBER, GUN IN HAND, TAKES $22

Filling Station Holdup Man Makes Two Attendants Lie on Faces.

An armed but polite robber at 6:45 o'clock last night held up two attendants at the Gulf Refining Co. filling station at Rhode Island avenue and Eighth street northeast, robbing them of $22.

The man made his appearance at the office of the filling station, where Rudolph C. O'Meara, of Cherrydale, Va., and Clarence W. Malcolm, of Hyattsville, Md., were talking.

"Good evening, gentlemen," the intruder said, as he pointed a gun at them. He then took the money from the cash drawer and compelled O'Meara to show him where some small bills were hidden. He also took the bills.

Before leaving the place, the man compelled O'Meara and Malcolm to lie on the floor of the office and warned them if they moved he would shoot them. He disappeared from the door and ran east on Rhode Island avenue.

He was described as wearing a blue suit, a gray cap and black shoes. The attendants described him as a "tough looking fellow."

THIRD DEGREE PROBE OF NEW GRAND JURY SET TO BEGIN TODAY

Dozens of Witnesses Will Be Questioned in Alleged Police Brutality.

HARKER CASE EXPECTED TO BE FIRST PRESENTED

Mother and Sister of Youth May Tell Jurors of His Reported Beating.

Dozens of witnesses will begin their parade before a District grand jury today at 10 o'clock as the second inquiry into alleged third degree tactics by the Washington Police Department is launched.

The first case expected to be presented to the October inquisitors is that of James Henry Harker, whose charges, first published in The Post, that he was beaten with a rubber hose and with fists at the First Precinct Station, started the entire investigation.

It is believed that Harker, his mother, and sister, will be under subpena to appear before the grand jury this morning. Harker, it is believed, will tell the jury that Precinct Detective James A. Mostyn, and Policemen Burroughs, Groomes and Laughlin, all now under suspension, struck him with the rubber hose and beat him so badly that he required a physician's care after he was released from the police station.

Arrested in Cafe Robbery.

His sister will tell the jury, it is believed, that she heard her youthful brother scream, and the sound of blows, when she went to the station house to see about gaining his release on bond.

Harker was arrested in a police investigation of the robbery of a lunchroom on North Capitol street. The July grand jury ignored charges of housebreaking against him, but United States Attorney Leo A. Rover has pointed out that since indictments returned by this body were voided when a Government pensioner was discovered to be a member of the body, ignorances of that jury were also illegal.

The charges against Harker will probably be re-presented to this grand jury.

Will Be Nolled Prossed.

The grand jury today may also reach the case of a colored man who claims he was beaten at the First Precinct Station a short time after Harker was whipped.

It was these two cases which resulted in the indictments against the four policemen accused in the Harker case, and against Policeman George Perry, also of the First Precinct, by the July grand jury. These indictments are to be nolle prossed by Mr. Rover at a later date, following an agreement with attorneys representing the policemen.

Approximately 200 witnesses are under grand jury subpena in all of the alleged third degree and brutality cases worked up by the Department of Justice.

Policeman Is Hurt In Speeder Chase

New Appointee on State Force Rides Cycle in Maryland Crash.

Patrolman Bernard J. Cassidy, who was appointed ten days ago to the newly organized Maryland State police, was injured in an accident last night on the Washington-Baltimore boulevard near Cottage City, Md.

The policeman was chasing a speeder toward Washington when a car bound in the opposite direction pulled out of line and before it could swerve the motorcycle had crashed into it. Cassidy is in an undetermined condition at Providence Hospital, where he was brought by the Bladensburg Rescue Squad.

Marcus J. Walker, colored, of Bolling Field, who police said was driver of the automobile which collided with Cassidy, was held at Hyattsville Jail on a charge of reckless driving. The car is believed the property of W. A. R. Robertson, pilot at Bolling Field. The car Cassidy was pursuing did not stop.

Mormons PlanCampaign For Funds to Build Here

A concentrated drive for funds for erection of a church building on Sixteenth street northwest was launched yesterday by members of the local congregation of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints at a mass meeting at the Washington Auditorium.

Among the speakers were Harold A. Lafount, of the Federal Radio Commission, and George D. Casto, Washington attorney. Dr. E. B. Brochard, member of the Tariff Commission and branch president of the congregation, led the meeting. The Mormon church has a membership of about 500 in Washington at the present time.

Georgetown PriestWarns Against Red Operations

A warning against the operations of Soviet agents in this country, who are under the supervision and instruction of propaganda headquarters at Moscow, was given yesterday by the Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, in a radio address.

Father Walsh, who is vice president of Georgetown University, spoke under auspices of the Sentinels of the Republic. He said the program of communism is aimed at the destruction of the principles of American life.

PREACHER ASSERTS CHILDREN OF WETS WILL FEEL SHAME

Rev. L. C. McPherson Finds Mystery in Source of Funds for Beer Fight.

BREWERS SEEN BACKERS OF CAMPAIGN FOR REPEAL

Opponents of Dry Law Are Charged With Selling Their Birthrights.

"The children and grandchildren of the fighters of prohibition 50 years from now will be ashamed of their ancestors' work, whether it meets with any degree of success or not," said the Rev. Lowell C. McPherson last night at the Ninth Street Christian Church, speaking on "Life's Bad Bargains."

Dr. McPherson took his text from Genesis, xxv-29: "And Jacob said, sell me first thy birthright, and Esau said behold I am about to die; what profit shall the birthright be to me?" and from Hebrews, xii-14: "Look carefully lest there be any man that falleth short of the grace of God."

Decendants to Bear Stigma.

He described the character taints of biblical and historic persons, pointing out that the burden of their stigma is borne by their descendants, and declared that a stigma of shame must be borne by descendants of leaders of the present fight against prohibition.

"Esau, for a mess of meat, sold his birthright," Dr. McPherson said. "What a reputation he gave himself. It has endured for 3,000 years. What a stigma attaches to the names of Judas, Esau and Benedict Arnold. Mothers no longer give [illegible] these names; their descendants share the shame.

"Let us not find fault with the younger people," he went on. "They are in the stage of activity prefaced by us. All sin is seated in selfishness and can be made very enticing."

Who Pays for Wet Fight?

"Soon it will be disclosed who is furnishing the money for the concentrated attack against the prohibition law. The president of the W. C. T. U., Mrs. Boole, has asked recently how many of the women opposing prohibition are spending their own money.

"It will be disclosed that brewers and distillers are behind the few rich people paying for the fight. These are the people who are for the old-time saloon, without which we can never have the return of beer. Ninety per cent of sales in the old saloons was beer, causing drunkenness, poverty and crime.

"What a story the children and grandchildren of these people will have to tell 50 years from now. Will the bargain cry, 'We want beer,' which rang out at the Detroit convention of the American Legion, be any honor 50 years hence to the descendants of these men? I think not," he concluded.

Women's Finance Talks Scheduled at Y. W. C. A.

"Finance for Women" is the subject of a series of talks being given by Miss Mary Jane Winfree, woman banker, at 7 o'clock each Monday evening at the Young Women's Christian Association, Seventeenth and K streets northwest.

A series of talks on legal subjects by John R. Kirkpatrick, assistant United States attorney, member of the faculty of Columbus University School of Law, is now going on, presented on Tuesday evenings.

Traffic Shows Increase On American Airlines

A definite increase in business was noticed by the scheduled air lines operating in the continental United States, both as to the number of passengers and the amount of express carried, during August as compared to July, according to figures released yesterday by the aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce.

The lines showed an increase of 9,000 passengers during August and miles flown increased about 500,000. About 60,000 pounds more express was hauled through the air in August than July. These gains were shown by 33 of the 42 companies operating during July.

180 Stitches Needed For Man's Wounds

Physicians at Casualty Hospital Are Told He Went to "Sociable."

Saturday night sociables may come and go, but one—which ended early yesterday—will linger for a long time in the memories of Joe Flood, colored, of 1224 Maryland avenue northeast, and Casualty Hospital internes.

One hundred and eighty stitches were sewed into various parts of Joe's head and torso at the hospital as the result of knife wounds received as the aftermath of a "sociable" he attended Saturday night. Despite his wounds his condition is not serious.

John Ray, colored, 28, 1026 Sixteenth street northeast, was arrested yesterday morning in connection with the stabbing of Flood and charged with assault [illegible] deadly weapon. He denied being Flood's attacker.

Capital Bridal Pair Given Pope's Autographed Photo

Pius XI Sends His Regards to Dr. Ludwig Mirabella and His Wife.

A certificate bearing the photograph and signature of his holiness, Pope Pius XI, was forwarded from Vatican City as a blessing on the occasion of the wedding last night at the Holy Rosary Church, of Camille R. Manganaro, of Washington, to Dr. Ludwig M. Mirabella, of New York.

The certificate, a special apostolic benediction, is the first of its kind to be worded in the English language; heretofore, Latin has been used. Peter F. Manganaro, brother to the bride, who is studying theology in Rome, translated the Latin text of the benediction into English, designed the certificate and presented it to the Pope, for his blessing and his signature. The benediction is a singular honor as only few in the world have received it.

A cable from Vatican City, received and read during the marriage ceremony also bestowed the papal benediction. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Nicholas DeCarlo, pastor of the Holy Rosary Church.

A brother to the bride, Dr. Raphael N. Manganaro, of Washington acted as best man, and Miss Rose A. Manganaro was the maid of honor. Mr. Anthony Manganaro, the bride's father, gave the bride in marriage.

Musical selections on the organ and "Ave Maria" sung by Miss Clotilde Mirabella, sister to the bridgroom, were heard at the church. After the services, a reception dinner was held at the Mayflower Hotel and was followed by dancing, vocal entertainment and other features.

The bride and bridegroom leave tonight for a honeymoon trip to Bermuda. They will live in New York City.

ACIDS FROM SMOKE THREATEN EDIFICES

Opening of Pores in Stone Destroying Surfaces of Monuments.

The Capital's most treasured monuments and edifices, including the Washington Monument, the Lincoln Memorial, the Peace Monument and the Patent Office, are threatened if some action is not taken to counteract onslaughts of acid laden air and frost, according to scientists of the Bureau of Standards.

D. W. Kessler, one of the authorities for this prediction, explains that the way is paved for the attack by frost on limestone and marble by rain saturated with acid from soot laden air. Virtually all limestone and marble surfaces in the Capital are showing effects of such inroads, Mr. Kessler said.

Sulphuric acid and carbonic acid, by-products of imperfect soft coal combustion, are most corrosive of air-borne reagents, according to the scientist. These gather in great quantities when the air is still and smokestacks are discharging. Both are invisible. When these gases are mixed with fall rain water they collect upon surfaces of stone and concentrate in sufficient strength to attack them seriously, the Bureau of Standards authority pointed out.

Enlargement of pores in stones by this corrosion makes them subject to further action of frost which, in the last few years, has occasioned visible cracks on the surfaces of what would ordinarily be weatherproof surfaces, Mr. Kessler said.

Car Driver Sought After Hitting Truck

Beam Goes Through Car and Pins Man in Parked Machine.

Washington police have been asked to search for the driver of an automobile who fled from the car yesterday after it had struck a truck on the Rockville pike, 50 feet south of the old Georgetown road.

George Zarbus, 20 years old, of Cleveland, who, with his father, Harry, was moving a load of furniture to Washington, was slightly injured when a beam came through the cabin of the truck and pinned him to the steering wheel. He was treated for injuries at the Montgomery County Hospital.

The men had stopped along the road because one of the truck tires was punctured. They were asleep when the automobile struck the rear end of the truck, driving the beam through the cabin. The automobile was listed as owned by a Washington firm.

WORLD SERIES SONG.

I.

WHO IS it socks 'em on the nose?
It's Martin!
Who is the man of mighty blows?
It's Martin!
Who gets a single when he likes?
Who at the bad ones seldom strikes?
Whose praise is sung through countless mikes?
"Pep" Martin!

II.

Who pulverizes pitchers great?
It's Martin!
Whose motto is "Get on! Don't wait!"
It's Martin!
Who knocks those timely singles thru?
Who gets the "doubles" when they're due?
Who gets the screaming "homer," too?
"Pep" Martin!

III.

Who glories in the stolen base?
It's Martin!
Who scampers all about the place?
Why, Martin!
Who finds a series just good fun,
And isn't awed by anyone?
That rippin', roarin', son-o-gun,
"Pep" Martin!

IV.

WHO IS a rabbit on his feet?
This Martin!
Who warms the heart of Gabby Street?
Just Martin!
Who comes to bat with vim and zest,
To give the fans his very best,
And never fails to stand the test?
"Pep" Martin!

V.

Who plays that game with all he's got?
"Pep" Martin!
Who, in the pinch, is sweet and hot?
One Martin!
Who takes the Mackmen for a ride?
Who can't be roped or bound or tied?
Who is this country's joy and pride?
"Pep" Martin!

VI.

Who fills his team with lots of vim?
It's Martin!
Who makes the pitchers sad and grim?
It's Martin!
Who doesn't seem to give a damn?
Who says to pitching aces, "Scram?"
Who is the boast of Uncle Sam?
Precisely!

REV. J. B. SHEEHAN IS RADIO SPEAKER

True Test of Faith Lies in Humbleness, Says Priest Over Air.

The true test of our faith and confidence is precisely when adversity has humbled us at the feet of our Heavenly Father in prayer, the Rev. Joseph B. Sheehan declared yesterday in the Washington Catholic Radio hours broadcast from the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

"Such faith is our triumph, and our triumph will endure forever," he declared.

"These are the times when we must 'humble ourselves in prayer at the feet of God, casting all our care upon Him;' when we must strengthen our faith in the assurance of St. Peter 'that He hath care of us.'"

The Rev. Francis J. Hurney, director of the radio services, presided. He was assisted by the Rev. J. Kelly Reese. The Rev. Stanly A. Czyz was celebrant at benediction with the Rev. Chester Czyz as subdeacon.

A violin solo by Miss Ann Arlenn, and vocal solos by Miss Florence Yocum and Miss Kathryn Bowers, under the direction of Prof. Harry Wheaton Howard, at the organ, were presented on the musical program.

New Air Line to Reduce Travel Time to Norfolk

A new air line between Washington and Norfolk, Va., will be inaugurated Thursday by the Ludington Airline, it was announced yesterday by Gene Vidal, executive vice president. The schedule will slash more than four hours from the existing train time. The new service will use ten-passenger trimotored planes on two round trip flights daily.

Should the business warrant, Mr. Vidal said, fast express ships cruising at 180 miles an hour and making the flight in close to 50 minutes, may be put in use. The Ludington line has ships of this fast type on its express service to New York.

PLANS FOR CITYWIDE HALLOWEEN FETE TO BE COMPLETE TODAY

Committee Arranges for Novel Lighting System in Parade.

MEETING THIS EVENING TO COMPLETE PROGRAM

Valuable Prizes Will Be Presented for Winners in Float Contest.

Finishing touches to plans for one of Washington's most brilliant celebrations will be completed tonight by the general committee for the first city-wide Halloween celebration at its meeting to be held at the District Building at 8 o'clock.

The committee has already arranged for a novel system of lighting the route of the parade, for valuable prizes for winning floats and costumes, for dozens of bands and many other features which will tend to make the affair a gala bit of pagentry. One of the most important features of the celebration already worked out will be a dance on Constitution avenue following the parade.

Dozens of civic organizations are banded together for the purpose of making the celebration a success. All citizens' associations, business clubs, women's clubs, parent-teacher associations are engaged in active preparations for a part in the program, which is sponsored by the Greater National Capital committee, the Board of Trade, Chamber of Commerce, Merchants and Manufacturers Association and the Federation of Citizens Associations.

Starts in Northwest.

The parade will start from Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, to Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue and then to Constitution avenue. On Constitution avenue it will move to Seventeenth street northwest. In addition to the elaborate lighting plan tentatively agreed upon, a succession of colored flares will illuminate the parade.

A stand will be erected for the judges who will select the best floats, cars and costumed marchers. Seven silver cups have already been received as prizes by the committee. These trophies were donated by citizens of Washington. Awards will be made for the most effective commercial float, the most effective non-commercial float, for the best costume chosen by a local costumed participant, the best costume worn by an out-of-town participant, and for the most effectively decorated private car.

Approximately 40 additional smaller awards and possibly a few more larger prizes will be offered.

Community Center Aids.

The Community Center Department, headed by Mrs. Elizabeth K. Peeples, is cooperating closely with the celebration committee in offering advice and suggestions on the selection of carnival costumes, the decoration of floats and private cars to any one desiring aid along these lines. Experts in the matter of costuming and effective decoration will be at the Community Center Department every Tuesday morning and Thursday afternoon until Halloween.

A large number of bands have signified an intention of participating in the parade and it is expected that more than one group of musicians will furnish the music for the dance on Constitution avenue afterward. Several organizations are planning to have their own bands in the line with them.
